Doeberiener, Park team up with top PA cow

BY DONNA TOMMELLEO

BLOOMSBURG — Two Western Pennsylvania Holsteins captured Grand Champion and Reserve Grand Champion honors, Wednesday evening, at the 1981 Pennsylvania Holstein Championship Show.

Described by show judge Mary Briggs of Brigeen Farms, Maine, as a "super cow," Parkacres Sun Ivy topped more than 200 of the state's finest Black and Whites at the Bloomsburg Fairgrounds. The 7-year-old, also the Senior Champion, was the aged cow entry of Ed Doeberiener, Jamestown and John Park, Brookville.

It wasn't the first time the Ivy cow carried the Grand Champion banner this year. Last month she was named Grand Champion at the Western Championship Holstein Show in Butler.

Sired by Penstate Ivanhoe Star, the champ is out of Wintercrest Sunbeam.

Judge Briggs opted for a younger animal as Reserve Grand and Senior Champion.

Ed-Em Princess Willow Maria, the 4-year-old entry of Erie County dairyman Howard Hammond was chosen as Reserve Grand Champion. Hammond's animal is sired by Willow-Farm Rockman Ivanhoe and out of Valley-Gate Astronaut Princess.

Western Pennsylvania Holsteins also comprised the top Regional Championship Herd in the show. The regional herd inciuded eight animals from Erie, Lawrence, Crawford, Mercer and Butler counties.

Parkesburg breeder Donald Hostetter repeated his Eastern Championship performance and took home the Premier Breeder and Exhibitor banners. Hostetter's Maplebound prefix topped four of the six group classes in the show.

Judge Briggs chose Delmer Cornman's senior yearling for Reserve Junior Champion. The Mechanicsburg dairyman's bred

Gray-Valley Kit Builder Aris was named Junior Champion at the State Holstein Championship Show in Bloomsburg, Wednesday. The Mansfield youngsters are the daughters of Harold and Leona Robson.

2 'Chapmanions' top 4-H show

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

LANCASTER — If there is such a word as a "Chapmanion," it was coined at Thursday's Lancaster County 4-H Pig Roundup and Sale.

In fact, it was coined twice.

At the top of the champion list in the Roundup with the first four awards were the Chapman sisters, Liz, 16, and Chris, 14, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Chapman, R5 Manheim.

Liz had the grand champion of the show, a 225-pound heavyweight that brought $4.25 a pound when Jerry Clemens, of Hatfield Packing, stopped nodding his head to the auctioneer. She also had the champion trio, which included the grand champ.

Sister Chris had the reserve grand champion, a 220-pound medium weight, which brought $2.05 a pound. It was also bought by Hatfield. And Chris had the reserve champion trio.

In all, thirty-five 4-Hers showed 138 head – or more than 15 tons of pork – at the roundup held at the Lancaster Stockyards. The sale totaled $18,680.52 for an average of 61.3 cents a pound.

The Chapman sisters garnered a total of $2,113.20 for their grand and reserve individuals and trios that will now be credited to their future college bank accounts.

The Chapman sisters come from one of the county's leading swine breeding operations. Their father, John, is in partnership with Mark Nestleroth in Dutch Valley Farm.

The champion swine were Duroc-sired out of sows that are York-Landrace-Duroc crosses.

Liz and Chris work together on their swine projects, helping each other out in the feeding and preshow exercising.

Chris had the reserve champion at last year's 4-H Roundup. Liz had the champion at the Manheim Fair two years ago and the champion heavyweight at the State Farm Show, also two years ago.

Other top results at the Roundup:

Champion Pen of 10 – Bobby Brubaker.

Reserve Champion Pen of 10 – Bruce Sipling.

Rep. Walker stresses long term plan

LANCASTER — Many U.S. citizens have a lot of questions as a result of the present administration's economic package, effective October 1, 1981, and U.S. Representative Robert S. Walker was in the county Tuesday to field many inquiries from local farmers.

On his tour of five Lancaster County farms, the East Petersburg native commented that the majority of questions concerned interest rates.

"By the end of the year we should see a fairly dramatic downward shift in the interest rates moving toward 15 percent in the prime rate," Walker explained.

However, Walker's main message urged farmers and families the time is now to "buckle down for the long haul."

"Both Republican and Democratic administrations took short term expedient approaches to the economy rather than taking a long term approach."

When asked about the present Social Security system, Walker explained the current system was created as a supplementary program. Due to the addition of many social welfare and disability programs, the system has increased an astounding 1,5000,000 percent.

funds will go bankrupt, particularly the old age and returement funds but other funds within the program will compensate.

"We should use the short-term crisis to make the long-term adjustments."

The future job market may broaden he suggested. Advanced

ATTENTION HOG PRODUCERS

Beginning Tuesday, July 14th, and for every Tuesday thereafter, Walter M. Dunlap and Sons will conduct a fat hog sale.

This sale will be in addition to the Monday, Wednesday and Saturday sales, thereby giving all hog producers a choice of marketing their hogs any one of four days a week instead of three.

It is important to note that all hogs consigned for Tuesday's market must arrive between 6 A.M. and 9 A.M.

Moyer's DeKalb
Discriminating Poultryman

Brown egg layers used to be only economically housed in litter-floor houses. The DeKalb Warren Sex Sal-Link has broken through that tradition of discrimination. They are excellent producers in cage operations as well.

Whether in floor or cage houses, brown or white egg layers, Moyer's DeKalb offers:

Through midweek, Slaughter Steers and Heifers steady to .25 higher. Cows were 4.00-6.00 lower than late last week, mostly 5.00 off. Bulls closed steady to weak.

Four Day Receipts	11,700
Last Week	12,000
Year Ago	10,750

Demand locally for Steers and Heifers held fairly good. Small Wednesday receipts did not reflect midweek pressure on dressed beef. Cows lost more than last week's sharp advance as dressed trade fell and local marketings expanded. Slaughter Steers made up 43 pct of the estimated five day total, Good to average Choice 1000-1125 lbs. predominating; Heifers 36 pct. With continued packer preference for 950-1050 lb. weights. Limited numbers 900-1000 lb. Steers and 850-900 lb. Heifers returned to feeding accounts. Cows made up 13 pct; Feeders 7 pct.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

SEPT. 7-13, 1981

Morning dews and some fall hues.

Cat nights begin now ... Labor Day Sept. 7 (Mon.) ... Full moon Sept. 13 (Sun.) ... Average length of days for the week, 12 hours, 42 minutes ... "Oh, Susanna" first sung Sept. 11, 1847 ... Galveston, Texas, destroyed by hurricane and 6,000 died Sept. 8, 1900 ... Being unhappy in this season is almost like treason.

Ask the Old Farmer: While reading a book recently I came across a list of articles that were sent by John Hancock to his fiancée, Dorothy Quincy. One item was listed as a pair of black calem do. Do you have any idea what a "calem do" is? F.K., Salem, Mass.

It is generally known that John's penmanship was of the best, but we wonder about his spelling. In searching for the answer to your question, we find, under very similar spelling, that it could be: a small bird like a quail, a small Turkish rug, or a pair of mitts — gloves of a sort which leave part or the whole of the fingers exposed. This is the best we can do

Home Hints: To keep small insects out of flour, try keeping it in the freezer. It never freezes

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Showers continue, then clearing midweek; temperatures mild.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Cloudy and cool most of week; light rain toward end.

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Week starts sunny and warm; showers and mild from midweek on.

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Rain, cool becoming hot; variable clouds and showers midweek; temperatures continue hot.

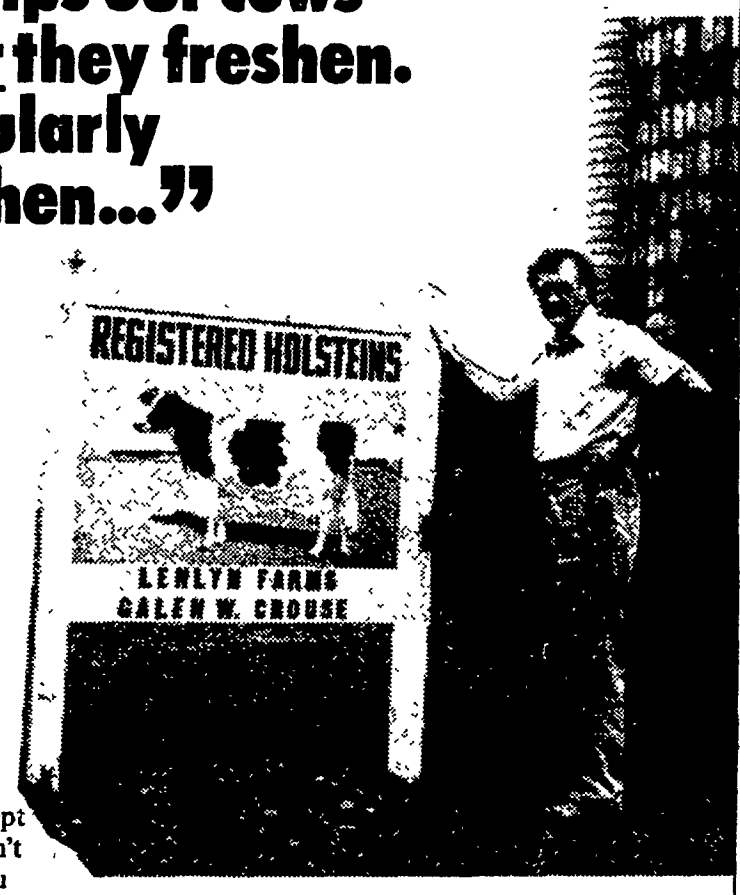
Galen Crouse, Schoeneck, PA



Galen Crouse has his 125 registered Holsteins on a regular prefreshening worming program with TBZ. He thinks prefreshening worming should be standard management practice.

"Everybody knows cows have worms. And worms do the most harm when cows freshen because that's when they give the most milk. We know, because when we began worming with TBZ® about two years ago - at freshening - production didn't fall off as quick."

"Keeps them eating"

"After worming, we noticed the cows kept eating better. And, of course, if they don't eat, you don't get production. When you consider your production stays up and your cows don't get thin, the cost for worming is really minimum."

"Everybody recommends it"

"We started worming at freshening because our veterinarian recommended it. The State Extension people recommend it too. Worming is recommended at every meeting you go to. Everybody recommends it.

"We worm with TBZ in feed. It's a single treatment per lactation. We put it on grain in front of the cow and forget about it. The cows eat it right up. It's that simple."

"From what we've seen, we think worming with TBZ before freshening should be part of every management program." Your dealer, feed supplier, and veterinarian have TBZ in a feed or dosage form that fits your management. Start your prefreshening worming program with TBZ, now.

By Sheila Miller, Editor

Three 'R's can stand alone

Amber flashing lights turning to red, noisy high-pitched laughter and scurrying feet — these are the sights and sounds that remind us that school has once again called children back to the hallowed halls of education.

The three 'R's are still being taught, but in a slightly different manner. Instead of arithmetic you've got new math, and speed reading has replaced the Dick and Jane primers. And even writing classes have changed over the years, with left handed students not being subjected to right-handed-only disciplines.

But, here's something that may surprise you and should certainly shock you. Elementary teachers have added a fourth 'R' to the traditional readin', ritin' and 'rithmetic curriculum. They are now teaching Rights, i.e. animal rights.

According to John L. Crothers, Jr. of the University of Maryland, the Humane Society of the United States, through their National Association for the Advancement of Humane Education, has gone so far as to draw up four curriculum guides geared for kindergarten through the sixth grade.

Crothers stressed that these educational patterns follow close on the heels of a phase-by-phase program already being carried out in England and Europe. There, brain-washing thoroughly indoctrinates people to 'animal rights' thinking and primes them for legislation and regulation, he stated.

Although we are not aware of any school districts in our immediate areas endorsing this type of instruction, there are reports of Maryland teachers placing students in small cardboard boxes to help them understand how a chicken feels when it's cooped up in a cage. Since the Humane Society guides were mailed out nationwide, it could be possible for the program to infiltrate our school districts sooner than we would like to think.

In the state of Minnesota, a pilot project for teaching the Humane Society program was partially funded by the state. A Minnesota Humane Society spokesperson explained that the "humane education principles are being incorporated into all areas of education — language arts, social studies, math, health and science."

According to the Livestock Conservation Institute, the guides ask the children to understand that they, too, are animals and need to be more sensitive to other members of the animal kingdom and their rights. The propaganda leads the children on through lessons to scrutinize a modern farm operation and list all its inhumane practices affecting farm animals.

Scary, huh? And, livestock farmers aren't the only ones being pinned on the chopping block. Grain farmers also are being taken through the mill when children are called on to express how they feel about all those 'nasty' chemicals that are put in, on, and around their food by farmers trying to control insects and weeds.

As if this horror story isn't bad enough already, the Humane Society has made a game out of animal rights — a voting values game in which they are asked to vote by holding thumbs up or down for which animals they would eat.

"How would you like to travel for hours crowded together with no room to exercise or move around and no water?"

This is only one of many questions posed by the animals rights lesson manuals. There are many, many more waiting to tempt the eager minds of our youth as they drink up the ideas of their teachers without questioning.

Be aware that these types of subjects have been creeping into our public and private school systems.

If your children come home with texts like Animal Factories or Animal Rights: Stories of People Who Defend the Rights of Animals under their arms, it shouldn't take long to figure out that these are not for light reading entertainment.

What should you do? Contact the teacher and the school superintendent for starters. Let them know you don't appreciate this biased instruction. Ask to be allowed to come in to talk to the class.

Then contact your state legislator, and go to Washington D.C. if you have to in order to have your message heard that your tax dollars won't go to support this type of program.

But the best defense is not to wait until teachers have already begun instruction using these guides to make your feelings known. Check with your school district and ask if these guides are in the teachers' hands. Then spell it out — the original three 'R's don't need Rights to keep them company.

BLV research issues

As dean of the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine, I feel compelled to respond to your editorial comments (Lancaster Farming, August 29, 1981) about research conducted by members of my faculty at New Bolton Center. The research, showing that infectious bovine leukemia virus is frequently present in cows' milk, was reported in the journal Science by Professor J.F. Ferrer and associates.

In essence, you criticize the University for preparing and distributing a news release on Ferrer's research findings and question our motives by stating that "....in order to get more funding, the researchers needed to make a big splash—get the most mileage on their 'discovery' ".

I regret that you didn't contact my office to get all of the relevant facts before publishing your remarks.

Members of my faculty appreciate fully that information arising from research on infectious or toxic agents in human foodstuffs must be conveyed to the public will accuracy and sensitivity. Thus, when it was learned that the editors of Science would make available to the press a summary of Ferrer's report, we were concerned that unwarranted public apprehension about the safety of cows' milk would result.

Consequently, we asked the University news bureau to prepare a carefully drafted press release dealing with the two main issues in Ferrer's report. One issue deals with the question of whether or not infectious BLV is present in cows' milk. The answer to this question is unequivocally yes. The results reported by Ferrer's group in Science are clear-cut and prove conclusively that infectious virus is present in the milk of most infected cattle.

TO MOW OR NOT TO MOW ALFALFA

The annual question comes up, should I mow alfalfa the first part of September or not. It is not just a yes or no question. If you have left one of your cuttings go into full bloom, then you do not need to be concerned; if you have not, then do not cut the first two weeks of September. The reason for this is, it's a period when the plants are developing rhizomes for next years growth. To disturb this development will result in less rhizomes and less growth next year. The final cutting can be made in late September or early October.

The application of a phosphorus-potash fertilizer this fall is a good management practice. Use your soil test results as a guide on rates of application. On stands that have been established this spring, from which one or two cuttings have already been made, it's best to allow it to stand, this will give a little better winter protection.

Alfalfa cuttings have been made on such a regular schedule and growth was unusually good that the plants should be in excellent condition to go into dormancy as cold weather arrives later on.

TO BE ALERT FOR SILO GAS

The corn crop ripened in a hurry this past week and we are into silo-filling time. Silo gasses pose a real danger this year. The greatest danger from "nitrogen dioxide gas" or better known as silo gas is during the first 12 to 60 hours after filling the silo. However, you should be extra careful for at least 10 days. Silo gas is a deadly gas

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

Background Scripture:
Genesis 1:1 through 2:3.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 33:4-9.

I hope God has a good sense of humor—how could he survive our follies without one?—for his children are at it again (or still): fighting bitterly among themselves over the creation accounts in the Book of Genesis. It's that old literal "7-days-vs-Darwinian evolution" fuss that's gotten so many people steamed-up over the past century. Whatever else God intended when he inspired the writing of the Bible, I am convinced he never intended this book as something for his children to fight over. There's nothing that says they can't or shouldn't disagree about its meaning, but that they need not get so hostile, arrogant, and unloving over it.

In the Beginning, God...

What God needs, I'm sure, is not people to fight over the Book of Genesis, but people who will open their hearts so that it can instruct and inspire them. There's very little inspiration taking place within us when the bloodline is rising silently above our collar. Many people spend so much time and effort fighting over whether the Genesis accounts are literal reports that they miss some of the really vital things that God is trying to say to both literalists and non-literalists alike.

One of the most important of these—and of far more importance than how many days it took—is the declaration: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth" (Genesis 1:1). The world did not blunder into being without plan or purpose, but represents the Creator's creative will behind everything that happened. God was in the whole process of creation, so that Genesis begins with the affirmation that in the very beginning, it was God who conceived and began to create his world, just as the writer of Revelation closes the Bible with the declaration that God is at the end of all things, too, and the whole Bible in between Genesis and Revelation is a testimony that God is ever-present from the beginning and the ending. God didn't start the whole thing going and then go on vacation or retirement: he created us, he moves us toward our destiny with him, and, in between, he is constantly with his creation.

And Behold!

Some of the ancient people believed that the world had been created by accident as some of the gods brought it into being without forethought and purpose. But the Genesis stories of creation indicate that there is a plan, an orderly progression towards the purpose God wants to fulfill.

Most unique, however, is the concept that the world that God created is inherently good. God intended to create the world, he followed—and-follows—a plan and, best of all, he was pleased with his work: "And God saw everything that he had made, and behold, it was very good" (1:31). Note: "very good"! Not "fair-to-middling," not "pretty good," but "very good"! God was pleased with his creation and so, too, should we be. Often, religious people have regarded the world as "evil," "corrupt", something from which to escape. Our sins may cloud this world's skies, but the world God created—and continues to create—is VERY GOOD!

"I know your farm animals depend on you, but you can't list them as dependents!"

OUR READERS WRITE,

The other issue is whether or not BLV poses a human health hazard. In this regard, Ferrer has never stated or implied that BLV infects human beings. On the contrary, his report in Science states that the available evidence fails to show that BLV infects humans or contributes to the causation of human leukemia.

However, Ferrer cautions that studies conducted to date do not entirely rule out the possibility of human infection and that a definitive answer to this question must await the development of a molecular probe which is fully representative of the BLV genome. Such a probe is necessary in order to thoroughly explore the possibility that segments of BLV genetic material are present in the cells of human leukemia patients or of people exposed to BLV.

In his report in Science, as well as in the University's press release, Ferrer states that while pasteurization apparently inactivates BLV particles, we do not know whether the genetic material of the virus, which is incorporated into infected milk cells, is inactivated at pasteurization temperatures.

Ferrer and his colleagues have never recommended people stop or curb their consumption of milk. He points out that while man has probably been drinking milk from BLV-infected cows for a long time, human leukemia is a relatively rare disease.

He believes it is also important to take into account the enormous nutritional benefits derived from drinking milk, and this, in his view, outweighs the very small possible risk. However, Ferrer does feel that infants should not be fed raw milk from BLV-infected cows and suggests people who may wish to drink raw milk can have tests done to make sure that their cows are uninfected.

But even if BLV should, as we expect, have no role whatever in the causation of human leukemia, the mere fact that a leukemogenic virus is present in cow's milk places the Commonwealth's and the nation's great dairy industry under a threatening cloud.

Beyond the public health question, BLV infection (at least 20 percent of the American dairy cattle population is infected) is perhaps the greatest single threat to the large American cattle export business. Most countries of the world do not allow the importation of BLV infected cattle or of semen from infected bulls. Indeed, some countries even forbid importation of cattle testing negative for BLV, but which originate from herds where any level of infection is present. We can expect that this regulatory policy will one day be applied universally.

West Germany, a country with an official BLV eradication program is already displacing the United States in the cattle export business. Congress has heard again and again that the American automobile industry and some other industries are taking second place to Germany and Japan. Here is an instance of great importance to agriculture where the United States can avoid taking second place to other countries. But first we must get on with the necessary research.

In preparing this letter, I am motivated by a desire to set the record straight on how the University handled the story of Ferrer's research findings after learning that Science customarily sends summaries of its published reports to the news media. But perhaps a more important objective to be served is to stress the urgent need for an intensive research effort to settle, once and for all, the issue of whether or not BLV poses a potential threat to human health and to move ahead on the development of an effective cattle vaccine against BLV infection. That the development of such a vaccine is feasible has already been demonstrated by Ferrer in recent experiments at New Bolton Center.

Water fight

Andrew J. Watson is correct in his proclamation on page A13 of the Aug. 29, 1981 issue of L.F. concerning "Water War". If we have any concern for the future of the U.S., we all will respond to his message.

Now in Bill 1483, as in most all other government regulations and controls, the intended benefits never reach the goals of the good intentions, intended!

We see a good example in the Narvon Mine situation. In that IU, a large business conglomerate, is able to benefit from government controls through the pretense of complying with DER. It uses it's power and influence to convince the world that it is always right and doing what is best for all of society.

Bill 1483 is another step in helping to expand the power of these companys.

We don't need more regulations, we need a complete change in present directions and attitudes in all facets of today's society, starting with the methods of supplying, using and disposing of water and waste products.

With water, the sooner we realize that adding waste to our water supply and then filtering and processing this water back to drinking purposes is not technology, but plain stupidity. The cave people even knew better than to pollute their drinking water! If government would help develop and implement a chemical-toilet-type system, instead of more regulations, we would all benefit.

Also with the water supply, the answer would be in each home utilizing a cistern-type storage system. The water run-off from roofs and driveways would supply more than enough water to meet our needs. Here again if government would encourage, develop and implement such a system, we would all benefit.

Regulations should only be a means to attain a goal and not an absolute law to control our lifestyles. If society dictates a certain life-style then all of society should help pay to implement it so we all benefit, equally!

Cattle cycle up in Pa.

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania farmers had 2,100,000 cattle and calves on hand July 1, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service. This is a nine percent increase from the July, 1980 level of 1,920,000 head, and sets a new record for cattle and calves on hand in the state.

The keystone state's calf crop for 1981 is estimated at 890,000 up nine percent from 1980. The 960,000 cows that have calved total seven percent more than a year ago. Milk cow numbers at 706,000 were virtually unchanged from July, 1980.

Milk cow replacement heifers 500 pounds and over at 306,000 were up six percent. Beef cows, at 254,000, were 32 percent above a year earlier. Beef cow replacement heifers at 47,000 head, were up 12 percent.

Other heifers, 500 pounds and over at 45,000, were up two percent. Steers and bulls in this same weight category numbered 240,000 and 45,000, up 33 and seven percent respectively, from last year. All calves under 500 pounds numbered 457,000, eight percent above July 1, 1980.

U.S. cattle and calves on July 1 otaled 125 million head, two ercent above last year and six ercent above July, 1979.

All cows and heifers that have alved, at 51.1 million head, are up wo percent from a year ago and even percent above July 1, 1979.

Beef cows, at 40.2 million head, are up two percent from last year, and milk cows at 10.9 million head are up one percent from 1980.

Other class inventories on July 1 and their changes from last year are as follows: all heifers 500 pounds and over, 18.4 million, up three percent; milk replacement heifers, 4.64 million, up six percent; beef replacement heifers, 6.24 million, up seven percent; other heifers, 7.51 million, down one percent; steers 500 pounds and over, 16.3 million, down two percent; bulls 500 pounds and over, 2.64 million, up one percent; and heifer, steer and bull calves under 500 pounds, 36.6 million, up two percent.

The 1981 calf crop, at 45.6 million head, is one percent above the 45.4 million born in 1980.

Two counties gain, five slip in brucellosis battle

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In the continuing battle against brucellosis, one county in Utah and one in Idaho were declared certified free of the disease this month by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

At the same time, five counties in Florida, Georgia and Texas lost their certified-free status, according to Paul Becton, the veterinarian who directs the brucellosis program for the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

When counties gain certified-free status, cattle move from them with fewer restrictions.

The new certified-free counties are Franklin in Idaho and Garfield in Utah. Those losing their certified-free status and dropping to modified-certified are Seminole County, Fla.; Fannin, Franklin and Habersham Counties, Ga.; and Hansford County, Texas.

Two-thirds of the nation's counties and 31 entire states, plus the U.S. Virgin Islands, are certified free, Becton said. All but four counties in Florida, two Louisiana parishes, and Yellowstone National Park are modified-certified.

There are 1,096 counties in 19 states, plus Puerto Rico, in modified-certified status.

Brucellosis, sometimes called Bang' disease in animals, is a bacterial disease of cattle, swine and other animals, and can be transmitted to people.

Human brucellosis, sometimes called undulent fever, is debilitating but treatable. It is an occupational hazard for butchers, livestock producers and others who come in contact with infected animals or their freshly killed carcasses.

Raw or unpasteurized milk also can be a source of human infection.

The four Florida counties still listed as non-certified are Chalotte, Hardee, Highlands, and Okeechobee. Still non-certified in Louisiana are Caremon and Lafourche parishes.

To become certified brucellosis-free, a county must have no infection at time of certification or recertification and a herd infection rate of less than one percent during the previous 18 months. Counties with less than five percent herd infection rate are modified-certified. When more than five percent, they are noncertified.

Counties lose status if infection rates are too high or if certain disease controls are lacking.

Brucellosis readily spreads. Abortions and breeding problems caused by the disease can mean serious production losses for cattle growers and dairymen.

Environmental board approves strip mine reclamation fund

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Environmental Quality Board unanimously approved a proposal creating a statewide surface mine reclamation fund to be financed by a $50-per-acre fee for surface mining permits. The non-refundable fee is expected to raise approximately $1 million annually for reclamation purposes.

The EQB is a 21-member independent panel of executive agency officials, legislators and citizens charged with passing regulations to be administered by DER.

Implementation of the surface mine reclamation fund will be accompanied by a reduction in the bonds strip mine operators now are required to post for newly permitted areas.

The minimum bonding rate, set by the secretary of the Department of Environmental Resources, is to drop from $4,000 per acre to $3,000 per acre.

DER Secretary Clifford L. Jones, who also serves as chairman of the EQB, lauded the board's action, saying, "Establishment of this reclamination fund will help solve one of Pennsylvania's more serious environmental problems. This is an important breakthrough."

Why wait until you bring your crops to market to learn what they're worth—

Come to a free Merrill Lynch commodity futures seminar and learn how to protect yourself against the uncertainties of the market and improve profits.

If you're a farmer, you've probably had this happen to you: you work hard, harvest a nice crop, expect good profits, and—bingo! Prices suddenly drop, and your profits go out on the wind.

Fluctuating market prices... they're truly one of the greatest risks the farmer faces today.

But did you know you can do something about this risk? You can take advantage of commodity futures to protect your profits.

That's why Merrill Lynch invites you to a free seminar where you can learn all about the commodity futures market and hedging...starting with the very basics. Here are just a few of the things you'll discover:

- What the futures market is—how it works—and how you the farmer can make it work for you.
- Why today's farmer may rightfully be called a "Risk Manager."
- What do you sacrifice in order to gain the price stability offered by hedging?
- The vital concept of "margin"—what it means, how it works, and why you don't have to put up tens of thousands of dollars to buy or sell commodity futures.
- "Basis"—the all important voice of the marketplace which can help you determine the quality of cash grain quotes and help you market your crop more profitably.
- How to determine how much of your crop to hedge.
- 3 worldwide events that are having a profound effect on U.S. farmers.

And there's much more. It adds up to a virtual "course" in commodity futures trading—conducted by Merrill Lynch, one of the world's largest commodity futures broker.

Whether you're a complete newcomer to the world of futures or a farmer who wants to expand his knowledge and skills, this free seminar could help reduce your exposure to market fluctuations, and lock-in profits. For your reservation, call or mail the coupon.

You have three dates and locations to choose from:

Monday, September 14th, 7:30 p.m. at Treadway Inn, 222 Eden Road, Exit 272 No. Rt. 30 bypass, Lancaster or Tuesday, September 15th, 7:30 p.m.

Lancaster Countians will serve on advisory board

SOUTHAMPTON — Daniel L. Martin, Manheim, was elected chairman of the Federal Order 4 Advertising and Promotion Agency Advisory Committee at the August quarterly meeting in Harrisburg.

Robert B. McSparran, Peach Bottom, was elected secretary of the committee.

Martin, vice president of Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative, previously served as secretary of the Committee. He is also vice president of Dairy Council, Inc., and a director for Holly Milk Cooperative.

The 35-year farmer has firm convictions about the necessity of advertising and promoting milk.

"We need to improve our adult advertising. Although the new theme, 'Milk. The fresher refresher.' is an improvement over some national themes, I feel the local 'Milk. The soft soft drink.' is the most effective advertising theme milk has ever had." Martin explained.

McSparren, president of Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative, has served as a member of the committee ten years. He is also past president of Pennmarva Dairymen's Federation and is a director for both Holly Milk Cooperative and Dairy Council, Inc.

Other officers elected to serve are: David Weitzer, Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association, vice chairman; and Ward Zigler, Capitol Milk Producers, treasurer.

The Federal Order 4 Advertising and Promotion Agency, Baltimore, Maryland, invests milk promotion dollars in advertising, promotion and nutrition education. The agency appropriated $6 million in 1980.

Nat'l leaders meet to discuss farmland protection

WHEELING, W.Va. — Conservation and protection of farmland are among the top three priorities of Secretary of Agriculture John Block and the Reagan administration farm program, delegates to the Northeast meeting of the National Association of Conservation Districts were told here recently.

In separate addresses, the national president of NACD, Lyle Bauer of Harper, Kan., and the national chief of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, Norman Berg said Secretary Block's top goals are increased sales of agricultural products abroad, improvements in agricultural research and efforts to control soil erosion and to reduce the loss of farmland.

Berg and other speakers also indicated the Agriculture Department may encourage more initiative and decision-making on conservation at the local and state levels, with continued federal support in the forms of technical and financial assistance.

The SCS chief said the department will offer three alternatives for the future later this year, as part of the preparation for a five-year national conservation plan under the Resources Conservation Act of 1977. One choice will be continuation of present programs, a second will be redirection of Agriculture Department programs to solve several pressing resource problems, and the third will be the second alternative with increased roles—including policy-making—for local people and state governments.

Tom Barlow, senior project staff for the Natural Resources Defense Council, made a similar recommendation in his role as representative of a private group interested in preservation of natural resources. He proposed local boards of farmers to decide which conservation practices should be used by farmers and at what rate they should be incorporated into farm plans.

Barlow said, "We have suggested that these local boards have the authority at some future point to order a withholding of federal financial assistance to those farmers not applying these simple practices."

Howard Tankersly, director of the SCS Land Use Division, said he saw local controls already at work in the efforts to prevent loss of 3 million acres of farmland per year to other uses, mostly urban. He was on a panel with spokesmen discussing farmland preservation programs and the results of the National Agricultural Lands Study.

"The most exciting thing I've heard here today is all of this going on to retain agricultural land and you'll notice not one dime of it is coming out of the federal government," Tankersly said. "But what they're doing in New Jersey and what they're doing in Maryland and in 48 other states, the county and state governments and municipal governments are doing it on their own.

"In fact, right now in phenomenon which is in large measure initiated and supported by conservation districts is driving the federal government ag land retention efforts."

NACD President Bauer told the delegates he has heard few objections to the new farm bill despite the many planned budget cuts in most departments of government. He said he does not believe conservation will be cut as badly this year as it was in the 1970s through depletion of the dollar by inflation.

West Virginia Agriculture Commissioner Gus R. Douglass urged the Northeast leaders to make their conservation districts accountable to the public through competitive elections and also accountable in uniform, careful bookkeeping.

In workshops, delegates learned the following news:

Research—Jerry Jung, director of the U.S. Pasture Research Lab at University Park, said his agency (Agricultural Research Service) is working with university experiment stations and SCS in developing new pasture forages.

They are using native grass varieties selected by SCS, he said, for marginal farmlands—hilly, acid, droughty or poorly drained. Such species as big bluestem and switchgrass grow in the Midwest, he said, but added, "If we bought seed out of the Great Plains, we would not have varieties as good as the ones SCS has selected." The native grasses produced excellent forage crops under adverse soil conditions and are "very efficient utilizers of fertilizers," Jung said.

He reported trying two brassicas imported from Europe and New Zealand, forage rape and forage turnip, as annual grazing crops. Seeded by no-till in existing pastures in August, they produce up to four tons per acre of high quality forage for October, November, and December. The existing pastures can be used again the following year.

Barton Parker of West Virginia University reported on the Allegheny Highlands Program. For 10 years WVU specialists made special efforts to deliver to farmers new technology on crops and livestock, in forms acceptable to the farmers. Continued study during the program and for the last two years showed the farmers changed methods, had more and better products and made more money, he said.

Water Resources—Lou Kirkaldie, SCS engineering geologist from Broomall, said 40,000 uncontrolled waste disposal areas in the country are leaking into water supplies that $40 billion would be needed to clean them up.

Resource Conservation and Development—There are now 194 RC&D areas, and they are having their best year ever, solving all kinds of resource problems, according to Assistant SCS Chief Richard Deusterhaus.

Farmers splash through rainy U. of Del. field day

A University of Delaware agronomist uses a grain drill and combine as an improvised stage to explain research and demonstration work to a crowd of rain-drenched farmers during the downpour at the recent field day.

NEWARK, Del. — They used to say, "It never rains for Field Day." But after 36 dry Farm and Home Field Days at the University of Delaware's experimental farm near Georgetown, they finally got a wet one.

Visiting farmers loved every drought-quenching drop of the near steady downpour that dumped a welcome 1.15 inches of rain on the August 12 festivities, however. After weeks of watching crops shrivel and dry in many downstate fields, no one was complaining.

Like field days at many other land grant colleges and agricultural experiment stations around the country, the Georgetown event usually features wagon and bus tours of research and Extension demonstration plots. These give farmers a chance to see what's being done to help solve some of the production problems with the crops they grow.

As the rain kept coming, substation director Ed Ralph and other field day planners had to make some quick logistical decisions, including where to feed the large crowd that normally gathers for the traditional chicken dinner in the farm grove at noon.

By calling on the hospitality of the congregation of the small white-painted Asbury Methodist Church just down the road — which made their dining hall available — and by squeezing folks into every available bit of space at the substation office building, they managed to feed about 500 people in spite of the downpour.

Impromptu indoor seminars on crop production and soil fertility were held in the research farm's new 100'x40' equipment storage building instead of the scheduled field tours.

Inside the huge Butler building, resourceful planners backed a grain drill up against a big red combine and used this makeshift stage for easel talks on current research and Extension projects related to the production of corn, soybeans and small grains. Interested farmers and agribusiness representatives stood on the concrete floor below asking questions, while just beyond the open doorway, waiting wagons stood forgotten, their hay bale benches soaking up the rain.

There were a few general bus tours of the farm as the day progressed, as well as tours of the university's confinement swine production facilities, but most information-sharing went on in that shed.

The consumer program-originally scheduled to be held under the trees in the farm grove, was shifted to the substation meeting room. There, visitors watched Extension home economists demonstrate creative ways to prepare squash and pork. A barbecued pork presentation became, instead, a session on "what to do when your picnic gets rained out" — still full of tasty, useful ideas.

For those visitors who did get out onto the farm, the most obvious differences to be seen were those between irrigated and non-irrigated plots.

"The Georgetown Substation is in one of the driest parts of the peninsula," says Ed Ralph. In the past few years, the section from Georgetown up to Seaford has suffered more than most other parts of the state, he says. The August 12 rain brought the first significant water some local farmers had seen since July 7.

"Because of the potential for drought, most research plots at the substation are irrigated each year. Even so, because of high temperatures, all plantings there were seriously affected this summer," says Ralph. Without irrigation he doubts there would be much data to be collected from trials at the research farm this year.

Field Day may not be the mos convenient time to get an inch or s of rain, but when you're hurting fo water, who minds some in convenience?

ORTHO DIQUAT CLEARED AS A POTATO VINE KILLER.

This is news any potato grower will welcome. ORTHO Diquat 2 Spray or ORTHO Diquat Water Weed Killer makes the ideal harvest aid. It allows you to schedule an earlier than usual harvest and probably get a better price for your potatoes.

Diquat works even in cool weather. It desiccates the vines and kills the weeds to make a faster, easier harvest and reduce wear and tear on your harvest equipment.

Diquat is competitively priced with other harvest aid chemicals, and it will not stain application equipment.

Talk to your farm chemical dealer today about Diquat for a faster, easier potato harvest.

which is yellowish-brown in color and smells like some laundry bleaches. It will settle on top of the silage below the upper edge of the top door — it will also settle thru the chute, so be careful that it doesn't settle in your silage room or even work into your barn.

It is important to run the silage blower for 20 to 30 minutes before entering the silo — also never work alone. Make sure your silage room is well ventilated, and keep the door closed between the silage room and the barn.

I know corn silage is a valuable crop, but your health is much more valuable so take time to be safe.

TO BE EXTRA SAFE DRIVING THIS BUSY SEASON

A very shocking figure came to light this past week — six farm fatalities already this year. And we are just entering one of the busiest and most hazardous times of the year — silo filling and corn picking time. Blend into that time wheat and barley planting and the last cutting of alfalfa.

This means a lot of farm machinery will be on our highways during semi-dark or dark hours.

Slow moving vehicles such as farm equipment traveling on highways present a real traffic hazard. The motorist must recognize that a tractor traveling at 5 to 10 miles per hour is almost standing still compared to a 50 mph car. Most drivers have never driven a farm machine on the highway and simply do not realize how slow they do travel.

Proper identification and warning is real important. The triangular Slow Moving Vehicle emblem must be used on all farm equipment operated on highways.

Let's keep alert this busy fall season both on the highway and in the fields.

TO TEST FORAGES

It is always nice to have a balanced feeding program in your hands, ready to use, when you need it, says Glenn Shirk, our dairy agent. And fall is one of the times you usually need to make some adjustments as you switch from your summer forages to your winter forages. If you wait until all the hay is in, the silos full, and the silage fermented before you start doing any testing, you lost a lot of valuable time. Get a head start. Take as much of the guess work as possible out of your feeding program. Test the hay that is dry enough to test (about 10 percent moisture) and the last of the corn that "tops off" the silo, as you are filling the silo. Request a feeding program based on the use of these forages. Later on, when the silage is fermented and all the hay is in - and dry, you can test again and fine tune your program.

McMullen is n.e. area ASCS director

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block has appointed James R. McMullen as Director of the Northeast Area office of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, effective August 24, 1981.

As director, McMullen will be responsible for the administration of federal farm, price support and conservation programs in Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont and West Virginia. He will also serve as liaison between field offices and the Washington, D.C. staff, providing policy and program direction to ASC State committees and ASCS State and county offices.

Born in Johnstown, and reared on a farm in Armagh, Indiana County, he was active in agriculture-related activities in high school and college. He received his Bachelor of Science and Masters degrees in Agricultural Education from Penn State. After graduating from college in 1960, McMullen, an agricultural student and member of the Future Farmers of America, taught vocational agriculture for six years in Indiana County. This included three years at Purchase Line High School in Commodore and three years at Indiana Area High School, Indiana.

He began his career with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in August, 1966 as an operations assistant in the Pennsylvania State ASCS office.

"Right now, that happens to be Pioneer® brand seed corn. But it wasn't always. Eight years ago I didn't have a single Pioneer hybrid on my farm. Then I tried one just to see how it would do. It did fine. So did the second Pioneer hybrid I tried.

"Over the years I've paid attention, watched my yields and moisture, and today I plant most all of my acres to Pioneer numbers. Oh, I might try a little of this and that, you know, looking for a corn that will beat my Pioneer. But so far, I just haven't found one."

On farm after farm, dairymen who are feeding CFS Waxy hybrids are reporting higher butterfat content and increased milk production.
Whether they are feeding shelled corn or silage, these milk producers find CFS Waxy superior in results to yellow dent corn. And, there's no "yield penalty"—CFS Waxy yields are as high or higher than comparable dent varieties. Call your CFS dealer today for more information.

Lehigh launches membership drive

Lehigh Valley Farmers' general Manager William Stout, left, and President Alpheus Ruth, center, display the co-op's new farm sign at the Wednesday evening membership drive meeting held at the Guernsey Pavillion in Lancaster. Looking on is Marvin Stoltzfus, Elverson, director of the Lansdale-based Dairy co-op. Lehigh announced it is seeking 500 members.

LANCASTER — Lehigh Valley Farmers, a bargaining cooperative of dairy farms, launched a drive this week for new members.

In open meetings held in Chester, Lancaster and Franklin counties, President Alpheus L. Ruth reported his cooperative is seeking more milk to meet the needs of Atlantic Processing, Inc.

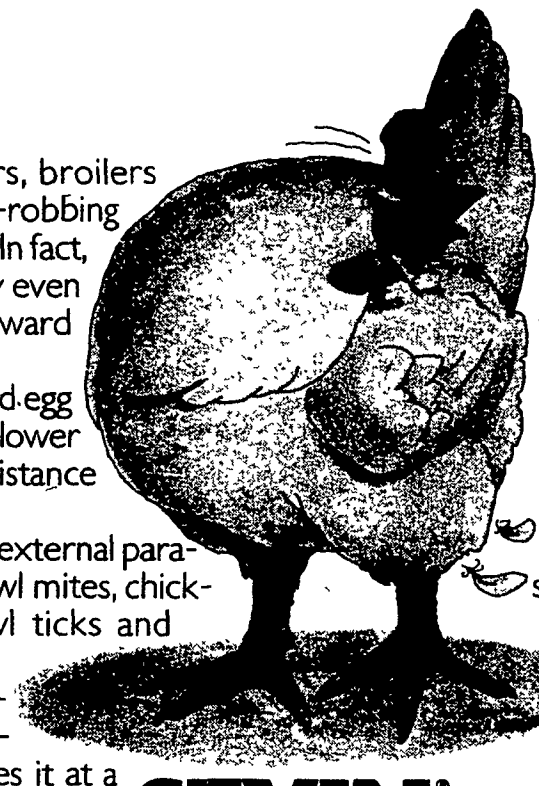
"Lehigh Valley Farmers sell its members' milk exclusively to API, a federation of cooperatives with milk processing and manufacturing facilities," Ruth said. "We want to play a larger role in API's affairs and establish more equity for ourselves in this growing business. We now produce only 60 percent of their daily requirements. So we are looking for 500 additional shippers to add to our current membership of approximately 1000."

General Manager William Stout told the audiences that six months' milk sales of Lehigh Valley Farmers to API were 300 million pounds, for which the farmers were paid $42 million.

Stout listed the guaranteed market as only one reason for membership in Lehigh Valley Farmers. He cited the quality and production bonuses which have totaled $265 thousand thus far in 1981. He announced a patronage dividend of $151 thousand. Stout also discussed personal insurance plans and payments for fire and storm losses.

During the meeting Ted Heck, vice president of sales and marketing at API, described consumer programs, which are conducted under the Lehigh Valley Farms label. He reviewed the LITE lowfat milk and ice cream programs. He announced the introduction of LactAid, a specially digestible milk for those people who love milk but whose bodies cannot tolerate the natural sugars in milk. Heck cited this as an example of API's commitment to seek ways to increase fluid milk sales.

WHEN THEY'RE PECKING PESTS, YOU'RE LOSING PROFITS.



Whether you raise layers, broilers or breeding stock, profit-robbing pests can cost you plenty. In fact, you could be losing money even before there are any outward signs of a problem.

The losses. Decreased egg production. Weight loss or lower rate of gain. Reduced resistance to disease.

And the causes. Tiny external parasites such as Northern fowl mites, chicken mites, lice, fleas, fowl ticks and bedbugs.

SEVIN® carbaryl insecticide controls these profit-robbing parasites and does it at a reasonable cost. SEVIN even controls Northern fowl mites which have become resistant to some phosphate insecticides.

And SEVIN gives you the advantage of applying protection right up to seven days before slaughter.

STOP! ALL PESTICIDES CAN BE HARMFUL TO HEALTH AND THE ENVIRONMENT IF MISUSED. READ THE LABEL CAREFULLY AND USE ONLY AS DIRECTED.

Choose your method-dust, spray or fog. Use it on birds or premises.

SEVIN offers many different formulations including dusts, wettable powders and flowables, to provide flexibility for your equipment and facilities.

NCA asks for interest rate decline

DENVER, Colo. — The National Cattleman's Assn. has asked President Reagan to help see that interest rates are permitted to decline evenly and slowly over the next several months.

In a letter to the President, NCA President J.W. (Bill) Swan said, "I cannot over-emphasize the seriousness of the cost of money to cattlemen. Since 1976, the interest cost of raising a calf or feeding out a steer has risen from about 5 percent of the total cost to 14 percent—an increase of 270 percent. This increase in interest costs represents the difference between profit and loss in our very low-margin industry.

"We continue to support your economic programs. But we feel that the relative risk of maintaining current levels of interest rates, while the economy slows, is so great that an immediate shift is required to allow interest rates to decline evenly and slowly."

Swan said NCA recognizes the need for restraint on money supply in order to control inflation. But, he added, NCA "supports a philosophy of allowing interest rates to adjust slowly in order to prevent a repeat of the 1980 debacle, when interest rates dropped from 21 percent to 12 percent and then returned to 20 percent.

"Neither agriculture nor the cattle industry can tolerate a repeat of the volatile interest rates experienced over the past 18 months. Failure to permit a slow and even decline in interest rates—reflecting changes in economic conditions—could leave agriculture in its worst condition since the 1930's.

"We do not want the administration and Federal Reserve to abandon their inflation battle, but we do feel it is necessary to recognize the risk to the economy and cattle industry of holding to a monetary policy that threatens a repeat of 1980."

Swan's letter to President Reagan followed NCA board of directors action directing that the President's attention he called to the problem of high and volatile interest rates. In other action, the board approved a fiscal 1981-82 program and budget which will further improve NCA's services in government affairs and other areas.

Eggs up slightly

HARRISBURG — July, 1981 egg production in Pennsylvania totaled 348 million according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service. The July production was one percent above the 344 million eggs produced in July, 1980. The July average of 16.2 million layers was one percent higher than a year ago. Egg production per 100 layers was 2,151 compared with 2,157 in July, 1980.

USDA confirms scrapie in Wisconsin sheep flock

HYATTSVILLE, Md. — U.S. Department of Agriculture officials have confirmed the nation's seventh outbreak of scrapie this year — in a flock of 110 sheep in Barron County, Wis.

Officials of the national headquarters of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service in Hyattsville, Md., report six other scrapie outbreaks so far this year. These involve sheep in Columbia county, Wisc.; New London county, Conn.; Rockingham county, N.H.; Sussex county, N.J.; Ulster county, N.Y., and Harford county, Md.

Dr. A.R. McLaughlin, APHIS veterinarian in charge in Wisconsin, said the infected flock will be destroyed to eliminate the infection, and the owner will be indemnified for his losses.

About 30 sheep were sold out of the flock afterng having been in contact with animals that developed scrapie. These sheep, which are considered exposed, will be located and destroyed by USDA disease fighters, with indemnities paid to their owners.

McLaughlin said scrapie is a slow-acting but fatal viral disease of sheep and goats that attacks the central nervous system. Since there is no treatment or cure, the disease can be stopped only by destroying all infected and exposed animals.

"It may take months or even years for an animal exposed to the disease to show clinical signs of the infection—usually intense rubbing against fixed objects to relieve itching," McLaughlin said.

1980-81 wheat Reserve

LANCASTER — Farmers who have 1981 wheat and/or 1980 loan wheat may now place the crop into Grain Reserve IV.

Secretary of Agriculture John Block has announced Grain Reserve IV as a means to improve the farm price of wheat. The United States has a record estimated 2.7 billion bushel wheat crop for 1981. The huge crop and somewhat sluggish exports have caused wheat prices to be quite low.

Provisions of the program include:

- Agreement - Farmers may agree to store wheat on the farm or in an eligible warehouse for a minimum of three years.
- Loan Rate - Farmers will receive a loan on the grain at $3.47 per bushel.
- Storage Rate - Farmers in Reserve IV will receive $.265 per bushel per year as a storage payment. First year storage is paid at the time of entry into the reserve.
- Interest Charges - Interest will be charged on the loan for the first 12 months at the then current CCC interest rate. The current rate is 14.5 percent per annum.
- Reserve Release - Producers may repay their loan and sell the grain when the national wheat market price reaches $4.65 per bushel and the release is announced by the Secretary of Agriculture.
- Early Release - There will be an early redemption charge for producers who wish to sell their grain before the three-year period expires and the wheat is not in a release status.

Wheat farmers with available storage space may wish to consider using the Reserve as a means to increase their price for 1980 or 1981 wheat. The Reserve also provides income now and permits the producer to retain ownership of the grain for future market considerations.

Farmers interested in Grain Reserve IV should contact their county ASCS office.

State forecasts better year for crops

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's 1981 production of corn for grain, winter wheat, oats, barley, soybeans, tobacco, hay and pears should all be above last year based on August 1 conditions, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service. Production of peaches and apples is expected to be below last year's level.

This year's estimated production, yield and percentage change from a year ago are as follows: corn for grain, 126.4 million bushels at 95.0 bushels per acre, up 32 percent; winter wheat, 9.7 million bushels at 36.0 bushels per acre, up five percent; oats, 19.6 million bushels at 56.0 bushels per acre, up three percent; barley, 4.4 million bushels at 54.0 bushels per acre, up 17 perent; soybeans for beans, 3.1 million bushels at 31.0 bushels per acre, up 23 percent; Tobacco, 25.8 million pounds at 1,900 pounds per acre, up five percent; rye, 374,000 bushels at 34.0 bushels per acre, down 14 percent; grapes, 56,000 tons, no change; pears, 38,000 tons, up nine percent; apples 450 million pounds, down 21 percent; peaches, 65 million pounds, down 38 percent.

Total hay production is forecast at 4.3 million tons, up two percent from a year ago. Average yield indicated for alfalfa and alfalfa mixtures for hay is 2.80 tons per acre while all other hay is 1.80 tons per acre.

Pasture condition throughout the commonwealth averaged 86 percent, nine percent above a year ago and two percent above the 1970-79 average for this date.

Total U.S. production is forecast at a record 2.75 billion bushels, two percent less than July 1 forecast but 16 percent more than last year. The winter wheat crop is now forecast at 2.06 billion bushels, down one percent from the July 1 forecase.

Corn for grain production is forecast at 7.73 billion bushels, nine percent above the July 1 forecast and 16 percent greater than last year's crop. Sorghum grain production is forecast at 833 million bushels, up 42 percent from last year's production.

Soybean production is forecast at 2.02 billion bushels, 11 percent larger than the 1980 crop. Hay production is forecast at 138 million tons, a five percent increase from 1980. Pasture and range feed condition on August 1 average 82 percent, 22 points above a year ago.

Swine Fever program to get underway

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Haitian government and the International Institute for Cooperation in Agriculture has signed a formal agreement authorizing a multi-nation effort to eradicate African swine fever from Haiti, the only country in North America or the Caribbean where the disease is known to exist.

The United States, Canada and Mexico will provide funds and technical assistance for the eradication program, which will be administered by the International Institute for Cooperation in Agriculture.

Representing the U.S. Department of Agriculture at the signing ceremonies in Port-au-Prince was C.W. McMillan, assistant secretary of agriculture for marketing and inspection services.

The agreement was signed by Rene Destin, minister of agriculture, national resources and rural development for Haiti, and by Manuel Rodriguez, deputy general director for the International Institute for Cooperation in Agriculture.

McMillan said the eradication program will cost in excess of $17 million and require up to two years to complete. After eradication of the disease, he said, plans call for repopulation with hogs that are free of diseases and have a superior genetic background that will increase the number of pigs per litter and improve the quality of pork.

In 1971, African swine fever invaded the western hemisphere for the first time when it struck Cuba. That outbreak resulted in 400,000 hogs being destroyed. In 1978, the disease was found in Brazil and the Dominican Republic, and in 1979, in Haiti, which shares the Island of Hispaniola with Dominican Republic.

the Dominican Republic, with a loan from the Agency for International Development and technical assistance from USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service and the Food and the Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, slaughtered its entire domestic swine population to eliminate the disease.

After completion of the slaughter program in September, 1980, U.S. pigs were placed in the country to verify that the disease had been eradicated. The Dominican Republic now is restocking with healthy pigs imported from the U.S. and Canada.

Earlier this year, USDA declared an animal health emergency because of the danger of African swine fever spreading from Haiti to this country. This action released funds for the disease's eradication abroad. The United States, Canada, Mexico and the International Institute for Cooperation in Agriculture developed the eradication project after the Haitian Government asked for help.

Toggenburg tops Delaware show

HARRINGTON, Del. — A Toggenburg doe bested more than 200 entries and was named Best D[illegible] in Show, at the Delaware Goat Show held during the recent Delaware State Fair.

GCH Rockspring Pharah Look At Me, owned by Anne Miller of Furlong, Pa. also captured Best Udder honors.

Show judge, Dianna Lee Patton, Silver Springs, Md., chose Susan Dykes, 11, of Princess Anne, Md., as Champion Junior Showman and Fitter. Stephanie Hitchner, 14, of Salem, N.J., was selected as Champion Senior Showman and Fitter.

There were six divisions of goats represented: Nubians; Saanens; Toggenburgs; Alpines: LaManchas; recorded grades.

Acco[illegible] spokeswoman for the Delaware Dairy Goat Association, the show was a new feature at the State Fair and was accepted with great interest and enthusiasm. She pointed out as a result of this year's show success, club and fair officials intend to hold an American Dairy Goat Association sanctioned show as a part of the State Fair each year.

Thornburgh, Hallowell visit rural bridge project

HARRISBURG — Gov. Dick Thornburgh, Agricultural Secretary Penrose Hallowell and officials of the Department of Transportation were joined by local leaders in the inspection of a bridge replacement project in Jefferson Center, Butler County on Friday.

"This new bridge is a symbol of this administration's commitment to providing rural Pennsylvanians with the best possible transportation system," Thornburgh said. "Nothing is more detrimental to our state's economy than any bridge, regardless of size, which is closed or weight-limited. This bridge will provide agricultural businesses in particular with a link for the movement of their goods and services."

The $169,279 project began July 27 and will be completed by the end of September under a contract to Thomas A. Mekis and Sons, Inc., of Fenelton, Butler County.

"Last June, the General Assembly expressed its confidence in our Transportation Department's ability to carry out vital restoration projects with efficiency and integrity. It did so by approving the kind of predictable and stable funding base I have fought for since taking office," the governor said.

He said that the new oil franchise levy is expected to provide $192 million in additional funds for Pennsylvania transportation during its first year of enactment.

Thornburgh was accompanied on his inspection of the project site by Transportation Department District Engineer Bruce E. Speegle and Ray Mekis, Vice President, Thomas A. Mekis and Sons, Inc.

Riding behind the wheel of a high-lift, the governor assisted construction workers in a backfilling operation.

Since Thornburgh took office, the Department of Transportation has awarded more than 1,600 road and bridge contracts, totalling $1.3 billion. Presently, the department is awarding contracts at the rate of $500 million a year, compared to $180 million in contracts that were awarded in the last fiscal year of the previous administration.

WATER WAR

Re: House bill #1483
Printer's #1723

Fellow Pennsylvanians:

House bill 1483 is a dangerous infringement on the FREEDOM and PROPERTY RIGHTS of all citizens of the Commonwealth. You should request a free copy from your representative.

HB 1483 provides for another TAX on your right to drink water from your own well or spring. Page 40 line 10

HB 1483 confiscates your rights to all water on your own land. The bill says;

The water resources of this Commonwealth are public natural resources held in trust by the Commonwealth for the benefit of all the people. Page 7 line 18

Fellow American, that is right out of the Communist manifesto. That is the doctrine of HITLER-MARX-CASTRO-MAO...IT IS NOT A PART OF THE BILL OF RIGHTS or of THE UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION or THE CONSTITUTION OF THIS COMMONWEALTH. It is not the doctrine of WASHINGTON, JEFFERSON.

While you read this sentence someone is dying trying to escape the tyrany proposed for all Pennsylvanians by HB 1483.

HB 1483 provides the right of EMINENT DOMAIN for not only a bureaucracy of the C[illegible]mmonwealth but for certain public utilities-the right to CONFISCATE the water from your well, even after you paid for a permit. Page 36 Line 1-17

HB 1483 provides that you MUST permit AGENTS of the department to ENTER and EXAMINE ANY PROPERTY (your home)- you must GIVE THE AGENTS free and unrestricted ENTRY and ACCESS. P42.

I am not suggesting that those members of the House who introduced HB 1483 are communists or communist agents. I am suggesting that they have not read the language of the bill. I am suggesting that every member of the House examine the bill and the effects it will have on the FREEDOM of ALL PENNSYLVANIANS. NO ONE CAN SUPPORT THE CONSTITUTION AND THIS LEGISLATION.

The bill was introduced by Field work continues in full swing

HARRISBURG — Dry conditions prevailed in Pennsylvania during most of the week ending August 31, producing six days suitable for farm field activities, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service. Field activities during the week included baling straw; filling silos; spraying potatoes; plowing; and harvesting oats, potatoes, tomatoes, carrots, sweet corn, cantaloupes, peaches, apples, tobacco, ensilage corn, hay crops and green chops.

Topsoil moisture in the state was rated short by 86 percent of the reporters and adequate by 14 percent. In the north, 68 percent rated soil moisture short and 32 percent adequate while all reporters in the central and southern regions rated soil moisture short.

Harvest of peaches, apples, cantaloupes, tomatoes, carrots and sweet corn continues across the state. In the southern region, peach harvest is rapidly nearing completion, and in the northern region some black rot of grapes has been reported. Statewide, apples are reported to be sizing and coloring well.

The oat harvest in the Commonwealth is virtually complete, compared with 93 percent harvested at this time last year.

The tobacco crop in Pennsylvania is 37 percent harvested compared with 28 percent harvested last year.

Harvesting of potatoes continued to progress as 30 percent of the crop was dug, slightly behind last year. In the north 29 percent was harvested; in the central region 19 percent was harvested and in the southern region 39 percent was harvested.

Corn harvested for silage stands at six percent complete but is behind last year at this time when 14 percent was harvested. Corn to be harvested for grain in Pennsylvania is 47 percent in dough and 37 percent dented. In the north 54 percent was reported in the dough stage and 21 percent dented. The central region reported 48 percent in dough and 33 percent dented, while the southern region reported 34 percent in dough and 61 percent dented.

Fall plowing in the Commonwealth is 33 percent complete compared with 32 percent at this time last year. The north reported 22 percent complete, the central region 51 percent complete and the south 31 percent complete.

Second cutting alfalfa is virtually complete statewide, about a week ahead of last year. The third cutting was rated as 53 percent complete compared with 52 percent last year. Northern operators reported 29 percent of the third cut harvested, the central operators reported 29 percent harvested, and the southern operators reported 78 percent harvested. Fourth cutting alfalfa has begun and is seven percent complete in the state. Northern and central operators reported five percent of the fourth cut harvested while southern operators reported eight percent harvested.

The second cutting of clover-timothy was rated as 82 percent complete compared with 92 percent last year. The northern region reported 83 percent complete, the central region reported 84 percent complete, and the southern region reported 79 percent complete.

Statewide, the quality of hay made during the week was rated mostly good to fair. In the north hay quality was rated 70 percent good and 30 percent fair; in the central region it was rated 92 percent good and eight percent fair, while in the southern region it was rated 77 percent good, 15 percent fair, and eight percent poor.

technology should result in increased productivity such as the use of robotics in industry.

"The agriculture sector is the best argument for expanding the technological base." He added, "It's the most productive element of the economy."

Walker explained that with increased productivity the federal reserve can release money into the economy because funds entering a productive economy is not going to be inflationary.

Locally, Walker has asked for a full environmental impact statement regarding the controversial Narvon Dump.

He admitted there is a legitimate reason for concern but that it is important to have a baseline of data from which to base decisions.

Arranged by the Lancaster County Farmers Association, the congressman's schedule included visits to the John Barley farm, Manor Township, Elvin K. Brenneman, East Donegal Township, Donald L. Hershey, Rapho Township, Larry Weaver, Earl Township and Charles Rohrer, Paradise.

Don Hershey, foreground, guides Rep. Robert Walker on a tour of his Rapho Township farm during Walker's county tour on Tuesday.

Peak Milk Production

doesn't just happen. It's planned for. University tests show that adequate mineral-vitamin supplementation is critical to the success of this plan. That's why you need YOUNG'S Mineral-Vitamin Premixes. Our FEED MANAGEMENT CONSULTANT can formulate a feeding program that will meet the nutritional needs of your dairy herd. He'll recommend the RIGHT YOUNG'S PREMIX to balance those critical minerals and vitamins. And that's how peak production happens.

Rogers' Holstein top New Jersey show

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Charles Rogers' Penn-Breeze Farm, Ringoes, took top honors in the Central Jersey Holstein Show held at the Flemington Fairgrounds. Janet Rogers, a 4-H'er, exhibited the Grand Champion Female, and her father, Charles Rogers, led the Reserve Champion.

Janet's cow, Penn-Breeze Kelly Eleva Missie, was first in the 4-year-old class, was also automatically the Grand Champion in the Junior Division of the show.

The cow owned and exhibited by Rogers was Penn-Breeze Iris Elevation Meg. She received the blue ribbon in the Dry Cow Class before competing for the champion's rosette and trophy. Both Missie and Meg are daughters of one of the Holstein breed's most famous sires, Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation.

There were 78 entries in this year's show, reported George Alles, show committee chairman. Type judge was Jack King, King-Lea Holsteins, Church Hill, Md. He placed the individuals within the classes and commented on his placings as ribbons were being distributed by Hunterdon Dairy Princess and alternate Sandy Rogers and Beth Brokaw, respectively.

Blue ribbons were rather evenly distributed among the exhibitors, both adult and youth.

Lee Paulmier, Rosemont, picked up two blues in the early classes, Senior Heifer Calves and Senior Yearlings. His Senior Yearling, Kengary Pete Abby, was named Junior Champion Female of the show.

Tom Piskorowski, Princeton, a 4-H'er, accounted for two blue ribbons, exhibiting first place winners in the Intermediate Heifer Calf class and the 2-year-old class. His Femmara Charlotte was awarded the Reserve Champion rosette in the Jr. Division.

Hunterdon Hills Holsteins, Rosemont, was recognized as Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor. Both awards are based on placings of individuals throughout the event.

Youth were much involved during the day's activities. In addition to placings within type classes, they also competed for fitting and showmanship awards.

The top youth award, a registered Holstein calf provided by William Teets, Lebanon, went to Gretchen Kuehn, Raritan Township. She compiled the highest composite score based on recordkeeping, fitting and showmanship.

Second youth award, a show-box, went to 4-H'er Hope Atkinson, Union Township.

Other youth winners in fitting and showmanship classes were: Junior youth — Susan Kuehn and Tracy Beatty; Senior youth fitting — Gretchen Kuehn and Hope Atkinson; Senior youth showmanship — Janet Rogers and Sandy Sutton.

Fitting and showmanship judge was Gerald Hall, Manager of Marlu Farms.

Bankert tops York roundup

BY LAURIE DOBROSKY

YORK — Greg Bankert, Hanover was named grand champion of the final swine roundup of the year for the York County 4-H'ers. The roundup was held at Thomasville Livestock Auction here on Wednesday, recently.

Greg, whose brother Brian showed the champion at the first roundup, showed his to the championship with his 230 pound, home-raised Duroc. His hog sold for $2.66 a pound to Hatfield Packing Company.

The reserve champion honors at the second yearly roundup went to Gus Parlett of Airville on his 240 pound Spot. Gus, who had the reserve champion at the first roundup, sold his barrow to Three Sons Meat Market, York, for $1.52 per pound.

Sixteen York 4-H members exhibited over forty hogs before judge Robert Herr, Narvon.

The swine exhibitors were also tested on their showmanship and fitting abilities. The champion showman was senior Michelle Bankert, Hanover. Michele's younger brother Brian was selected as the reserve champion showman.

Ron Wilson, Stewartstown topped the fitting division. Kristine Miller, York, was selected as the reserve champion fitter. Both fitting winners exhibited Yorkshire hogs to top their classes.

Class results were as follows:

DONNA TOMMELLEO

ROCK SPRINGS — While Ag Progress Days bustled, last week, with all the gaiety and excitement of a carnival, small groups of visitors found nearby peace and quiet.

Although it wasn't Walden Pond, the southwestern corner of the Penn State Research center housed a small forest frequented by several woodland conservation tour groups during the three-day happening.

Extension Forestor Mel Baughman guided the groups in and out of the different stages of forest development. Baughman offered tips to farmers for turning idle wooded acres into healthy forests that can sustain a variety of wildlife and vegetation.

Extension Forestor Mel Baughman discusses the merits of homemade wooden culverts for installation near log land sites.

The first stop offered a look at an old pature that was naturally returning back to forest. Baughman pointed to established stands of white pines, sweet birch, oak and hickory trees.

He explained this stage of development lends itself well to wildlife maintainence. The young forest provides adequate feed and cover for cottontails, deer and grouse to name a few wildlife species.

The next stop, only a few paces farther, included a more mature forest with densely compacted trees. Baughman encouraged farmers with this type of forest to border cut about 10 yards into the woodline.

Border cutting eliminates shade from adjacent crop fields and generally increases crop yields. Cut trees will remain alive and continue to provide food and cover for wildlife. Baughman advised recutting every 10 years.

An old log landing created another ideal wildlife habitat. By seeding these sites with fescue and Birdsfoot trefoil, a land owner can attract various insects which will in turn attract larger predators such as grouse and turkey.

Tall dead trees pitted with several holes may look out of place in a thriving forest but Baughman stressed these "den trees" provide homes for many birds and small mammals.

Most cottontail hunters are aware of the merits of brushpiles. But Baughman pointed out they do more than just hide bunnies. They will slowly return organic mater and nutrients back to the earth and protect sprouts from heavy deer browsing.

By insuring a variety of trees and vegetation on a woodland plot, a land-owner can help protect the forest against a disease attack on a particular species, thus streghening the forest and provide constant food and cover for wildlife.

Farmers start reward fund

LANCASTER — A group of Lancaster County farmers and other members of the agricultural community have initiated a reward fund to be offered for information on two men who allegedly raped a 15-year-old area farm girl in July.

Several thousand dollars have already been pledged to the fund.

Persons wishing to contribute to the fund may send their donations to: Committee Against Violence, P.O. Box 262, Willow Street, Pa. 17584.

The fund will be utilized to advertise and distribute information on the suspected rapists.

Also, anyone having information on the suspect's car – a 1972 Buick Electra with black vinyl top painted a dull almost primer color – is asked to contact police.

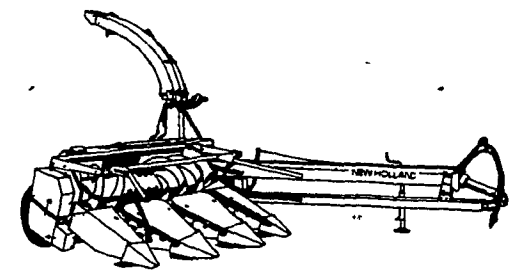
There's nothing like a Twin Rotor™ combine from Sperry New Holland. For good reason. The dual-rotor threshing is patented so others can't duplicate it. Come in soon and let us tell you about this exciting advance in combining. There are three models to choose from. And be sure to ask us about the completely new line of Sperry New Holland corn heads, flexible cutterbar soybean headers and rigid cutterbar grain heads.

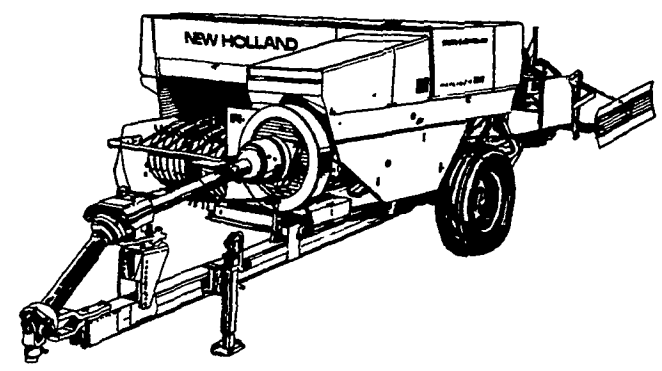
The Model 892 is the biggest capacity pull-type forage harvester offered by Sperry New Holland. Built for big tractor horsepower, the "892" will power through the driveline, and be used with tractors up to 175 horsepower.

The optional electronic metal detector — a Sperry New Holland exclusive — reduces harvester damage and can cut down on hardware disease. The "892" is available with 12-knife or 8-knife cutterhead. Exclusive underbeveled knives never need rebeveling and make knife sharpening fast and easy. Flip-up feedroll makes shearbar adjustment easy.



There's a big choice of crop heads, including the exclusive interchangeable 3-row crop head/windrow pickup, 2-row low-profile crop head, conventional windrow pickup, sicklebar and ear-corn snapping heads. Under-knife baffles increase capacity.

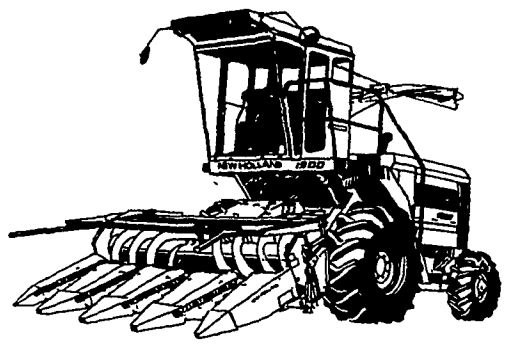
Like all Sperry New Holland machines, the "892" is backed by a service and parts system that's second to none



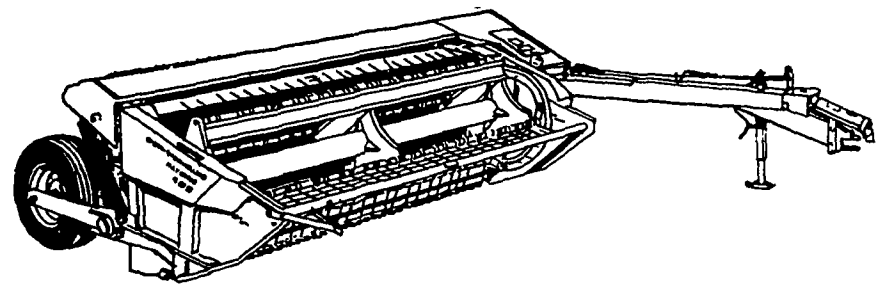
Stop in and get a great deal on the Sperry New Holland Model 315 baler. This 14" x 18" baler is built extra rugged to handle tough crops. It's designed to work hard and give years of dependable service.

Now's the time to buy because we're moving our complete stock of hay tools.

Already have a new baler? Then stop in and see our Sperry New Holland automatic bale wagons and mower-conditioners. They're priced to sell, too!



The 250-hp Model 1900 chopper features an exclusive electronic metal detector that reduces harvester damage, and helps cut down on hardware disease. Exclusive underbeveled knives never need rebeveling. Exclusive flip-up feedrolls make shearbar adjustment easy. Exclusive interchangeable cropheads — ideal for the farmer/rancher who chops both windrowed crops and row crops. Plus a big choice of other crop heads. Under-knife baffles increase capacity.



Full-width conditioning rolls in the Model 489 Haybine® mower-conditioner are located in the main frame, not the header. The lighter header responds quicker to ground contours and greatly reduces knife and guard damage. The "489" is designed for operators who demand the very best.

Del. boar sale Tuesday

NEWARK, Del. — Delaware's 1981 Boar Test — which is sponsored jointly by the Delaware Pork Producers Association and the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service — ends with a sale on Tuesday, Sept. 8, at 6:30 p.m. at the state fairgrounds in Harrington.

The test officially began May 7. Data collected during the test period show that the 36 boars which finished had an average daily gain of 1.94 pounds per day, a feed efficiency of 2.54 pounds of feed per pound of gain, and backfat thickness averaging .68 inches.

The leading pen of boars was 4 Yorkshires owned by Edwards and Edwards of Rich Square, North Carolina. This pen had a feed conversion of 2.36 pounds of feed per pound of gain and a daily gain of 2.2 pounds. The high individual pig this year also came from the Edwards' pen. This boar had an index of 145, indicating that he was 45 percent better than the test average.

The pigs were evaluated for soundness of feet and legs as well as underlines. Boars that do not pass the soundness test are culled. The minimum index is 90 for a boar to make the sale. Boars represented in the sale are Chester White, Duroc, Spots and Yorkshire.

A good performance tested boar can improve the economics of swine production. The purpose of the Delaware test is to identify such animals and make them available to local producers. "Dollars invested in a boar to improve feed efficiency alone can return one and a half to two times the purchase price of the boar," says University of Delaware extension livestock specialist Richard Fowler, who supervised the trial.

"Careful selection and mating of offspring can result in feed savings and faster growth rates for the entire herd within a three year period," says Fowler. "A good boar is an investment, not an expense."

For a catalog of sale boars contact: Extension Livestock Specialist, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19711; 302-738-2523.

USDA charges Pa. packer with P&S violation

NEW YORK, N.Y. — A Pennsylvania meat packing firm, T. M. Landis Inc, and its owner, Arden L. Landis, of Mainland, Montgomery County, have been charged by the U.S. Department of Agriculture with violating financial protection requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

These charges were filed with the federal hearing clerk on August 10, according to Packers and Stockyards Information Specialist Edwin Moffett.

Moffett explained that in an administrative complaint, USDA charged the now bankrupt corporation (filed for bankruptcy in May), according to a Pa. Dept. of agriculture spokesman with insolvency. Landis and the corporation were charged with failure to pay when due for livestock; and issuing checks without having sufficient funds on deposit and available to pay such checks when presented for payment, with the knowledge that the checks could be dishonored at any time. These events occured during a time period between March 20, 1981 and April 30, 1981, stated Moffett.

The complaint also charged that Landis and the firm failed to hold in trust and endangered funds that were required to be held in trust for the benefit of all unpaid cash sellers until those sellers were paid in full. Specifically, the complaint charged that funds required to be held in trust were turned over to secured creditors; Landis and the corporation breached their fiduciary responsibilitities as statutory trustees by taking such action; and they discouraged timely notice-filing by trust beneficiaries by representing unpaid cash sellers that would be otherwise protected. These events occured during a period from May 5, 1981 to May 12, 1981.

According to Moffett, Landis was served with his notice of violation on August 13, after which he had 20 days to request a hearing or consent to the charges. Moffett, who reported there had been no hearing request received by Wednesday, said P & S allows an "informal grace period" to allow for the mail.

Upon failure to respond or if the charges are proved, Landis would be placed under a cease and desist order and could be assessed civil penalties.

Moffett reported that all injured parties in the Landis case had been paid.

The P & S Act is a fair trade practices law administered by USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration. It promotes fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, meat and poultry.

Broiler placements drop

HARRISBURG — Placements of broiler chicks in the Commonwealth during the week ending August 22 were 2,042,000 according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

The placements were six percent below the corresponding week a year ago and two percent below the previous week. Average placements during the past nine weeks were one percent above a year earlier.

Placements in the 19 key poultry producing states were 76,585,000, ten percent above the same week a year ago but two percent below the previous week. Average placements in the 19 key states during the past nine weeks were seven percent above a year ago.

Broiler-fryers slaughtered in Pennsylvania under federal inspection during the week ending August 12 totaled 2,021,000, with an average liveweight of 4.0 pounds.

Williams shows hog to top of Lehigh Round-up

Susan Williams, 14, exhibited the grand champion market hog during the Lehigh County 4-H Swine Round-Up held last Wednesday. Hatfield purchased the Duroc x Spotted crossbred for $4.70 a pound.

QUAKERTOWN — Last Wednesday was a grand day for 14-year-old Susan Williams of New Tripoli whose 235-pound Duroc x Spotted market hog was chosen grand champion of the Lehigh County 4-H Market Swine Round-Up.

Judging the 104 animals, enthusiastically exhibited by 27 Lehigh 4-H'ers, was Kenneth Ketterer, Newville.

Susan's champ was named first place light-heavyweight hog and the heavyweight champion before going on to the show's top honors. This was quite an achievement for the first-year 4-H'er who also was selected reserve champion showman in her division. Susan's champion sold to Hatfield Packing Company for $4.70 a pound.

For reserve grand champion, Judge Ketterer selected the first-place medium-middleweight hog and mediumweight champion. This 220-pound Hampshire was shown by 13-year-old Seth Gruber, also of New Tripoli. It sold to George's Foodliner, Bethlehem, for $2.30 a pound.

In the lightweight classes, Mark Lazarus, 9, from Germansville, had the first place heavy-lightweight and was selected as the division champion. His Duroc x Spotted hog, weighing 195 pounds, brought $1 a pound from A & B Packing, Allentown, for Medford Packing Co., Chester.

The reserve champion lightweight was the first place medium-lightweight animal exhibited by Seth Gruber. This 190-pound Yorkshire gilt also sold to Medford for $1 a pound.

Scott Lazarus, 10, of Germansville, showed his 230-pound Duroc barrow to the reserve championship of the middleweight division. This champ went to George's Foodliner after bringing a 90-cents-a-pound bid.

The reserve heavyweight champion was shown by 9-year-old Amanda Gruber, New Tripoli. The 245-pound Yorkshire gilt was purchased by Leidy, Inc., Souderton, for $1 a pound.

The 104 head averaged 83.5 cents a pound. Auctioneering the sale, which was held at the Quakertown Livestock Market, was Jim Mohr.

In the showmanship and fitting competition, Mark Lazarus claimed both championships for first year members, while Wendy Lazarus accepted the reserve champion fitter's ribbon.

Scott Lazarus swept the championship honors in the junior division for 4-H'ers between the ages of 8 and 11, while Amanda and Ben Gruber shared the reserve champion awards for fitting and showmanship, respectively.

In the intermediate division, Todd Bennecoff was selected champion fitter and showman, and Bonnie Wessner claimed both reserve champion awards.

And in the competition between the 4-H'ers in the Over-15 category, Leslie Lazarus took the champion fitter and reserve champion showman honors. Willi Wilson was named champion showman and Dave Brannan was the reserve champion fitter.

Class results are:

The reserve grand champion market hog was shown by Seth Gruber, New Tripoli. George's Foodliner purchased the 220-pound Hampshire for $2.30 a pound.

Bear license mailings set for Oct.

HARRISBURG — Successful applicants for 1981 Pennsylvania bear hunting licenses should receive their licenses late in October, under a schedule established by the Game Commission.

All applications for bear licenses must be received by the Game Commission no later than September 25. A drawing will be held September 28 to select the recipients of the license, and processing of the applications will begin immediately.

Applications not selected in the drawing will be returned to unsuccessful applicants as soon as possible after September 28. If processing proceeds as scheduled, bear licenses should be mailed on October 26.

Most of those who have applied thus far have correctly filled out the envelope in which the applications have been submitted. The most common errors have been failure to indicate how many applications the envelope contains, and/or failure to indicate if the entry is from a resident or nonresident. These applications are being returned so the error(s) can be corrected.

This will be the first year a bear license is required to hunt bruins in the Keystone State. The Game Commission has authorized the sale of 125,000 bear licenses in 1981, in an effort to control the size of the harvest.

A hunter may file only one bear license application under any circumstances; no one may apply for an "individual" license and also be in a group applying for "group" licenses. Up to 15 persons may apply for "group" licenses.

Hunting license issuing agents have applications, along with the required red and blue envelopes. Applications are not being handed out routinely; hunters must ask for them. A person must have a regular hunting license before filing a bear license application, since the hunting license number must be put on the bear license application.

Bear license applications consist of two parts. Each applicant, regardless of whether an "individual" license or "group" licenses are being sought, must fill out the first section of the application. The second section of the application is to be filled out only by those who are applying for "group" bear licenses. The second section should be torn off and discarded if an "individual" license is sought.

A party of hunters applying for "group" bear licenses must be composed entirely of either resident or nonresident hunters. "Group" bear licenses will not be awarded to a party composed of both resident and nonresident hunters.

The applicant should be sure to include the blue return envelope, along with the application and remittance, in the red envelope.

The information required on the front of the red envelope must be filled in properly, or the application(s) will be rejected.

Applicants are reminded of the U.S. Postal Service requirement that first class postage must be on the red envelope for each application enclosed, and on the blue return envelope that will be used to mail the license(s) to the successful applicant(s), or to return the application(s) not selected in the drawing.

The blue return envelope must be addressed to the hunter by the applicant. In the case of applications for "group" licenses, the licenses will all be sent to the one applicant whose name and address appears on the blue return envelope.

Resident bear licenses cost $5.00 each; the fee for a nonresident bear license is $15.00.

Bear license recipients will be selected in the drawing which is open to the public and begins at 10:30 a.m. on Monday, September 28, at the Game Commission's headquarters, 8000 Derry Street, Harrisburg.

Forrest Stricker

CARL N. & FORREST STRICKER, Wernersville, PA

"Right now 2½% of my milk check goes to purchased supplement and vitamins and minerals for the 52-cow milking herd."

The Strickers erected their first HARVESTORE Structure, a 2080 for forage, in August of 1980. A second Unit, a 2042, was erected in the spring of 1981 for high moisture shelled corn. "Since last October," Forrest comments, "our cows have come up over 2,000 lbs. of milk and 73 lbs. of fat. Currently on 52 cows, my D.H.I.A. average is 16,500 lbs. milk and 633 lbs. fat." A mixture of corn silage, ryelage and alfalfa haylage recently tested over 21% protein out of the HARVESTORE Structure. Says Forrest, "My feed costs are already cut in half compared to last year when I fed 21% protein haylage out of my conventional silo. Right now 2½% of my milk check goes to all-purchased supplement and vitamins and minerals for the 52-cow milking herd." The Strickers milk in a tie-stall barn, feeding haylage free-choice with high moisture shelled corn and supplement fed according to production.

TRI-Y FARMS, ED, DICK & JIM YOST, Bernville, PA

"Only 11% of the milk check goes towards purchased feed costs for the milking herd."

The Yosts have been feeding HARVESTORE-processed feeds since 1971, when they erected their first Unit, a 2070 for haylage. Currently 92 cows are being milked, producing an average of 55 lbs. of milk per cow, with 3.7% B.F. HARVESTORE-processed haylage and high moisture shelled corn, along with corn silage, are fed in a total mixed ration on the bunk. Top producers receive only 15 lbs. of an 18% parlor grain. Current D.H.I.A. average is 18,391 lbs. milk and 659 lbs. B.F. on 112 cows. After switching from ground ear corn to HARVESTORE-processed High Moisture Shelled Corn, the herd average jumped from 14,200 lbs. milk to 17,000 lbs. milk in 18 months. Haylage processed through the HARVESTORE Structure averages 19% protein. Only 11% of the milk check goes towards purchased feed costs for the milking herd. Corn, alfalfa and small grain are grown on 600 acres. Yosts also have a modern SLURRYSTORE System.

MATMAR FARMS, INC., THOMAS DEGLER, PRESIDENT, Leesport, PA

"8.9% of the milk check went for off-farm purchased feeds."

Currently the Deglers have 85 mature cows and 50 head of young stock in the milking herd. D.H.I.A. rolling herd average is 16,549 lbs. milk and 598 lbs. B.F. Currently on HARVESTORE Mixed Grass Haylage, 5 tons of 32% Supplement lasts over 1½ months. For the entire year of 1980, 8.9% of the milk check went for off-farm purchased feeds. Alfalfa, corn and small grains are raised on 430 acres. High moisture corn and supplement are fed in the stanchion barn according to production. This past winter stalklage and oats from a 2060 HARVESTORE Structure were fed to the young stock at the heifer operation. These animals receive no protein supplement. Recently when feeding high moisture barley to the milk cows, the top cows received only 4-5 lbs. of protein supplement per day.

Are foot baths, coveralls & boots in poultry's future

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

BIRD-IN-HAND — Will foot-baths, coveralls and boots become everyday working tools of Lancaster County poultry operators?

They could and likely should, according to a poultry professor at the New Bolton Center of the University of Pennsylvania.

Prefacing his belief by the statement that it would probably be considered as another ivory tower dream, Dr. Robert Eckroade, associate professor of poultry pathology, told a group of Lancaster County poultry operators that the baths, clothing and boots could become very instrumental in helping to prevent spread of disease among flocks.

"If I was investing as much money as you are spending on birds, I know they would be among the items I would consider," Dr. Eckroade said.

He went on to explain that on a recent trip to Ghana, West Africa, he traveled quite far into the interior of that protein-starved nation to its largest poultry operation. And to get on the property, he had to use a footbath.

And incidentally, chickens sold for $20 apiece and eggs for 62 cents apiece. (What would that do for the locally depressed industry?)

The measures to help prevent the spread of poultry diseases were just one of many topics discussed by the New Bolton staff member at the session Monday night at the Bird-in-Hand Restaurant.

Also speaking briefly at the dinner meeting sponsored by Farm Bureau were various representatives of that company and John Hoffman, secretary of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation.

Hoffman held out little immediate hope for recovery from the "worst depressed period" the poultry industry has ever encountered.

"I'm accepting more and more the explanation that we're dealing with a new type of economy," Hoffman said.

"The public is getting more and more conservative with food and slowing down such purchases. They're going back to leftovers.

"The American consumer was wasteful with the food dollar.

"Our industry is just not adjusting its production to this new economy."

He held out hope that the Reagan economic program will help.

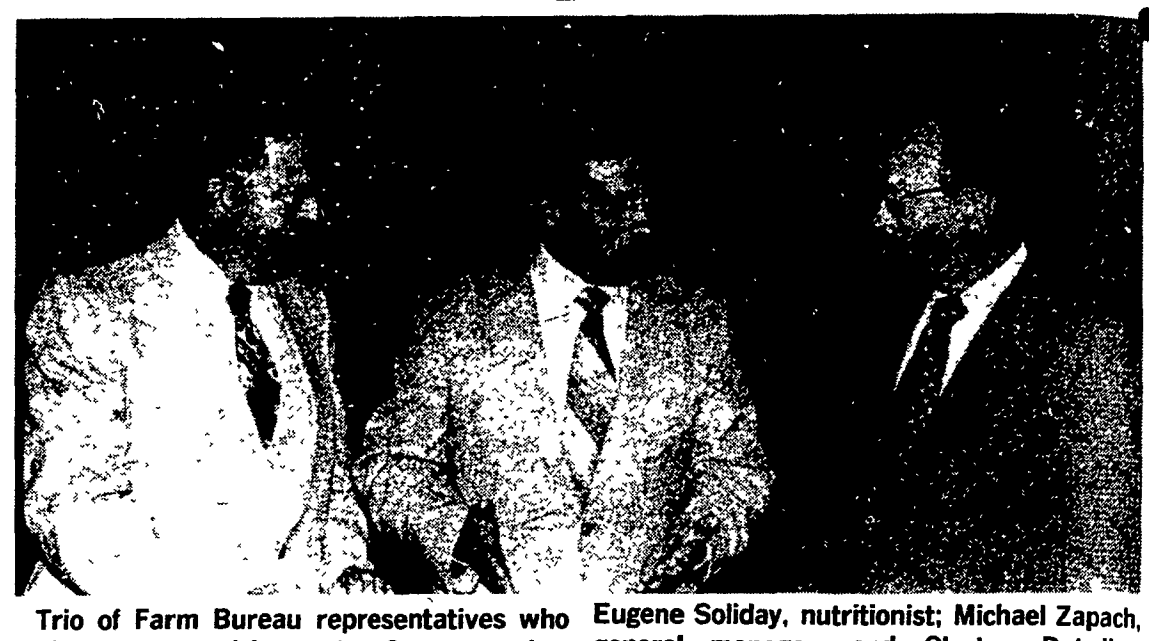
"But it will be a very gradual improvement – years in the making," he said.

"I go along with the forecasters calling for 15 to 16 percent interest rates by the beginning of the year.

"There are good signs the federal program will work, but it won't happen as fast as we might hope."

Dr. Eckroade boiled down a poultry disease lecture, which he said he usually gave to his students.

He urged poultry operators not to forget about problems just because they go away after a time.



Trio of Farm Bureau representatives who spoke to group of Lancaster County poultry producers this week include, from the left, Eugene Soliday, nutritionist; Michael Zapach, general manager; and Clayton Detwiler, poultry serviceman.

"Find out what went wrong in your flock so that it can be prevented the next time." he said.

He explained that the poultry industry is better at preventive medicine than both the beef and pork people, but there is still room for improvement.

One of the initial areas of concern he stressed was the need for a uniform level of immunity among chicks even if they come from different sources.

He also pointed to problems with vaccination.

"Too many mistakes are being made in vaccination programs by farmers who are too busy doing other things," he said.

He also explained that if he were a poultry operator he'd require health records for his incoming birds.

"I'd want to know what happened during grow-out," he said.

He pointed to people as the principal carriers of infectuous disease agents into flocks.

Subclinical diseases, which don't cause deaths but cut into egg production and feed conversion, will become more and more important, Dr. Eckroade said.

He also urged farmers to become familiar with posting a chicken to discover the problems in their birds.

Dr. Eckroade pointed to a study he did concerning gunboro, which stressed the importance of sanitation.

"Gunboro is a major problem in Pennsylvania flocks at the subclinical level," he said.

"Good sanitation is better than vaccination."

He said that his study has proven that gunboro can be decontaminated out of a chicken house.

The study also involved gunboro in a nine-house operation in Lancaster County.

Through the use of a footbath, boots and coveralls, it was eliminated.

Michael Zapach, general manager, explained some of the history of the Bucks-Montgomery Farm Bureau and showed slides of its various facilities and services.

Roth gets Breeders post

KANSAS CITY — Harry Roth, Operations Director, Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, was elected vice president of the National Association of Animal Breeders at its 35th annual convention recently in Kansas City, Mo.

Roth, who has been a member of the board of directors for four years, will serve a two-year term.

The convention delegates, including both management and directors of artificial breeding organizations around the United States, were challenged by Kansas Governor John Carlin to become more active politically.

Carlin told the group that farmers must do a better job of education and communication and must learn to be more unified if they expect results.

Nearly 480 attended the four-day meeting which included visits to Missouri dairy farms, as well as a trip to the Truman Library in Independence.

Delegates also got a glimpse of the developing technology for embryo transfers through a report by former Pennsylvanian George Seidel, now with Colorado State University

Md. unveils latest wheat variety

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — More than 1,000 of Maryland's agricultural producers and consumers saw a broad range of farm-related research activities at the University of Maryland's Wye Research Center last Tuesday.

At the Center's "Crops and Soils Research Field Day," taxpayers who underwrite most of the research there, previewed a new, hardy variety of wheat for Marlyand farmers; yield and economic tests of fertilizers; disease and pest resistance among different varieties of Maryland crops; small crop research on fruits and vegetables; and the use of small vegetable crops as partial energy sources to power farm equipment.

Fifty-two separate research studies were on parade for the crowd composed of part-time to large-scale farmers, agri-businesses, state officials and the general public.

A highlight of the day's activities was the unveiling of Severn, a new, high-yield wheat variety that has undergone six years of experimental research by scientists for the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station. Severn is the second Univerity variety of wheat to be released in the last five years.

With a seven bushel per acre advantage over Arthur, (currently Maryland's most widely planted wheat variety), Severn promises early maturity, excellent baking quality and good disease resistance, according to James R. Miller, chairman of the University's Department of Agronomy.

Weighing in at 59 pounds per bushel, Severn grows to a height of 40 inches, with 29 percent lodging and 93 percent winter survival rates, and "headed" over the six-year test period in Maryland on or about May 12. East of the Chesapeake Bay, Severn has shown a slightly earlier heading date and somewhat higher winter survival rate.

The Severn variety, according to Miller, should prove to be a popular wheat in soybean-wheat double cropping systems because of its early maturity date and other desirable characteristics. Foundation seed, produced during 1980-81, will be available through foundation seed organizations this fall, and small amounts of crop seed should be available by fall 1982. Larger amounts of seed will follow in 1983.

An increasing concern in the agricultural community is the high cost of fertilizer, especially nitrogen, an important additive for higher crop productivity under no-till cultivation methods. Visitors saw several projects at the Wye Research Center focusing on nitrogen sources and rate and time of application.

Food merchant honors

Allen Tate will receive Honorary American Degree

NEW HOLLAND — Allen E. Tate, Public Relations Manager at Victor F. Weaver, Inc., New Holland, will be awarded an Honorary American Farmer Degree at the 54th National FFA Convention November 12-14 in Kansas City, Mo.

Tate will receive the honor in recognition of his many FFA activities, particularly those involving poultry judging on the local and national levels, which are sponsored by the Weaver firm.

"I consider the degree an honor that must be shared with the entire Weaver organization," Tate said.

"Many people within the company donate their time and services to help with the poultry judging activities."

Tate also is often a judge in the various FFA public speaking competitions held in the area.

For the past five years, the Weaver firm has been involved in poultry judging sponsorship on the local and national levels.

For example, on a Saturday every March hundreds of area FFAers can be found at the Weaver Quality Eggs plant in the Greenfield Industrial Park matching their skills in various poultry judging categories.

A native of Lancaster County, Tate was born on an area farm. His parents still have a 96-acre farm in East Lampeter Twp.

A graduate of Elizabethtown College, he has served in personnel, comunications and public relations positions at Weaver since 1969. He is a member of the board of directors of both the Junior Achievement of Lancaster County and Big Brothers of Lancaster County.

Tate has been very active in Jaycee programs, holding offices on the county, regional and state levels.

Tate has been listed among "Outstanding Young Men of America" and among Community Leaders and Noteworthy Americans. He received the "Jaycee of the Year" award in Lancaster County and also the Outstanding Young Man of Lancaster Award.

He has also been named a JCI Senator – the highest international Jaycee award.

FFA's Honorary American Farmer Degree will be conferred on Allen Tate, Public Relations Manager at Victor F. Weaver, Inc.

Cedar Crest FFA holds tour

LEBANON — On Tuesday, Aug. 4, Cedar Crest FFA members conducted a tour of members' farms for the school administration. The purpose of the tour was to aquaint the administration with FFA members' production and work experience projects. The group met in front of the high school at 8:30 a.m. Stops on the tour included Rodney Leonard's rabbits and home improvement projects, the Edgar Gish farm, Frey's Farm Market, and Joseph Eckenrode farm, Dana Lape's poultry projects, the Glenn Wenger farm, the Jay Zuck Farm, the Ronald Lentz Farm, and Dave Gettle's rabbits.

A picnic style lunch of steak, sweet corn, potatoes, salad and pie and ice cream was served. The meal was prepared by Mrs. Wenger.

Members participating in the tour were Rodney Leonard, Scott Eckenrode, Dwayne Gish, Dave Ludwig, Steve Wenger, Dale Zuck, Jeff Zuck, Greg Lentz, Mark Patches, Dan Groff, Dave Groff, and Mr. Harold Berkheiser, Advisor. Administration attending included Marlin Kessler, Joseph Hartman, Robert Maurer and Glenn Caufman.

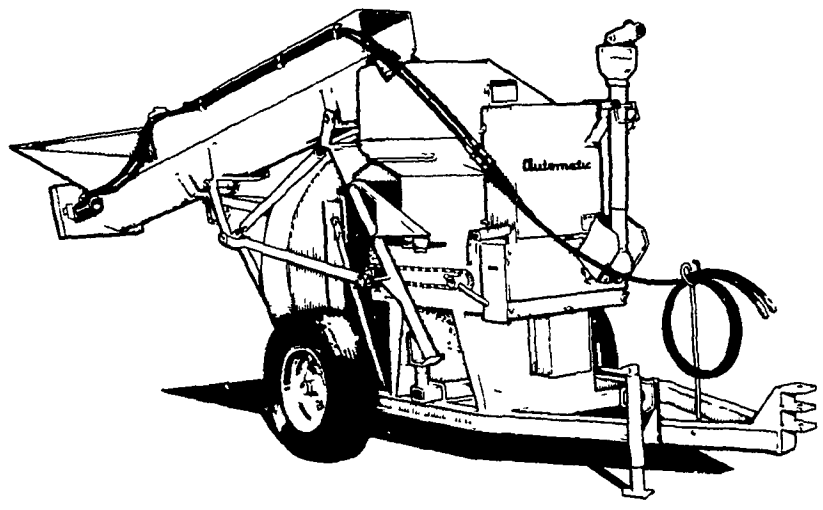
Research shows you can get 25% more profit per acre by rolling and feeding earcorn, corn-cob mix.



THE AUTOMATIC EARCORN BLOWER MILL handles wet, frozen earcorn, even roasting ears. New integral blower discharge has a powerful 54-inch blower powered direct from mill drive shaft, blows processed feed directly into upright silo. High moisture facilities...up to 550 bu. per hour. Available with swivel spout for use with wagons, pit or bunker silo, etc.

Unique crusher rolls shell the corn, crush the cob ahead of the rolls. No screens to plug, change, or slow down capacity. This exclusive feature permits operation with half the horsepower of competitive machines. Extra heavy-duty construction with 1¾-inch fatigue-proof, ground and polished drive shaft and 20-spline PTO drive with shear pin protection. Tapered auger base keeps mill clean — reduces build up of high-moisture grain or silage.

Area FFA chapters win top national awards

ALEXANDRIA, VA. — Twelve Pennsylvania FFA chapters have won emblems in the National Chapter Award Program and the Building Our American Communities (BOAC) Program.

The awards will be presented at the 54th National FFA Convention scheduled Nov. 12-14 in Kansas City, Mo.

Gold emblems for superior performance in comprehensive chapter programs were earned by two Lancaster County chapters and one Lebanon County chapter in the National Chapter Award Program.

The gold went to Cloister Chapter, of Ephrata, and Grassland Chapter, New Holland, in Lancaster County and Northern Lebanon Chapter at Fredericksburg in Lebanon County.

A silver emblem in the chapter competition goes to the Conrad Weiser Chapter at Robesonia.

Bronze emblem winners include Cedar Crest Chapter, Lebanon; Eastern Lebanon County Chapter, Myerstown; H. G. Parkinson Chapter, McDonald; Lehigh County Chapter, Schnecksville; Lower Dauphin Chapter, Hummelstown; and Mifflinburg Chapter, Mifflinburg.

The silver emblem winner in the BOAC Program is Northern Lebanon Chapter.

Bronze BOAC emblems were won by Apple City Chapter, Biglerville; Conrad Weiser Chapter and Twin Valley Chapter, Elverson.

In all, 109 of the nation's most active FFA chapters will receive the gold emblem in the National Chapter Award Program at the upcoming convention in November.

A total of 376 of the country's more than 8000 chapters will receive the gold, silver or bronze emblems.

The program encourages FFA chapters and members to participate in a wide variety of activities in vocational agriculture from the local to the national level. The awards are sponsored by the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

Chapters earn the awards for activities in 11 areas of involvement. These areas include supervised agricultural experience; cooperation; community service; leadership; earnings, savings and investments; conduct of meetings; scholarship, recreation; public relations; state and national activities; and Alumni relations.

Many of the chapters are also involved in community activities.

The BOAC awards will be presented to 180 chapters at the national convention. During the convention, one of the chapters will be awarded a national citation for BOAC activities.

The BOAC program is used to enhance agricultural economic development of communities by identifying jobs and creating coalitions that discover new areas for agricultural employment. It helps prepare future community and national leaders, instills a sense of community responsibility within chapter members and encourages them to become involved in the community development process.

This year marks the 10th anniversary of the program designed to recognize FFA chapters whose efforts and achievements in community development are the most outstanding in the nation.

The silver emblem won by the Northern Lebanon Chapter recognized chapter efforts in grading, seeding and building of a new softball field on school property, along with a backstop.

The project was started last Septmeber. Dugouts for the school's baseball field were also constructed in cooperation with the vocational arts department.

At Conrad Weiser, chapter members participated in several activities. Work continued on the historic Dry Road Farm, including the planting of apple trees in the restoration of the orchard and pine trees along the farm's border.

An energy tips program was conducted over the local cable TV and a glass recycling center was established. Some 2500 trout were once again stocked in cooperation with the Cocalico Watershed Association.

During the coming year, Conrad Weiser will be conducting a home energy audit program in cooperation with Pennsylvania Power and Light Co.

Twin Valley's BOAC projects included sponsoring a pumpkin program in the elementary schools in which seeds are distributed in spring and the pumpkins are judged in the fall. During Farm-City Week, third graders at the three elementary schools were taken on tours of local farms and in the Spring a Food for America program was conducted. Work also continued on the landscaping of the Medical Arts Building at Morgantown.

At Biglerville, the Apple City Chapter had four projects. They included landscaping the Adams County SPCA property, continuing restoration work in the Gettysburg National Park, planting of silver maple and locust trees in the Oakside Community Park at Biglerville and fruit demonstration plots.

Chester elects officers

OXFORD — The Chester County Future Farmers of America have selected their officers for the upcoming year.

They are: President, William Wylee, from the Oxford chapter; Vice-President, Tom Roth, from the Owen J. Roberts chapter; Secretary, Sue Dougherty, from the Oxford chapter; Treasurer, Steve March, from the Owen J Roberts chapter; Reporter, Larry Landis, from the Octorara chapter; Sentinel, Mike Peters from the Octorara chapter; Adviser, Bill MacCauley, from the Octorara chapter and Chaplin Alven Geller, from the Oxford Chapter.

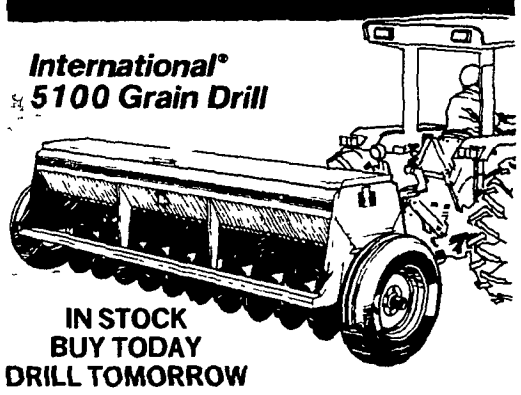
Better than ever seeding performance

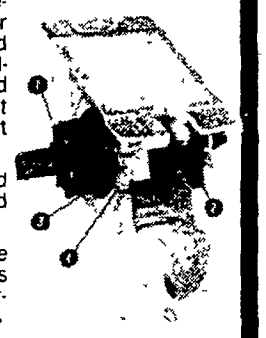


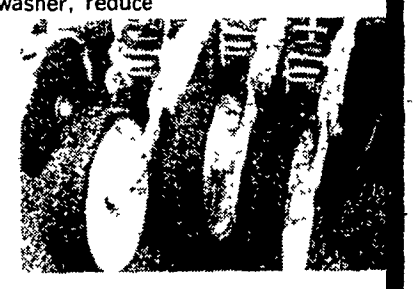
International*® 5100 Grain Drill

IN STOCK BUY TODAY DRILL TOMORROW

The secret is in the Seed Cup and the Depth Control Wheels

1. Fluted roll, molded of oxide-coated sintered metal, is tops for precision, smoothness and resistance to corrosion. It's well-supported at both ends, and precisely aligned for accuracy. It turns extra easy, and won't freeze up during idle periods
2. Shut-off block of sintered metal, is also precision-molded for accuracy
3. Fluted washer fits over the roll and mates closely with it. It's cadmiumplated to prevent corrosion, keep it like new for years
4. Insert acts as a positive bearing surface to surround and support the fluted washer, reduce wear.





Depth Control and press wheels aid in faster seed germination.

It is with regret that we take this method of letting our loyal customers know that we will no longer be representing Sperry New Holland in this area.

Due to the poor crops in our area in the past few years, our sales for New Holland were not enough for them to continue Stanley A. Klopp Inc. as a dealer. This was particularly sad news for us since their automatic baler was sold here before they were even made by New Holland Machinery Co.

We were old fashioned enough to believe we could sell and service in our own area and not infringe upon other dealer territories and still maintain our sales volume. However, New Holland verbally informed us we were to be terminated for lack of sales and our contract expired August 31, 1981.

Warranties will still be honored on machinery owned by us and sold to customers.

If there is anything we can help you on in machinery, don't hesitate to give us a call.

TORQUE AMPLIFIER, CLUTCH & TRANSMISSION PARTS & SERVICE

ATTENTION DEALERS!!!

We are distributing over a 10 state area for a company which handles renewed clutch discs and pressure plates for all the major lines of farm tractors and rebuilt TA units and TA parts for IH tractors. We have no minimum on quantity and our prices are very competitive For dealer price list or more info. please write or call

Rebuilt TA assemblies in stock for IH tractors, New and Rebuilt; Water Pumps, Dynalife clutches, pressure plates, and PTO drive shafts (are spline fitted into pressure plate; IN STOCK for tractors A, B, C through 1586, also for most models of IH combines Complete TA assemblies for 706-1586 are priced at $550 and come with a Dana Co. Heavy Duty Sprag instead of the usual IH sprag. The Dana sprag is guaranteed for 2 yrs. against failure. Sprag kits (includes sprag gear, Dana sprag & piston carrier) and all items for rebuilding your own TA assembly are available to qualified persons. Ramps and carriers for older style TA's (as in SMTA-340-560) are priced at $150 each and carry a 90 day guarantee. We have parts needed for TA repair in stock at prices which will save you money. Shop is available for complete TA installation or split the tractor and yourself and send the center housing to us. Complete rebuilt center housings available on exchange basis or for installation in tractors which did not have TA from factory.

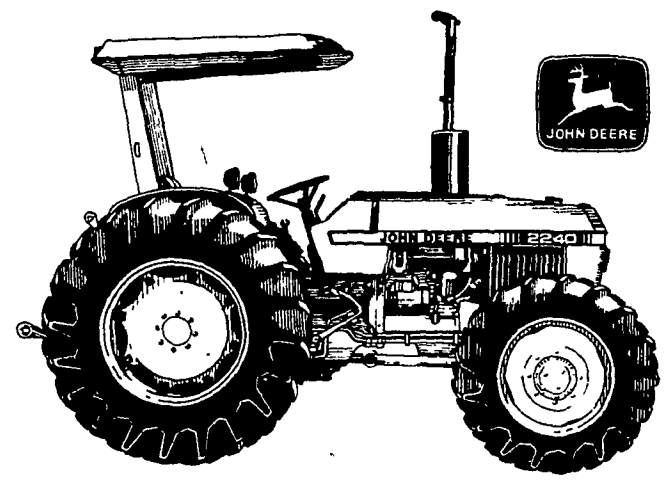
CERTIFIED SERVICE

ACT NOW AND SAVE

WHEN YOU BUY A NEW JOHN DEERE 40-TO 80-HP TRACTOR YOU EARN $500 OF JOHN DEERE MONEY AND SAVE ON FINANCE CHARGES



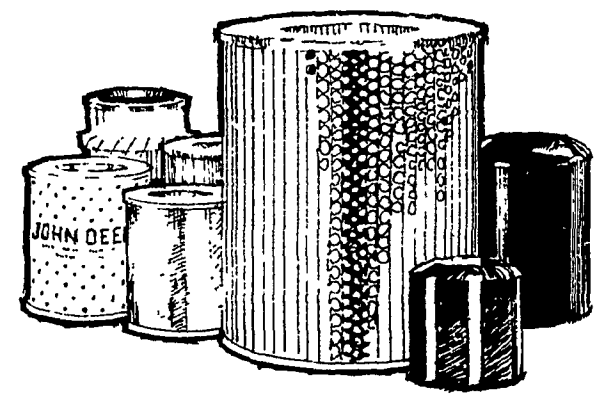
Buy a new 2040, 2240, 2440, 2640, or 2940 Tractor before November 20, 1981, and you'll qualify for $500 in John Deere money you can spend for goods or services at our store. And, no finance charges will accrue on purchases until March 1, 1982.* The same finance waiver offer applies to new implements purchased with the tractor.

But a $500 John Deere money bonus and a break on finance charges aren't all you get when you buy one of these 40- to 80-hp tractors. You also get a tractor with outstanding lugging ability, tough drivetrain and a lot of extras, such as closed-center hydraulics, as standard equipment.

So act now and save. It's your gain.

*This finance offer may be withdrawn at any time

SAVE NOW ON JOHN DEERE FILTER KITS



We're putting together filter kits that can save you money on dependable filter protection. Just tell us the model number of your John Deere machines and the average annual usage, and we'll build the kits right for you. And because you're buying in volume, we'll give you a discount from single filter prices.

Stop in soon. Stock up on quality John Deere filters and save.

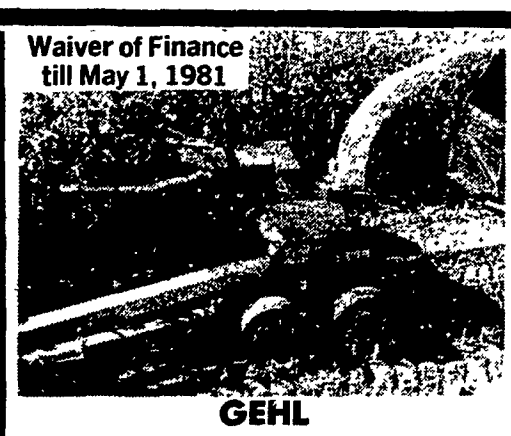
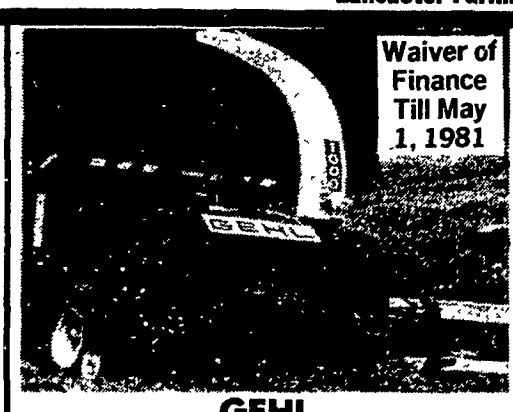
GEHL 750 forage harvester

Here's a mid-range performer at an economical price designed for use with tractors from 70 to 120 hp 540 and 1000 rpm drives available You get direct feed flow from the cylinder into the blower . the cylinder is actually set into the blower compartment, speeding material flow Eight heavy, tungsten carbide faced knives at 800 rpm give 6,400 cuts per minute Attachments include 1- and 2-row corn heads, hay pickups or mower bar Knife sharpener is just one of the many options available



GEHL 1250 forage harvester

This is the capacity giant a heavy duty forage harvester designed to handle tractors up to 250 hp, with capacity at lower levels as well! Giant 25½" cutting cylinder and nine knives make short work of big jobs Unique 6-paddle, 24" spinner delivery system keeps crop moving from cylinder to trailing box New one side cutterbar adjustment—the easiest adjustment system available anywhere—is standard Crop attachments include 2- and 3-row corn heads, 6 hay pickup, snapper head, water tank and swinging auger feeder for high moisture corn



GEHL 1000 forage harvester

The 1000 features Gehl's exclusive spinner delivery system, giving you high capacity in a heavy duty forage harvester With no cross augers to plug, you get continual flow of material from the large 21" cylinder into the off-set 36" blower Standard features include the in-head hydraulic knife sharpener, positive down stop for total attachment operating height control, one-way shear-bolt protection, and a wide choice of attachments. The 1000 is designed for efficient operation with tractors from 80 to 170 hp 540 or 1000 rpm drives available

GUNITE
Silo Relining & Repairs

Extensive tests have been conducted on Gunite Below are some of the properties of Gunite:

1. Excellent bonding
2. High Density
3. Extreme strength and hardness
4. High resistance to absorption

The excellent physical properties of the material are due to the water content being only the amount needed to satisfy chemical hydration.

Reseal and re-strengthen your silo with Gunite.

Kansas family enjoys the farm life

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

Fewer people, larger acreages and wide open spaces are just what you'd expect to find when you visit the Midwest. My family's trip to Kansas to visit a friend provided glimpses of life there and became a highlight of our vacation.

The trip to Kansas to visit Harold and Karen Engle and their three sons came about because Karen and I had once traveled to Germany together as delegates in the International 4-H Youth Exchange program. Even then we realized there were many large differences between the way her father farmed in western Kansas and the way my father farmed in Adams County, Pennsylvania. It was an educational experience at that time, not just for the German hosts but also for us!

Although our husbands and children had never met, everyone quickly became acquainted and the children became fast friends with the help of two ponies which were saddled for riding within minutes of our arrival. Later the ponies were harnessed, and there were wagon rides; there was fishing in a well-stocked pond; and the boys spent the first night sleeping in the backyard in a tent.

We also enjoyed a ride into the Flint Hills which provided a real view of open ranges and oil well country.

But mostly we learned about farming, Kansas style.

To the Engles, farming means 600 acres of crops, 1800 acres of pasture land and 800 head of feeder cattle annually. They farm in Madison, Kansas, a town of about 1,000 people in Eastern Kansas, near the Verdigris River.

Harold is in partnership with his father, Harold, Sr., and together with one hired man they handle the chores of farming and feeding cattle.

Harold explained that it is difficult to find a "typical" operation for their area, because each farmer does some things differently. Engle said their farm is "probably more diversified than farther west." In their feeding operation they feed out heifers — in itself somewhat unusual.

Harold stated why, "We feel there is greater opportunity with better management on heifers. We can keep them open and we push them harder. They have to gain every day we've got them. We can buy heifers cheaper."

Engle said that heifers finish at a lighter weight than steers, so they can have a greater turnover in numbers. Most people object to heifers because they get bred or because they can't get them to gain or they can't handle them. Engle feels their management takes care of the objections of most people.

Some of their cattle are marketed directly through a retail grocery store owned in partnership by Harold, Sr. and his brother. Harold noted, "The trade at the grocery store likes a smaller size cut, and the heifer carcass is smaller."

The grocery store has its own butcher shop where they slaughter two older cows and two heifers each Tuesday. The older cows are used for mixing into hamburger. They will also custom butcher and sell halves and quarters for home freezers at $1.29 hanging weight.

The rest of their cattle are marketed through two different local packers. Much of what they sell through one packer goes for East coast beef, but Engle states, "We'd be better off trying to capture more of the local market."

In their shop they like to slaughter heifers weighing around 900 pounds, but they keep some on feed longer according to the perference of the packer. Most of what they sell is Choice, yield grade two. Engle states, "We can produce a consistent product."

Harold Engle sits on the feeder at the edge of one of the feeding lots on his cattle farm in Kansas. The Engle family finishes heifers for the family retail grocery store and for local packers.

The Engles purchase cattle throughout the year so that they also have heifers available for their local market, but purchase most of them during fall and winter. In the winter they're fed a corn silage ration with alfalfa and dry rolled corn added. In the spring, the heaviest heifers stay on the feeding lot and a middle group goes on a three-month intensive grazing program with the lighter ones going on full season grazing. Engle said the intensive grazing yields 50 percent more gain per acre.

They purchase the cows they need at local auctions, and pregnancy test them before slaughtering the open ones. The pregnant ones bear calves and are slaughtered after the calf is weaned.

The Engles have little preference for breeds, since Engle says, "You cannot tell what color it is when the hide is off." They find they like the Charolais-Angus cross which gives the heavy muscling and size of the Charolais and the quality and marbling of the Angus. He pointed out that commercial feed lots don't like plain black animals, fearing the traditional short boned Angus.

Sunflower - the Kansas state flower

Daily chores with the animals include checking the herd each morning and doing any necessary veterinary work. Feeding is done in the evening. Engle says, "We feed once a day. Since cows eat mostly in the evening and the morning we feed in the evening and it stays fresh overnight." He added that commercial feed lots feed all day. Feeding is done by a mixer wagon in fence line feeders.

Keeping up with fences on 1800 acres of pasture land is no small matter and in the traditional way of the cowboy, horses are often used to go located places which need attention. However repairs are made and new fences built with the more modern kind of horsepower - the pick-up truck. "There are miles and miles of fences," Engle says.

The Engle brand

Fence building is not cheap. Engle says it costs about $250 for 80 rods, at $1.29 per posts and $30 per roll of wire. He added, "It may be $3 to $5 a rod above that." Fences are four or five rows of barbed wire.

At the time of our visit, they were cutting alfalfa hay and baling it in the traditional sized wire tied bales. They were dropped in groups of eight, then loaded and unloaded with a mechanized hay fork.

The Engles have about 95 acres of alfalfa, and according to Engle, "About a third of the time we get five cuttings and two thirds of the time we get four cuttings." Usually the first cutting goes into haylage, but this year they made the first two cuttings into haylage. They get about five tons to the acre.

They also make hay from native bluestem, which makes about a ton

Kansas family enjoys farming

per acre and can be cut only once, before July 10. Harold explains that the native grass must build up a carbohydrate reserve in the root system before going into the winter, which is why the cutting must be completed early.

Engle said, "We take half and leave half so as not to damage the native grass stand. It is a very fragile system. If the native grass is lost, there is nothing to naturally replace it." The native grass flourishes on one or two-inch soil, which is obviously untillable.

Most of the native bluestem is grazed, and Engle explained that it is burned off every few years in the spring to maximize production.

They have about 1800 acres in grass, and Engle explained that a yearling heifer requires about four acres whereas a cow and a calf will require about six - 10 acres. He said they figure they need 10 acres per animal unit year round.

They also farm about 135 acres of corn, mostly for silage, 230 acres of wheat, 33 acres of grain sorghum and 20 acres of soybeans. They double cropped 70 acres of forage sorghum, 37 acres of soybeans and 42 acres of grain sorghum.

We arrived in Kansas to find the same unseasonably cool weather that had hit Pennsylvania, and a better than average rainfall. Rainfall in eastern Kansas averages about 36 inches annually, but they suffered last year, with others, the worst drought since 1934 or 1936. "This year was a good year for corn," Engle noted.

While last year was extremely poor, Harold noted that they were not hurt too badly by the poor harvest because they try to carry enough over for about six months. They did purchase corn from Iowa and Nebraska, however.

Land there costs an average of $400 per acre, a figure which fluctuates widely according to the location, but getting into farming is still the same expensive proposition it is in the East. Engle says he feels the only way to start in farming at this point is "to marry it or inherit it."

Engle says "profitability" is the biggest problem facing agriculture now, but he also thoughtfully talks about the need for additional research, development and promotion. "The industry as a whole is in for some rough times," he predicts. "In absolute dollars beef has not been able to keep up."

A member of the Kansas Livestock Association, Engle has some strong ideas about the need for promotion and suggests that different types of farmers ought to promote their products to other farmers as well as to consumers.

The Engle family lives on a small portion of the land they own at the edge of Madison but their cattle operation is located on the original farm where Harold's parents live about two miles away. He points out that much of their total acreage is rented.

In some ways the town location prevents Karen from being involved in the daily activities of the farm, but she still performs those jobs which seem to be traditional with farm wives - taking meals to the fields during haying and getting parts when necessary.

The Engles have three sons - Kirk, 10, Kelt, 8, and Ryan, 3 - and Karen keeps busy with traditional activities for children of that age. The boys do not take an active part in farming partly because they live off the farm, and partly because, as here, there is a high level of mechanization which prevents young children from having a suitable job.

The older boys are very involved in baseball and are both active in 4-H which took up much of their summer. They have taken such projects as cooking, geology, small engines, reading and ponies.

Karen serves as a leader for the 4-H reading project, which includes field trips to the library. She explained that in her club, members can take any project they wish even if there is no leader for it. What this means, of course, is that the parents must give a lot of direction on some of the leaderless projects.

In another change from traditional 4-H as we know it, some of the projects, like cooking, are offered after school in the winter. This frees up summer for different projects. An interesting note is that school for our Kansas friends started last week. Karen often works as a substitute teacher in their district.

Karen is active in Aquarius, a federated junior woman's club, which has spearheaded such community projects as building a swimming pool and playground.

Life in Madison, Kansas, goes on at a relaxed pace, and a trip to the grocery store or around town means meeting only people you know. In many ways, the differences are small, with family life and farming offering many of the same problems, challenges and rewards as life and farming in Lancaster County.

Leader dogs take to the sky

BY JANE BRESEE
Staff Correspondent

ULSTER — The sky's the limit for the Bradford County lions 4-H Leader Dog Program. Six leader dog teams were treated to airplane rides at the Towanda airport recently as part of training the dogs to adjust to all kinds of life situations.

According to Lynn Priestner, leader of the 4-H Leader Dog Program, Don Simons of Towanda Aviation took great interest in her story about the seven Lion 4-H German Shepherd leader dog puppies in Bradford County. He generously offered two free airplane rides for them — one now, and perhaps a ride later next spring before they are ready for Leader Dog School in Michigan.

The young trainers were given the choice of taking the trip, and six arrived with their dogs at the airport. Jeff Seeley, and his dog, Champ, was away on vacation and did not come.

Eugene Wilbur, manager of the airport, assigned two teams at a time to ride in the Piper Warrior, a four passenger plane piloted by Bob Jenkins.

The dogs, looking splendid in their new leader dog blankets, settled in to the plane without a fuss with their young trainers. No one panicked or was sick during the short trip over the town of Towanda. The dogs slept through part of the trip, the kids said, rising up to look out the window once or twice.

Shawn Fisher, small son of the 4-H assistant leader, Chris Fisher, also rode along on one of the trips.

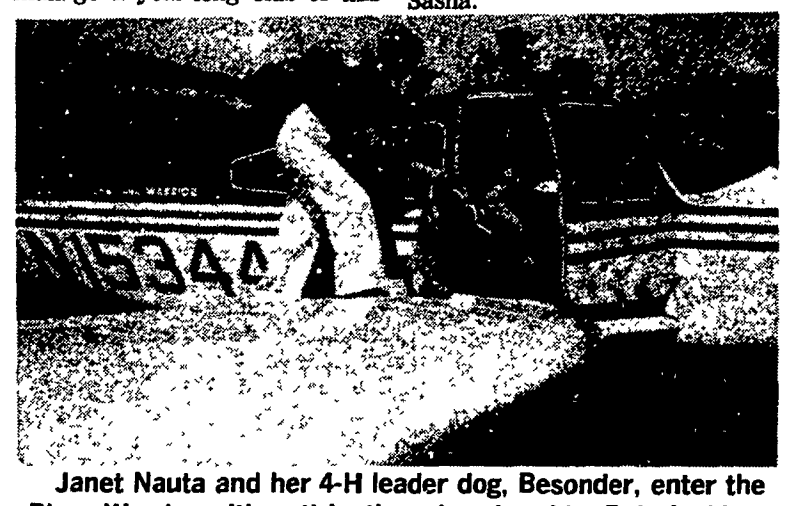
Taking advantage of the get-together, Mrs. Priestner, and her son, Rodger, and assistant, Mrs. Fisher, weighed and measured the dogs as part of the monthly ritual of record keeping.

The dogs have gained consistently well, and at five months of age, the largest weighs 55 pounds. Mrs. Priestner or her assistants make home visits about every two weeks and hold monthly meetings at the Extension office once a month. She praised her assistants, saying she could never manage a year-long club of this size without help.

No problems have arisen with the exception that occasionally a dog may not be allowed within a store or church. Each trainer carries an identification card explaining that his dog is a leader dog puppy. The parents surmise that as soon as word gets around about the project, all doors will be open for them.

The dogs have had plenty of exposure to different situations — some have ridden in boats, gone camping, attended the fair, shopped at the mall, and many other activities.

Teams treated to the ride were Bret Seeley and Spike; Diana Finnerty and Shauna; Maria Duart and Mika; Darlene Sawyer and Princess; Janet Nauta and Besonder; and Neil Hartzell and Sasha.



Janet Nauta and her 4-H leader dog, Besonder, enter the Piper Warrior with anticipation of a nice ride. Bob Jenkins, pilot, assists the young team into the plane at the Towanda Airport.

Soups and stews

Soups have been held in highest regard since early times. Even the Bible mentions soup in the story of Esau, who sold his birthright for a mess of "pottage." Pottage is the origin of the French word, "potage," for a thick soup.

Soups make fast, easy, and very nutritious meals for your family and they taste great on cool evenings such as we have now.

Try these favorites:

HAM—BEAN CHOWDER

2 qt. water
2 c. dried pea beans
3 T. butter
2 c. finely chopped onion
1/2 c. finely chopped celery
2 t. finely chopped garlic
3 cans condensed chicken broth water
1 ham shank, approx. 4 lb.
1 can tomatoes, 1 lb.
2 whole cloves
1 bay leaf
freshly ground pepper
2 c. shredded Cheddar cheese

Bring water to boil in 6-quart saucepot. Drop in beans and boil briskly for 2 minutes. Water should cover beans by at least 1 inch. Turn off heat. Let beans soak for one hour; drain, keeping liquid. Return beans to pot. Add 4 cups of the cooking liquid. Melt butter in a large skillet; saute onion, celery and garlic until tender, about 5 minutes. Scrape entire contents into saucepot. Combine chicken broth with water to make 6 cups. Add to saucepot. Peel skin from ham shank, cut off excess fat. Add shank and skin to saucepot along with tomatoes, cloves, bay leaf and pepper.

Simmer, covered, 2 hours or until ham is tender. Remove ham shank and skin; cool. Transfer soup to large bowl; remove bay leaf and cloves. Cut off meat; return meat to soup mix. Refrigerate. Skim off fat. Transfer to saucepot and bring to simmer. Stir in cheese until melted. Extra soup may be stored in the refrigerator and reheated, or cooled and poured into freezer containers and frozen. Thaw and reheat over low heat.

TANGY TOMATO SOUP

2 T. butter
2 T. chopped green onion
2 T. flour
1 T. instant beef bouillon
3 c. milk
24 oz. cocktail vegetable juice
1/2 t. Worcestershire sauce

Melt butter in saucepan; add onion. Saute onion until tender. Stir in flour and instant bouillon until smooth. Remove from heat; gradually stir in milk, vegetable juice and Worcestershire. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Boil and stir one minute. Serve immediately.

Mrs. Charles Smith, Somerset

FOUR—HOUR STEW

2 lb. beef, cubed
1 large chopped onion
6 large carrots, chunked
3 stalks celery, cut
1 large can whole potatoes, quartered
1 t. sugar
2 t. salt
1/2 t. pepper
1/2 c. tomato juice
1/4 c. water
2 T. tapioca

Combine beef and vegetables in heavy pan with cover. Mix sugar, salt, and tapioca and pour over meat and vegetables.

Then add 1/2 cup of tomato juice and 1/4 c. water. Mix well then cover the pan and cook in the oven for 4 hours at 250 degrees.

Mrs. Charles Biehl, Mertztown

Ham and bean chowder is a hot and hearty cool-evening meal. A hearty soup, it needs only the simplest of accompaniments, such as bread and butter, raw vegetable relishes and milk.

FRENCH ONION SOUP

3 T. butter
6 medium white onions, sliced
4 c. bouillon
6 slices French bread
4 T. butter
1/2 c. grated parmesan cheese

Melt butter. Saute sliced onion in butter until transparent. Add bouillon and cover.

Cook slowly until onions are tender. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Heat to boiling point. Butter and toast French bread. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

Bake in top of oven at 450 degrees until cheese browns lightly. Float slices of toasted cheese bead on top of soup. Serve hot.

Mrs. Charles Biehl, Mertztown

MEATBALL SUPPER SOUP

1 lb. ground beef
1 t. beef bouillon
1 egg
1/2 c. milk
3/4 c. bread crumbs
flour
2 T. oil
1 quart boiling water
1 1/2 T. beef bouillon
1 pkg. frozen green beans
1/4 lb. egg noodles

Combine meat, 1 t. bouillon, egg and milk and crumbs. Shape into small balls. Roll in flour. Brown in oil and large Dutch oven. Drain off fat. Add water and remaining bouillon green beans. Bring to boil. Add eggs and noodles. Simmer about 15 minutes, until noodles are tender.

Barbara Russell, Pine Bush

CHICKEN CORN SOUP

1 chicken or pieces
10 ears of corn
1 onion chopped
1/2 c. celery chopped
salt
pepper
parsley to taste

Cook chicken until tender. Take meat from bones and cut up, add to broth and add with equal water, onion and celery. Cut corn from cob and add to soup. Cook until vegetables are done, add lots of parsley and rivvels.

Rivvels:
1 1/4 c. flour
salt
1 egg, well beaten

Mix with fingers until crumbly. Drop into hot soup. Simmer for 15 minutes.

Mrs. Chester Warren, Jr.
Chester Springs

QUICK SUPPER SOUP

Brown 3/4 pound hamburger and 1 1/2 c. chopped onion. Add 1 1/3 c. diced carrots and 1 1/4 c. chopped celery. Add 2 1/4 c. tomatoes, 4 c. water, 2 t. salt, 1 T. sugar. Bring to boil, cover and simmer about 45 minutes.

Mrs. Herman Stoltzfus,
Cochransville

The following funnel cake recipes and jelly omelet are answers to requests sent in by our readers. Enjoy!

JELLY OMELET

3 eggs
3 T. cream
dash of salt
1 T. fat
jelly, as much as needed

Beat eggs until fluffy. Beat in cream and salt. Pour into hot fat in skillet over low heat. Cook slowly. As surface begins to set, start lifting it slightly with spatula to let uncooked portion flow underneath and cook. As soon as all the mixture seems set, spread it with jelly, any flavor. Then fold it over. Serve immediately.

Claudia Reinhold, Reading

FUNNEL CAKES

1 egg
2/3 c. milk
1 1/3 c. flour
1 t. baking soda
2 T. sugar
1/4 t. salt
3/4 t. baking powder

Mix all ingredients well. Use tunnel to put in frying pan of hot crisco oil. Brown on one side, turn and brown. Put on dish and put some confectionary sugar on top and serve.

Betty Evans, Pequea

FUNNEL CAKE

1 quart milk
salt
2 eggs
1 1/2 quart flour
sugar
1/4 t. baking powder

Make milk real warm. Add flour and beaten eggs, baking powder. Beat briskly. Put through a large funnel and float them in hot vegetable oil or fat. When golden brown, turn on other side. Eat with molasses or a wine sauce.

Jennie Bulson, New York

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Co. Society 26

Society 26 toured the Lancaster General Hospital for its safety program.

The meeting was held in the home of Lorraine Cassel.

Arrangements were made for the farm show, work project, and election of officers. Refreshments and fellowship were enjoyed by the farm women.

Lancaster Co. Society 7

Farm Women 7 met at the Midway Church Pavilion for their annual family picnic.

Serving on the committee was Mrs. Pat Hostetter, Mrs. Elsie Kreider, Mrs. Lois Heisey, and Mrs. Shirley Hostetter.

A short business meeting was held afterwards.

Group 7 will be entertained by Group 2 at the Kimmerling's Grange on September 3.

Society 7 will be going on a trip to Harbor Place on Sept. 16.

Lancaster Co. Society 11

Farm Women 11 met on August 27 at Chestnut Level Church House to celebrate their 56th anniversary. A delicious luncheon was served by the Women's Association of the Chestnut Level Church.

Roll call was answered by 17 members and 9 guests, telling their busiest day this summer.

Reservations for the County Convention on November 7, should be given to president Dorothy Boas, 786-3390, as soon as possible.

For the program, Sandy Galbreath of Peach Bottom, student at Lock Haven College, sang three lovely solos, and Sue Kauffman, Peach Bottom, a feature writer for Lancaster Farming, gave a most interesting and enjoyable talk on "Some of my Days and Experiences as a Farmer's wife."

The September meeting, on Sept 24, will be a bus trip to the Allentown Mall.

Berks Co. Society 4

Berks County 4 held their August meeting at Taylor's Miniature Golf, R5, Boyertown. A family picnic was enjoyed by twelve members and their families.

A brief meeting followed the meal. Games were played by everyone.

Berks Co. Society 7

The August meeting of Berks County Society 7 was held recently at the home of Pat McKinney.

Betty Schmoyer of Conrad Weiser Schools gave a talk on safety and the school programs. Members followed the discussion with questions.

Plans were made for door prizes for the county hoe-down, October 24 at the Hamburg Field House.

For the September meeting, members will visit the "Abner Zook Wood Carving Studio."

The August meeting of Farm Women Group 12 was held at Kauffman Bar-B-Que Ranch, Rehresburg.

Before the meeting the members played miniature golf.

The County Convention is at the Ag-Center Saturday, October 3. Seven members are planning to attend.

The next meeting will be September 17, at 7:00 p.m. at Trainer's Midway Diner. This will be the birthday meeting. Each woman is reminded to bring a birthday present.

Lancaster Co. Society 22

Farm Women 22 held its August meeting at the home of Mrs. William Weller, Willow Street.

Mrs. Lester Landis presented the new slate of Officers for 1982-83. They are as follows: president, Mrs. William Weller; vice president, Mrs. Alan Bair; Secretary, Mrs. Raymond Witmer; Treasurer, Mrs. Jack Robinson.

Members were reminded of the following upcoming activities: The 30th anniversary banquet which will be held October 9 at the Revere Tavern in Paradise, Christmas in October, the theme of the Homemaker's Day held October 26-27 at the Farm and Home Center and the county convention, November 7, at the Farm and Home Center.

The next meeting will be held at Witmer's Greenhouse on Thursday evening September 10 at 7 p.m.

Porkettes sponsor information conference

DES MOINES, Ia. — Porkettes from across the nation will gather in Nashville, Tennessee to talk pork at the National Porkette Information Conference, November 11-13.

The Conference, which is held every other year, is designed to update Porkettes on projects, industry developments, and approaches they can use to more effectively reach the consumer with pork information.

A back-to-basics approach has been used in planning the conference, which starts off with a half-day communications seminar. It has been designed to give Porkettes an opportunity to learn new organizational and individual communications skills.

Speakers for the seminar include Ray Wilkinson, farm director for WRAL, Raleigh, North Carolina and president of the National Association of Farm Broadcasters, and Dr. Hale Starr, one of the nation's foremost communications authorities. The communications seminar is also being attended by the NPPC board of directors and pork producer leaders.

Porkettes have had an increasing interest in the USDA's commodity purchase program for school lunches and a special program will be held on this topic. Also, the new "Pork Goes to School" foodservice manual will be introduced and instructions given on how to use this manual when visiting with school lunch supervisors.

The back-to-basics approach is being used to update Porkettes on pigskin crafts, nutrition, choosing the utilizing a pork queen, planning farrowing schools and other Porkette projects. The program also features meat cutting and pork hors d'oeuvres cooking demonstrations.

Registration is $15 per person before October 1 and $30 after. The fee includes five meals and one copy of the new 'Porkette Reference Manual.' For more information and registration materials, contact NPPC, Consumer Affairs Department, P.O. Box 10383, Des Moines, Iowa, 50306, (515) 223-2600.

It takes two heads for top tomatoes

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Put one of the world's best tomato breeders next to one of your best garden-type tomato growers, and . . .

Zowie!

You've got tomatoes!

Rich, red ones.

Over four-and-a-half pounds worth in one cluster

The tomato variety is 'Show Me.' Developed by Victor Lambeth, University of Missouri-Columbia tomato breeder, it was first released in 1977.

Ever since its release, it's been a leader in tomato yield trials across the state.

Enter Art Gaus. Art has an office in the UMC Department of Horticulture right across from Lambeth's.

"Vic was always raving about how good the Show-Me tomatoes are, so I thought I'd give them a try," said Gaus.

Lambeth said he didn't doubt that Gaus would do well with his tomatoes.

"They're good yielders. But the main thing is that they have a firm texture and keep a long time. You can let them ripen on the vine to develop full flavor," Lambeth said.

"Also, Show-Me is crack-resistant, especially considering its size, and is somewhat resistant to a few of the foliage diseases. However, all tomato plants should be sprayed weekly with a fungicide such a maneb or zineb," Gaus said.

As good as Show-Me is, even Lambeth was surprised at how well Gaus' tomatoes grew.

"I've never seen them that big!"

And Gaus said simply: "You provided the genetics: I provided the environment."

Gaus said the secret to raising good tomatoes is water management. Under a normal season, trickle irrigation can best provide the right amount of water.

"This year we had super irrigation with all the rainfall. It was a challenge to keep plants alive; to keep them free from insects and diseases and to keep them from drowning," Gaus said.

"I grew them on a sandy loam soil, gave them a good general maintenance fertilizer before planting (12-12-12), sidedressed twice with calcium nitrate, and mulched them with dried lawn clippings."

The mulching was the tricky part. In years past, Gaus would put on mulch early to help hold moisture around the plants. This year, with all the rainfall, he waited until the end of July before putting on the mulch.

Ladies Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas

Lancaster Extension Home Economist

WHEN MOM GOES BACK TO SCHOOL

Is there a Mom in the back-to-school group in your household this year?

More and more women, many of them mothers of preschool and school age children, are returning to school. This calls for adjustments by all family members so that Mom doesn't have to carry the burden of all the work at home on top of the added tasks of school work.

Family members should support her in her new venture. They should realize that the decision to return to school took courage. She will be working very hard being a wife, mother and student.

Women return to school for many reasons. Sometimes they return to finish a program they started before they married. Others need to update skills to compete in the job market. But many times they return because they seek personal fulfillment and personal identity. Moms spend a lot of time doing for others, keeping the home life stable, giving unselfishly so that the other members of the family can develop and grow.

If there is a back-to-school Mom in your household this year, try to be as supportive as possible. When tasks are divided up, offer your help willingly.

When she has had a rough day, try to be patient. When you ask for a last minute favor and she has to refuse because she is studying for a big exam, try to be reasonable. When the clothes aren't clean, instead of asking her to wash them, pitch in and do it yourself! When dinner is late, pitch in and offer to fix hot dogs and soup.

There are numerous ways to support Mom when she goes back to school. Sometimes it won't be easy and you'll wish she had never undertaken the task. At these times try to remember all the time she has unselfishly helped you. Remember, she will be a better wife and mother for the experience because she will be a happier, fulfilled person.

OPEN DATED MILK A TOOL FOR CONSUMERS

Fluid milk has been open dated in Pennsylvania since 1974, when the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture started to require this practice.

Open dates help assure proper rotation. It encourages us to buy and use the oldest products first.

Open dates do not, however, tell you how long a product will keep. Consumers and distributors determine this by handling practices. For the longest keeping quality, store milk at 40°F. or below. Keep milk out of the light and return containers to the refrigerator immediately after use.

Look for open dates on the top or sides of containers. The date you see is nine days following when the milk was processed. Milk processed on September 7, for example will show 9-16 or September 16. When properly handled, most milk will keep for a few days after this.

Look for open dates on other dairy products. They will keep well beyond the "sell by" date when properly handled. If kept cold and out of the light, milk will keep for two weeks or more after processing. For best flavor use it before the open date expires.

COOL, DRY STORAGE KEY TO FREE FLOWING DETERGENT

Dinner's over, the dishwasher is loaded. You reach under the counter for the box of detergents, open it to pour and..nothing happens.

The problem is more often lumpy detergent than an empty box. Dishwasher detergents really absorb and retain moisture and carbon dioxide from the atmosphere. When this happens the detergent solidifies into large lumps.

You can avoid lumpy detergent by storing it in a cool, dry area. Though storage under the kitchen sink is convenient to the dishwasher, this area is generally too moist to keep detergent free flowing.

Upper cabinet shelves are better storage choices. They tend to be cooler and drier; they are also safer if you have young children in the home.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Webster doesn't have a strong enough word to cover my opinion of this character.

Low-down-snake-in-the-grass might come close. Except, I think more highly of snakes.

Other phrases that come to mind are not suitable for printing in a newspaper.

So let's just settle on "coward."

What else would you label a person who dumps unwanted pets along the road?

This particular coward, though, was more imaginative than most. Not only did he dump a grown hound and her two pups in our steer barn, he also left behind a container of dog food for the trio.

Perhaps that was a touch of compassion, or guilt, a flicker of concern that the little family have a bite to eat.

Or maybe that was just one way to assure that the dog would not immediately take off to find her way back home.

The pups were gone before we pieced together a scenario of what must have taken place. One, I believe, turned up at a neighbor's, who called the dog officer.

The whereabouts of the second pup still remains a mystery.

And, the mother has temporarily been adopted by another set of neighbors.

So it was with a gleeful feeling of "serves 'em right!" that I read a recent news release about another dog problem solution.

Seems that an unthinking owner had left his dogs cooped up in a tightly-closed car, in 92-degree heat. Instead of arresting the culprit responsible, enforcers agreed to let the owners in turn sit for a period of time in an equally hot, closed-up automobile.

Boy, oh boy, would I like to see dog dumpers get that kind of equality.

Let's also dump them, somewhere out along a lonely road. Maybe, in compassion we too should leave a few handfuls of dry dog food in a box for them to nibble.

Or better yet, let 'em go catch a rat for breakfast.

Injured trees need care

MEDIA — Now that this year's blitz-like attack on millions of trees by gypsy moth caterpillars and cankerworms is over, many people are wondering what to do about their sick-looking trees.

According to James J. McKeehen, Delaware County Extension agricultural agent, those whose trees have lost considerable foliage have reason to be concerned. Although the autumn-like appearance of infested trees in early summer and the awesome presence of caterpillar hordes are temporary, trees may be seriously weakened by defoliation and may suffer long lasting effects. Tree tops may become thin and turn off color, and buds and branches may die; some trees may die altogether.

Whether or not a tree succumbs to defoliation by severe insect feeding, depends on three main factors: tree condition, the number and severity of prior defoliations, and the presence of organisms that attack and kill stressed trees.

There are no simple answers to questions concerning to what degree or how often trees can be defoliated and not suffer. As a general rule, a tree is seriously affected by defoliation when enough leaves are removed to cause it to produce a second crop of leaves in the same growing season. This process is called refoliation. Defoliation, even at low levels, can be harmful if repeated for several years. Even healthy trees may die if they go through the defoliation-refoliation process for two or three years in succession.

Trees that have been severely defoliated one or more times and are under stress are often dealt a final blow by opportunistic organisms. One common organism is the shoestring root-rot fungus, which enters the bark and wood of weak, dying, or dead roots. Another that invades weakened oaks is the two-lined chestnut borer. This insect attacks by chewing feeding tunnels under the bark of branches and tree trunks. The combined attacks of the two organisms usually result in tree death. Often trees die so rapidly, especially in late summer, that their leaves suddenly wilt and turn brown.

There are two approaches to preventing or alleviating the problems of gypsy moth invasions and similar stress-producing conditions; One is directed against the insect; the other is designed to improve the growing conditions for trees around the home. Trees that are kept in a good state of health or vigor are less vulnerable to defoliation and attacks by opportunistic organisms.

Maintaining good nutrient and moisture levels is of paramount importance and includes:

—Keeping soil conditions favorable for the development and survival of the tree's finer feeder root system and minimizing construction activities, changing grades, soil compaction, and cutting roots.

—Maintaining the forest floor surface as natural as possible since the removal of organic acid-rich leaf litter can be especially harmful to oaks.

—Enhancing growth conditions for isolated trees by encircling them with mulch or ground cover plants.

Grass growing over feeder roots causes severe competition for moisture and nutrients. Avoiding applications of lime or weed killers around forest trees.

Finally, the best way to deal with insect attacks and other adverse conditions affecting trees is to preserve tree health with a regular preventive maintenance program consisting of pruning, damage repair, fertilizing, and pest control.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Generally we had pleasant weather for the 15 days that I spent in Europe. However, after taking pictures of the lion carved into a natural stone wall in Lucerne and leaving our rain gear on the bus, a sudden rain storm came up.

We were all on our own for two hours and as I came out of a Catholic Cathedral I walked into rain. So I gingerly picked my way along large buildings for several blocks back to the shopping section. Many of our group were huddled under awnings but I didn't intend to spend my morning that way. Therefore, I bought a two-dollar blue plastic umbrella and went merrily on my way. I found a beautiful flower-embroidered white blouse and a special red, white and blue paperweight in a jewelry store. Also managed to get a travelers check cashed so that I could buy a necktie for my husband.

Our lunch in the Stadtkeller Restaurant was a fun experience. After the cheese fondue, white sausage and fried potato meal, we were entertained with yodeling, long Alpine horns and polkas.

Then on our way to the big cable car that would carry us to Mt. Rigi, we stopped to see a church built with Italian stone. It had no windows but light filtered through the stone and gave a soft glow inside the building.

It was quite foggy and so the ride up the mountain was not as thrilling as it otherwise would have been. The last leg of the trip was in a cog railroad built in 1871, followed by a short steep hike to the peak. After a half-hour, the clouds cleared and we could see snow covered mountains nearby. It was 43 degrees and some farm buildings up there were built in 1604. Brown Swiss cows were pasturing at 6000 ft.

We got our bus at Vitznau and traveled to a ferry where we crossed 500 feet deep Lake Lucerne.

Our hotel was at Interlaken where a swift river ran through the town. All the towns had small bakeries to tempt us inside to spend our francs. Pies were $8.00 each. Unwrapped bread was left at hotels in big open trays.

Bearded beasts use "organs of touch"

LANCASTER — Whether a man is bearded or clean-shaven has nothing to do with his survival. But that's not true of all "bearded" animals.

Many wild creatures use their whiskers as "organs of touch" which help them find food and avoid obstacles in the dark.

Called "vibrissae" by scientists, animal whiskers are long straight hairs that grow out of tiny pits in the skin.

"Around the roots of the hairs are very sensitive nerves," explains the National Wildlife Federation's monthly publication for children. "When an animal's whiskers feel something, these nerves tell the creature what it is."

While animals such as rabbits, deer, and wolves have whiskers, they are active during the daylight and so depend on their senses of sight, smell, and hearing to find food and avoid enemies. Animals that usually prowl about in dark places make much greater use of their sensitive "feelers."

A cat's whiskers, for example, act "just like tiny fingers when the animals hunts at night," says Ranger Rick. They enable the feline to feel its way in the dark without bumping into anything. When a cat sticks its head into a dark hole or tries to slip through a picket fence, its whiskers let it know how much room it has.

Some animals' whiskers are a great help at mealtime. A walrus dives for clams in deep, dark waters where its thick, quill-like whiskers feel for tasty treats in the mud. Other aquatic animals, such as seals and otters, also find food with their vibrassae. Scientists have discovered that their whiskers act as a sort of sonar device, telling these animals that hunt in dark, cloudy waters whether a fish is moving up ahead—and exactly where to find it.

Could whiskered creatures survive if they suffered a close shave? Scientists still aren't sure just how dependent some animals are on their vibrassae, but clearly these sensitive hairs make life a lot easier for many animals who prowl by night.

4-H'ers take round-up honors

Globe-Run Elevation Tammy, owned by Petersburg dairy farmers, Vera and John Foster, Jr. was also chosen as Senior Champion.

The 4-year-old cow is out of Globe-Run Bootmaker Twinkle.

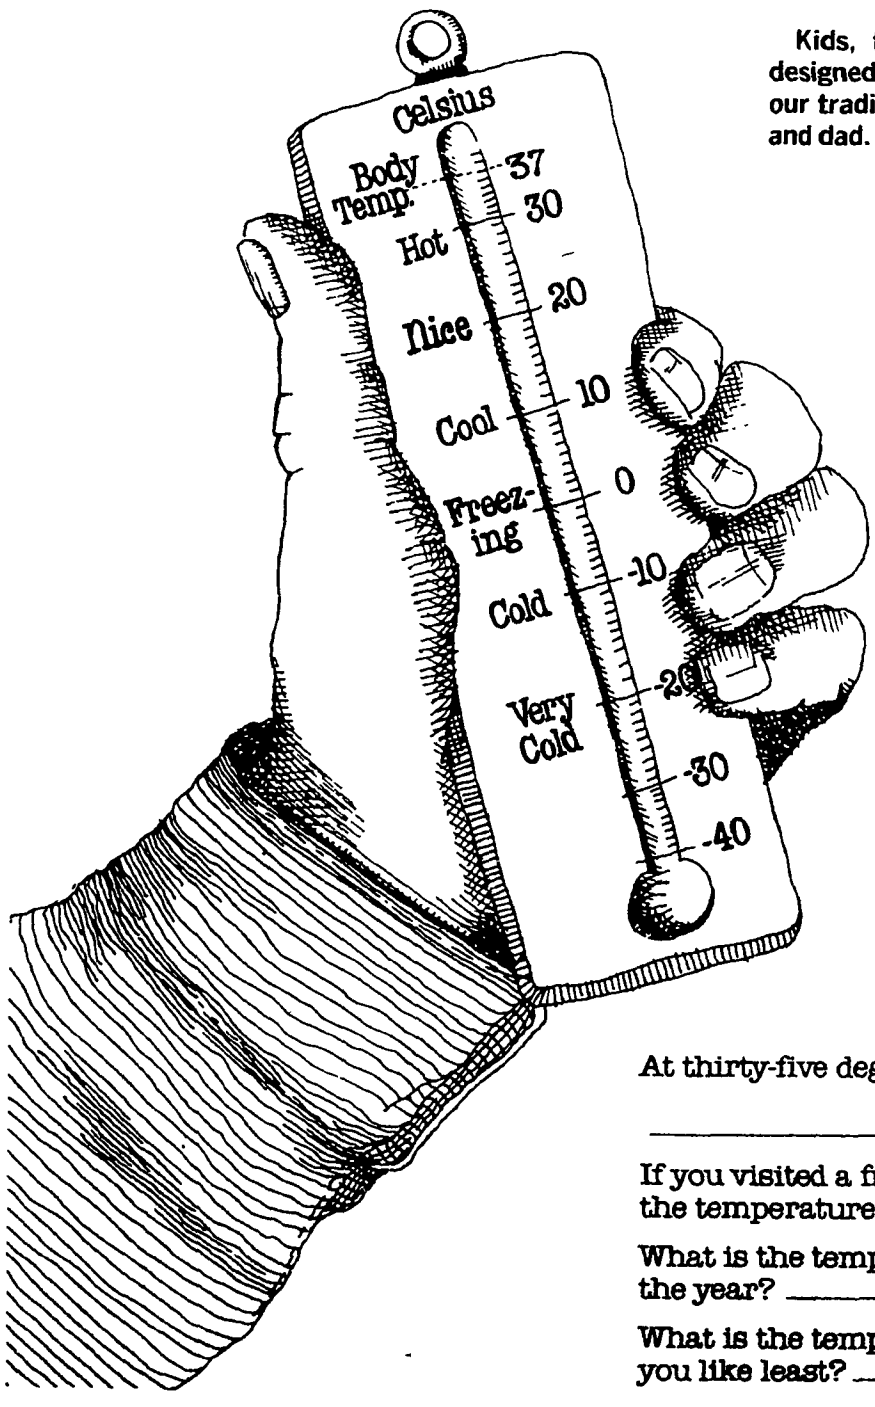
Metric Quiz

How Hot Is It in Metric?



Kids, this is the second in a series of metric quizzes designed especially for you to help you learn to convert from our traditional system. Try the quiz and then give it to mom and dad. They'll have to learn it too!

Use the following chart and poem to answer the questions written below.

To figure what kind of day it will be (metrically speaking), remember the following poem:

Thirty is hot
Twenty is nice
Ten is cool
Zero is ice

Try the following questions:

At thirty-five degrees Celsius, what would you wear outside?

If you visited a friend in Nome, Alaska, in December, what might the temperature be at midnight? _____

What is the temperature at noon during your favorite season of the year? _____

What is the temperature at noon during the season of the year you like least? _____

4-H'ers qualify for state show

GETTYSBURG — Three Adams County 4-H Horse members qualified their 4-H horse production animals for the State 4-H Horse Show to be held October 9-11.

Those qualifying from the county were Mark Sparrow, New Oxford in the Appaloosa Yearling Colt Class, Tim Ruth, New Oxford, in the Quarter Horse Colts of this year class and Kathy Meckley, Abbottstown, in the Quarter Horse Two Year Old Filly Class.

Craig Risinger, at Ag Progress Days last week, looks at the new microcomputers designed for farm use. The poster declares them to be applicable for alarm systems, controls, planning, and records. Too bad they can't bale the hay and milk the cows.

Adams Co. crowns new poultry queen

BIGLERVILLE — Lisa McMaster, 16, Gardners, was selected the 1981-1982 Adams County Poultry Queen last Thursday evening.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMaster, Lisa is a senior at Biglerville High School and helps take care of the 100,000 laying hens on her parents' Sunny Slope Farm.

Lisa was a member of the 1979 Adams County 4-H Poultry Judging Team that placed first in the state. At the National Contest she was ninth high individual in egg judging. In addition to her 4-H poultry activities, she plays field hockey, basketball and softball for Biglerville High School.

She was chosen during the Adams Country Poultry Association's banquet held at the Hickory Bridge Farm in Orrtanna. Lisa received her banner and crown from outgoing queen Michele King of York Springs.

Michele, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale King, is a senior at Bermudian Springs High School and reported on her activities during the past year. She attended various shows such as the Apple Harvest Festival, the South Mountain Fair and the Farm Show. She created and presented a slide show on poultry products to elementary children throughout the county, made television appearances and cooked an omelet on the capital steps during National Egg Month.

Woodsmen's contest

MT. JOY — The Mt. Joy Township forest fire crew will again host the Northeastern Lumberjack Championship Woodsmen Festival competition on September 11, 12, 1981. (Rain date September 18, 19).

On Saturday, September 12, starting at 10 a.m. the amateur woodsmen competition will offer beginning lumberjacks a chance to win a total of $250.00 in prizes in nine events. At 1:30 p.m. the pro-woodsmen competition will feature nine woodsmen events with the addition of a new event that is expected to draw competitors from as far away as Canada for the one-man bow saw competition. Pole climbing, log jousting and women's nail driving contests will be featured. A $1,500 total in prizes will be given away for the pro-competition.

A cake decorating contest will be held again this year. Cakes must be woodsmen-oriented and be in the crew headquarters by 7 p.m. Friday. They will be judged Saturday evening by professional cake decorators and the winners will receive $20.00 and $10.00.

Green Tree Forest Fire Station is located 1½ miles north of Route 230 and Route 283 in Mount Joy Township at Cloverleaf Road and Greentree Road, in northwestern Lancaster County. Any further questions, phone 717/653-2130 or write to Crew Headquarters, 139 North Market Street, Mount Joy, Pa. 17552.

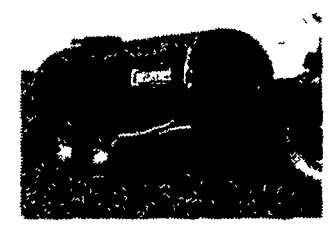
Maybe it's time you switched fertilizer tanks

Switch to a Calumet Liquid Manure Spreader

Compared to today's — and tomorrow's — sky-high fertilizer prices, manure is just too valuable to waste. A hundred cow dairy herd, for example, can save thousands of dollars every year in fertilizer costs.

Take full advantage of this liquid gold with a Calumet liquid manure spreader teamed with a 4-shank soil injector. Injecting can help retain four times the nitrogen that's usually lost with surface spreading — in addition to reducing odor and run-off problems.



Calumet spreaders, in capacities from 1625 to 4500 gallons, are engineered for efficiency and longevity. Heavy duty steel alloy tanks are coated with epoxy to resist corrosion. Double reinforced A-frames and support skids add strength for heavy loads. All Calumet liquid spreaders are backed by a 12-month warranty.

Make the best use of the fertilizer produced on your farm with a Calumet liquid spreader and soil injector.

Call for information on the value of manure—and some good reasons why you should switch fertilizer tanks.

Ag Progress produces happy cooks

BY DEBBIE KOONTZ

ROCK SPRINGS — Ag Progress Days proved that agriculture progresses in more areas than just in the field. It improves by leaps and bounds in its final stages as well-in the kitchen.

The 2nd Annual Pennsylvania Vegetable Contest held during Ag Progress produced four winners, 12 new recipes and many happy cooks, Wednesday, following a vegetable-making demonstration.

Named first place winner was Sue Arner of Freeport who declared, "I never thought I was going to win!"

Sue's concoction was "Cauliflower—Broccoli Salad," a favorite of the family's. For her endeavors, Sue received a check for $100 from the sponsors: Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Penn State University Extension Service.

Following in second place was Karen Donahue from Monroeton. Karen's recipe was "Lemon Spinach Custard."

Third place went to Eleanor Bartley, Altoona, who cooked up a delectable "Grated Turnip and Carrott Salad."

Showing a little creativity was Renee Foster who whipped together "Cheese-Baked Carrots."

If you want to join the many happy cooks who left Ag Progress with vegetable ideas in their hands and heads, read on and try these winning recipes:

CAULIFLOWER — BROCCOLI SALAD

2 1/2 c. chopped fresh broccoli
2 1/2 c. chopped fresh cauliflower
1 c. chopped green or purple onion
1/3 c. buttermilk
2 t. celery seeds
2/3 c. salad dressing

Combine vegetables in a large bowl, add remaining ingredients, tossing well. Chill.

Sue Arner, First Place

LEMON SPINACH CUSTARD

2 10 oz pkg. frozen spinach
4 T. flour
1/2 t. salt
1 1/2 c. milk
2/3 c. grated processed cheese
2 beaten eggs
2 T. minced onion
1 1/2 t. grated lemon peel

Cook spinach, drain well and set aside. Combine milk, flour and salt; cook until thick and smooth. Add to sauce. Add onion and lemon peel. Combine with spinach. Pour into greased 9 inch pie plate. Bake 40 minutes at 350 degrees (F) until knife inserted into center comes out clean.

It takes approximately 20 minutes to prepare this dish.

Karen Donahue, Second Place

GRATED TURNIP AND CARROT SALAD

1 c. grated turnips
1 c. grated carrots
1/2 t. celery seed
1/4 wedge of lemon
sprinkle of salt
5 T. salad dressing
2 hard cooked eggs
lettuce leaves

Mix grated turnips and carrots together. Add celery seed. Squeeze juice of 1/4 lemon over turnip and carrot mixture, add sprinkle of salt and toss.

Add toablespoons of salad dressing. Mix well. Arrange on lettuce leaves. Garnish with hard cook eggs (chopped).

Eleaner Bartley, Third Place

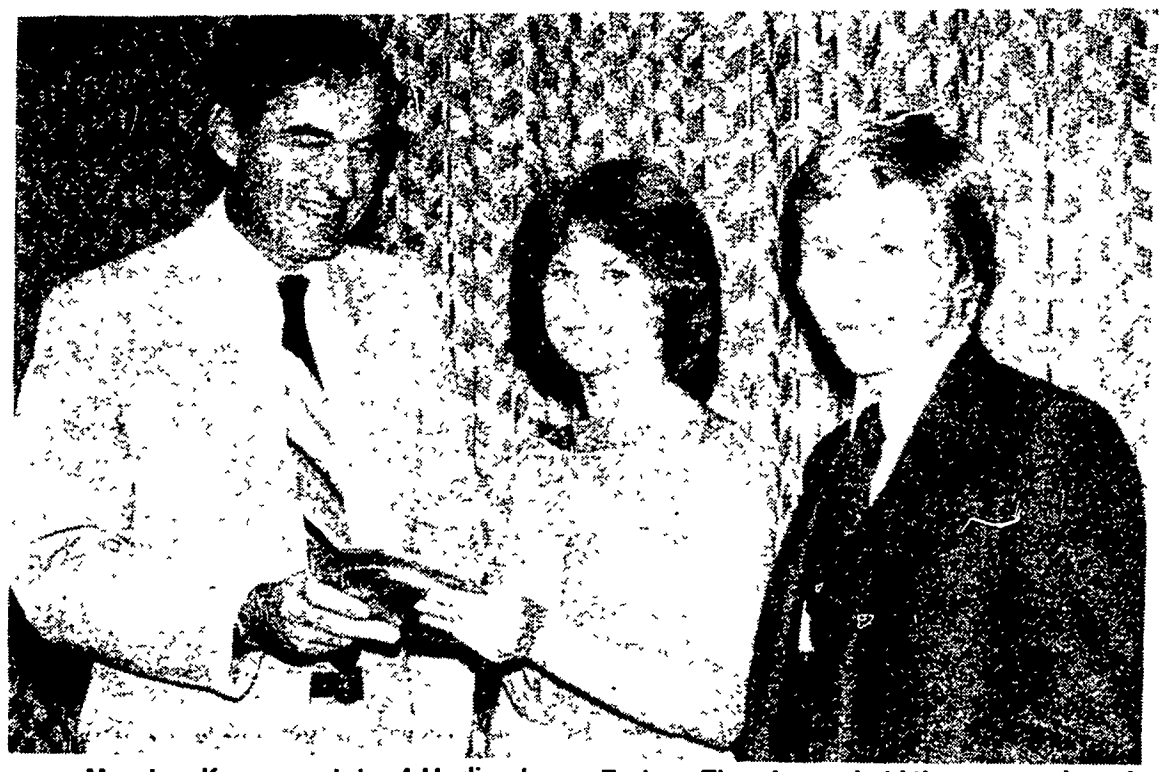
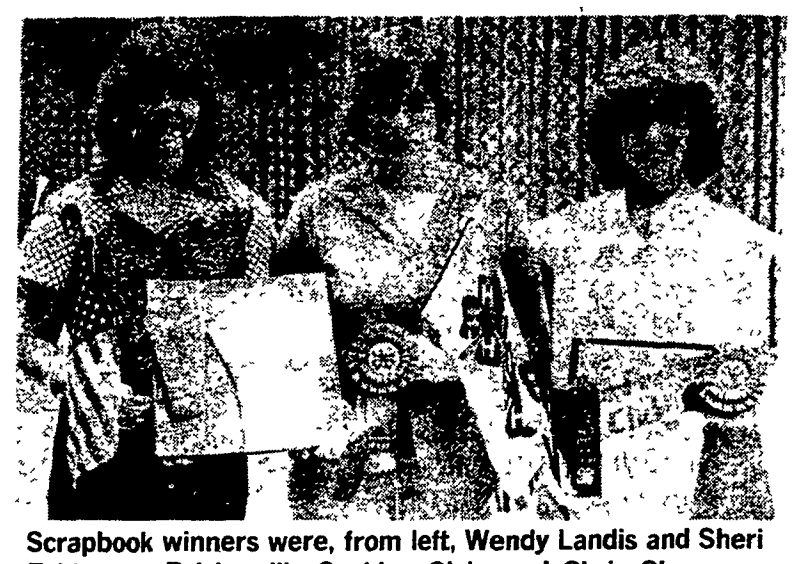
4-H'ers "hard work" pays off at Achievement Day Fair



Maurice Kramer, state 4-H director, congratulates Lancaster County's Outstanding 4-H Girl and Boy, Gretchen Doner and Hal Enders. The winners hold the engraved pewter plates they won.



Scrapbook winners were, from left, Wendy Landis and Sheri Eshleman, Brickerville Cooking Club, and Chris Chapman, Elm-Penryn Club. Chris was assisted by Darlene Keller who is absent. Awards for the outstanding scrapbooks were presented by LANCASTER FARMING newspaper.

Talent winners, seated by what else — the piano, were Jodi Zeamer, and Beka Baum in the Senior Division and Kathy Phillips, Junior Division.

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

LANCASTER — Hal Enders, 3203 Horizon Drive, Mountville, and Gretchen Doner, New Providence R2, were named Lancaster County's first Outstanding 4-H Boy and Girl at the annual 4-H Achievement Day held last Thursday at the Farm and Home Center. They were chosen from a field of nine contestants vying for the honor, and will be available throughout the year to make appearances on behalf of 4-H.

In the annual talent contest Cathy Shenk, Mastersonville 4-H Club, was selected as winner in the junior division with a vocal solo, "Give Them All to Jesus." Jodi Zeamer and Beka Baum, won the senior talent division with a vocal duet entitled, "Make My Life a Prayer to You." They are both members of the Mountville 4-H Community Club.

The annual event became a fair this year with the audience of two tents outside the Farm and Home Center to make room for the increased participation. There was something of interest for everyone, 4-H'ers and non-4-H'ers alike. There was a petting zoo and a wide variety of demonstrations to capture every child's interest, including cupcake decorating, a bike rodeo, silk flower making, a demonstration of backpacking and rocketry launches.

During the awards program, which was emceed by State 4-H Director Maurice Kramer, six junior and six senior 4-H'ers were selected to be on a 4-H Honor Roll on the basis of their activities and participation. A plaque will be engraved with their names and will be hung in the Farm and Home Center near the Extension office.

Named to the Junior Honor Roll were: Deb Martin, Conestoga, Penn Manor 4-H Club and the 4-H Woolies; Joyce Weaver, Mountville Community Club; Chris Chapman, Manheim, Elm-Penryn Club Sherry Goss, Conestoga, Penn Willow 4-H Club; Stacy Nestleroth, Manheim, Elm-Penryn Club, and 4-H Woolies; and Heidi Wenger, Ephrata, Ephrata Community Club.

Senior Division Honor Roll winners included: Cindy Risser, Leola, Manheim Township Club; Hal Enders, Mountville Community Club; Jodi Zeamer, Columbia, Mountville Community Club; Jenny Phillips, New Holland, Garden Spot 4-H Club; Jim Stauffer, Lancaster, Penn Manor Community Club, 4-H Woolies, and Red Rose Beef; and Anne Willwerth, Ephrata, Ephrata Super Sonic Sewers.

In winning the Outstanding 4-H Boy award, Hal Enders, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Enders, gave an inviting radio commercial making "an irresistable offer" of joining 4-H for the wide array of new experiences available. He answered a question about the benefits of 4-H to a city dweller by naming all the projects which are geared to city children.

A member of the Mountville 4-H Community Club, Hal has been a 4-H member for seven years.

Gretchen, a member of 4-H for five years, re-named the 4-H's in her radio spot, saying they stand for home, hard work, help and happiness. She invited others to join 4-H and add their own H's to the list. In response to a question about what to do if someone is interested in starting a 4-H club, Gretchen advised them to call the Extension office.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Doner, Gretchen is a member of the Rough Riders 4-H Horse Club.

The newest 4-H project in Lancaster County, clowning, had its share of interest at the Fair.

Raggedy Ann was a favorite project at the 4-H Fair.

WHY UNIPEL® 10-10-30 is an ideal fertilizer for alfalfa:

It has an excellent ratio of nutrients to help produce top yields of that high-Potash-consuming crop.

Adequate applications of complete, pelleted UNIPEL 10-10-30—after each cutting of alfalfa—can provide all of the nutrients needed to produce 6-8 tons of alfalfa per acre in a season.

That's saying a lot for one fertilizer! But UNIPEL 10-10-30 fertilizer does a lot! Let's talk about what it can do for your yield goals.

Horse club members win

Darcie Terrette and Kelly Rice, both members of the Rainbow Mountain Trail Blazers 4-H Club in the Shinglehouse area, qualified for the State Horse Show at the District 8 4-H Horse & Pony Show, August 22, at the Clearfield County Fairgrounds.

Darcie took first place in the Clover Leaf Barrel Race, over 13.2 hands. This will be her third time at the state show, as she also qualified in 1978 and 1980.

Kelly finished third in Open Trail Riding, 13.2 hands and under. This will mark Kelly's second year at the State Show. Last year she took fifth places in western pleasure pony and open trail pony.

Susan Pratt finished second in pleasure pony driving, but only the first place winner in that category qualified for state show.

Tioga holds livestock sale

WHITNEYVILLE — The Junior Livestock Sale of the Tioga County Fair was held Saturday, August 15 at the fairgrounds.

Stephanie Kocher, Mansfield sold her champion market lamb, 140 pounds, to C.V. Livestock for $4 a pound.

Reserve champion, also owned by Stephanie Kocher and weighing in at 110 pounds, sold to Boom and Painter for $3.60.

The Champion Market Steer, owned by Brian Zerby, Knoxville, weighed in at 1175 pounds and sold for $1.40 a pound.

Headwaters Farm Credit bought the Reserve Champion Market Steer from Scott Miller, Knoxville, for $1.05 per pound. The steer weighed 1005 pounds.

Rounding out the sale were the hogs, the Champion of which sold for $2.75 per pound to C.V. Livestock. This hog, owned and shown by Stephanie Kocher, Mansfield, weighed 225 pounds.

Reserve Champion Market Hog was owned by Susan Zerby, Knoxville. She sold her 215-pound hog for $2 per pound to Headwaters Farm Credit.

Joanna Furnace festival sheds light on old iron-making life

MORGANTOWN — Leave your modern day problems behind for a weekend and journey back into the past to discover how life was lived in southeastern Pennsylvania during the mid-1800s.

This invitation to join in an historic festival is extended to everyone by the Hay Creek Valley Historical Association. Their time-warp event is the Hay Creek Valley Fall Festival, taking place in the present time of September 11-13 at the site of an old iron making site, Joanna Furnace.

Although time has changed what used to be a hustle-bustle community of 1500 people into a landmark frequented only by occasional visitors and historical resurrectionists (volunteer masons, carpenter, archeologists, etc.), for three days in September the Joanna 'community' will once again become a boom town as folks gather to take part in the fall celebration.

According to an Association spokesman, the festival will 'recreate' the life of an early American iron platation from the 1790s to the early 1900s. Skilled craftsmen will be on hand to demonstrate their own special talents and to show visitors the basic fundamentals of their craft.

"Years ago, craftsmen and farmers didn't write 'how-to-manuals' — they showed their sons and daughters how to do things. The crafts people at the festival learned in that way and are now teaching others how to practice their crafts," stated John Fleming, Association president.

"This oral education is what the fall festival is all about. In 20 or 30 years, if these traditions and techniques are not passed on, they will be gone forever."

To give everyone a lesson in the ways of the past, skilled housewrights will form lumber and structural beams from logs. They will demonstrate the construction of an actual building by joining the structural members using the colonial peg method.

Other craftsmen will split fence posts and also produce hand and machine split shakes that at one time were used as shingles, Blacksmiths will make wrought iron farm implements and kitchen utensils. Others will domonstrate how wooden water pipes were made.

Also on hand will be a wheelwright, broommaker, cooper and basketmaker.

For those with an eye toward the less physically demanding crafts, people will be demonstrating the art of spinning, dyeing, weaving, chair caning, making herbal medicines and sauerkraut, quilting, and other domestic crafts.

And, to the delight of the most discerning palates, the festival will provide taste-tempting homemade bread, shoefly pies, apple cider and apple butter.

Since the Joanna residents of the 1800s toiled hard in the manufacture of iron stoves and ammunitions, they enjoyed the few leisure moments granted them by the ironmaster. For many, their off-work hours were spent in singing, especially hymns — probably vital in bolstering their courage to face those 12 hour work days for 6 or 7 days a week.

And music will highlight this year's fall festival bringing lots of toe-tapping fun on Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon.

Although not of the time period during which the Joanna furnace was in operation, more than 200 steam engines will be on display during the festival, including steam traction engines, old gasoline-powered tractors and stationary gasoline engines. The engines will be running and many will be used for powering machinery during demonstrations of wheat threshing, feed grinding, corn meal milling, and the operation of a large sawmill.

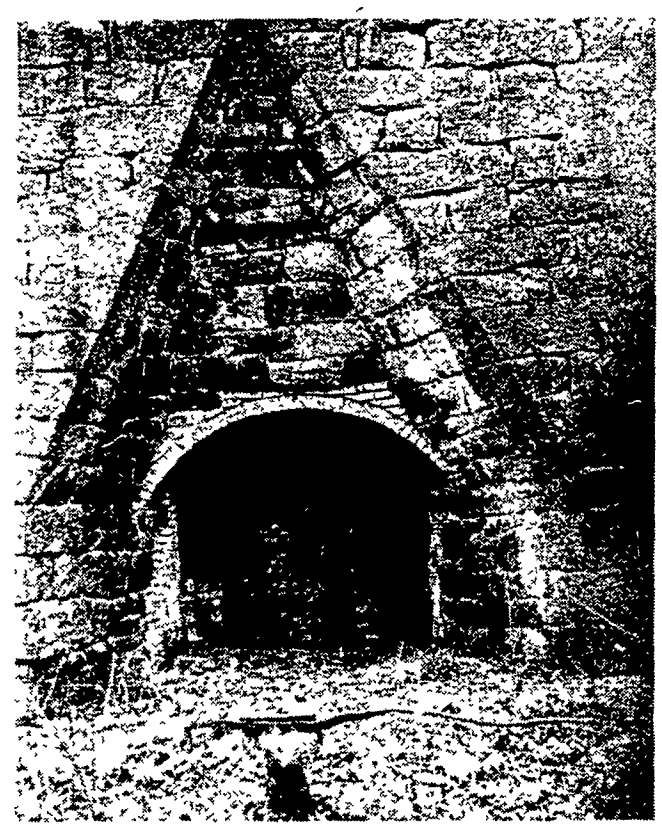
Serving as an ever-present reminder of the past, the restored Joanna Furnace will be the scene of colorful excitement. For the history buffs, there will be self-guided walking tours of the furnace. Association interpreters will be on hand to discuss the process of iron making, and tell tales of what took place in each of the five buildings on the site.

The furnace has undergone a major facelifting operation since the Association, made up of volunteers from Lancaster, Berks and Chester counties, was given the 10-acre site by Bethlehem Steel in 1979. During the two-years of ownership, nearly 700 people have freed the historical site from vines and brush, patched and repaired, and have given the once forgotten furnace rebirth.

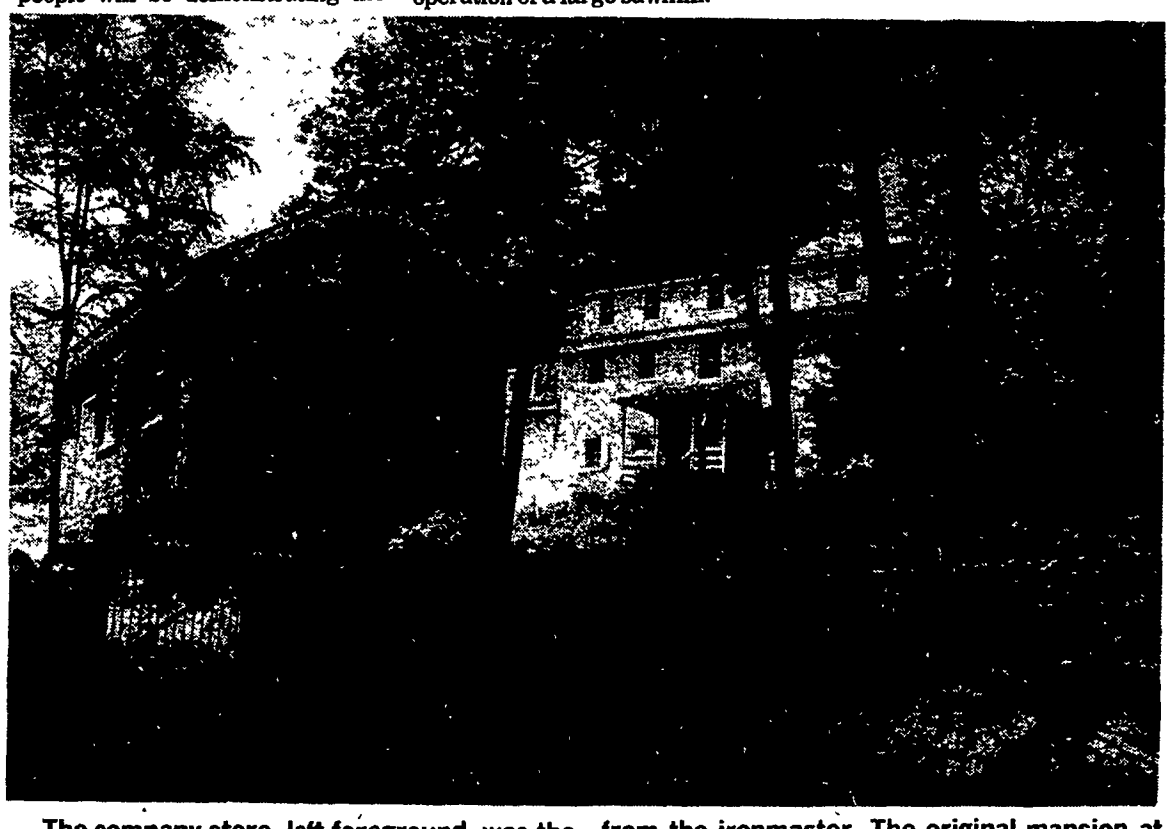
Now, the Joanna Furnace historical site has grown to 25 acres with a recent donation of land by Bethlehem steel, and the Association is planning a festival that reflects this progress — bigger and better.

Admission to the festival is $1 for adults, and children less than 16 years old are admitted without charge. Joanna Furnace is located along Route 10, 3½ miles north of the Pennsylvania Turnpike at the Morgantown Interchange 22. In case of severe weather, the festival will be postponed one week.

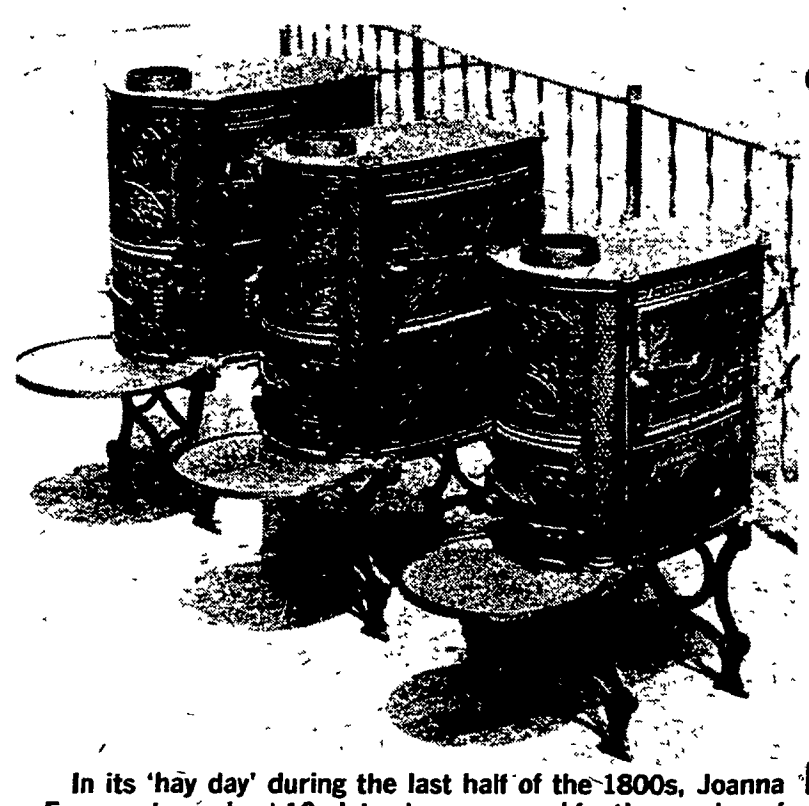
Historical Joanna Furnace, located near Morgantown, is being reclaimed from neglect and nature's efforts to shadow the old iron making factory behind brush and trees by the volunteers of the Hay Creek Historical Association. This photo shows the abandoned furnace as it appeared on December 17, 1916.



Forming a geometric marvel of perfectly placed stone, this entrance to the furnace stack in the casting house formerly spewed out molten iron every 12 hours. It flowed across a sand floor to pig molds, there it was cast into cannon balls, stove plates, etc.



The company store, left foreground, was the place where iron workers received their pay in form of supplies and their orders for the day from the ironmaster. The original mansion at the Furnace, background, dates back to 1792.



In its 'hay day' during the last half of the 1800s, Joanna Furnace turned out 10-plate stoves, named for the number of sections (plates) that made up the stoves' tops, sides, and bottoms.

Ritter wins engineering award

NEWARK, Del. — The American Society of Agricultural Engineers has named William F. Ritter outstanding young engineer in the North Atlantic Region. Ritter, a member of the Agricultural engineering faculty at the Univesity of Delaware, received the award for his research into waste management and nonpoint source pollution as well as for his service activities.

An active member of the agricultural engineering professional society, Ritter has chaired its national student design competition and its regional student career guidance committee. At present he is the program chairperson of the water quality committee of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Ritter has served as faculty advisor to three first place winners in the American Society of Agricultural Engineers' regional student paper competition. He is also active in the Toastmasters organization.

The award was presented at the annual meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, which was held this year at Brock University in Ontario, Canada.

Dura-Spring Gang Hangers.

This economical new disc from Bush Hog® is ideal for chemical incorporation and seedbed preparation. And, as in every Bush Hog, the design features work together to make up a rugged, high performance machine that handles the roughest soils. Optional dura-spring gang hangers are specially tapered for increased and controlled flexibility. Bearings are encased in rubber shock mounts for added protection. Standard rigid gang hangers feature triple-lip sealed, completely regreasable ball bearings.

Gang angles are 20 degrees front and 18 degrees rear with blade spacings of 7½", 9" or a combination of both. Wings flex up and down 9 degrees for better pulverizing on uneven ground.

Plant iris now

LANCASTER — Early to mid-August is a good time to buy or transplant iris for your flower garden. This will give them time to become reestablished before winter. Iris are easy to grow, requiring a minimum of care. They will tolerate poor soil as long as there is full sunshine on the garden. Iris are also very drought-resistant, which is a real asset in a dry summer.

The German, or bearded, iris needs a well-drained location. The beardless types, such as Japanese and Siberian iris, grow well in moist soil along a pond or stream.

Plant your iris with the thick underground stem, or rhizome, partly exposed on the soil surface. New roots will soon grow from the underside of these rhizomes. In dividing older iris clumps, each "fan" of leaves with attached rhizome, will form a new plant. It will usually take these plants about two years to flower.

Ram sale to be held

STATE COLLEGE — The third annual performance tested ram lamb sale will be held at 12:30 p.m. today in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center on Fox Hollow Road in State College.

The sale is featuring nine different breeds of sheep with both junior and senior ram entries in most of the breeds. Each of the rams will be in breeding condition and have been wormed.

The highest indexing ram Suffolk ram was a junior lamb consigned by William McCauley, Atglen. The lamb is sired by 'Hulk' BAB 55 and was born on January 28. The lamb had a final weight of 190 pounds and an index of 111.

The highest indexing Hampshire ram was consigned by Tim and Sarah Fleener, Lancaster. The lamb gained .96 pounds per day and had a final index of 110.

The highest indexing Dorset Ram was a senior ram born on October 10, 1980. This twin lamb consigned by Nix Besser Farm, Narvon had a .90 pound per gain a day and ended up with an index of 122.

The high indexing Shropshire had a final index of 113 and was consigned by Sho.-Cal. Farms, Berlin. Steve Kwisnek consigned the highest indexing Southdown with Orr Ram twin son.

Other breeds that were consigned to the sale include: Oxford — Emil Mellott, Needmore; Tunis — Dawn Madden, Lake Ariel; Montadale — David and Luann Sverduk, Dalton; Rambouillet — Mortimer Fuller, Clarks Summit.

In addition to the rams, there will be an invitational ewe sale which will start the sale. The ewes are to be consigned by major breeders from all over Pennsylvania. The ewe consignments all have good backgrounds and should make excellent flock additions.

The sale will include 67 ewes from 10 different breeds and all ages will be included. Dorset breeders will have thirteen ewes to chose from; while other breeds consigned include: 9 Shropshires; 13 Suffolks; 15 Hampshires; 3 Tunis; 3 Cheviots; 1 Corriedale; 1 Oxford; 3 Southdowns; and 3 Rambouillet.

Other ram consigners include: Troy Ness, Dallastown; Paul Leader, York; Bruce Horning Family, Berlin; Lynn Laudenslager, Dalmatia; Penn State Universtiy, University Park; James Black, Avella; John Holbert, Bedford.

Dirk Wise, Spring Mills; John Nordin, Russell; Shober Farm, Berlin; Clyde Brubaker, Lancaster; Mark and Francie Olver, Damascus; H.J. Showalter, Akron; M.E. Sevick, PA Furnace; Carolair Farm, Knoxville; Rebecca McCrumb, Mars.

Kenneth Staver, Palmyra; Nittany Valley Livestock, Bellefonte; Brain Zerby, Knoxville; Byron Hawthorne, Coatsville; Warn Mehennett, Cochranville; R. & T. Kirby, Macungie; Peggy McCrumb, Mars; Gary Kwisnek, Clarksburg; Emil Mellott, Needmore.

For more information about the sale contact Bob Kimble, Director of the Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA, 16801; Phone: 814/238-2527.

Put animal wastes to work

NEWARK, Del. — The farmer of bygone days knew the value of animal waste. But as inexpensive commercial fertilizers came on the market, manure became less attractive as a fertilizer because of handling problems and odor.

With the rising cost of commercial fertilizers, animal waste is again being considered as a nutrient source for crops. "Farmers aren't talking about waste disposal these days. Now the team is 'animal waste utilization'," says University of Delaware Extension specialist in environmental quality, Ross Harris.

"Animal wastes are still one of the best slow release fertilizers known to man," he says. But using them effectively calls for special know-how.

"First of all, you need to know their nutrient content. Applying manure to the land without first knowing this is like buying and applying Brand-X fertilizer," says Harris. "It's likely to be no bargain at all."

Nutrient values of animal waste can vary greatly, depending on time of year, feed ration, storage methods, age of material, and method of application. To use manures efficiently you need to know their specific nutrient content. Don't just rely on a chart that gives approximate values, have an analysis done, he advises. There are a number of laboratories which can do this for you.

Finding out the exact nutrient content of manure is just the first step. You've also got to put down the right amount. Rates of application vary greatly among spreaders. So find out how much yours applies. Too much manure may cause plants to lodge. And excess nutrients may run off into streams or leach into the groundwater.

To determine the rate of application for your spreader, follow this procedure:

Calculate the spreader's capacity in cubic feet;

Weigh a given volume of manure to find out its weight per cubic foot;

Multiply the spreader's capacity by the weight of a cubic foot of manure;

Convert the total weight to tons by dividing by 2000;

Measure off a plot of land 209x209 feet. (This will give you an area roughly equal to an acre);

Drive the spreader through the plot, applying manure to the entire area;

Count the number of loads that go on;

Multiply the total number of loads by the tons of manure in a single load. This will tell you roughly how many tons per acre you applied.

Making these calculations will help you make better use of livestock waste in crop production. The improved efficiency should result in reduced overhead costs and increased profits for you.

"Improper use of animal manure is a waste of valuable nutrients," says Harris. "This is dollars lost." Improper use can also have an adverse effect on surface and groundwater quality.

Internat'l food standards seminar set for Sept. 15-16

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Food and Drug Administration will host a seminar on Codex Commission activities here on September 15 and 16.

The Codex commission works to develop international food standards that will promote world-wide food safety and international trade in food products, according to Eddie Kimbrell, associate deputy administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Kimbrell said invited speakers include Secretary of Agriculture John Block, and Assistant Secretary of Agriculture C.W. McMillan. Two major speakers are expected from the Department of Health and Human Services' Food and Drug Administration; Commissioner Arthur Hull Hayes and Sanford Miller, Director of FDA's Bureau of Foods.

Also expected to attend are Graham Kermode, chief of the Joint FAO/WHO Food Standards Programme, and Don Kimmel of the Food and Agriculture Organization.

Deputy Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng will be the featured speaker at a dinner Sept. 15 at the Marriott Twin Bridges Hotel. The dinner will begin at 7:30 p.m., preceded by a 6 p.m. reception.

The Codex Commission was established in 1963 by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations and the World Health Organization.

According to Kimbrell, the purpose of the meeting is to assess the past and future role of the U.S. in the commission and to give the public the opportunity to learn about the commission. The meeting will also allow participants to assess the U.S. position in each of the 19 active Codex committees and to chart U.S. progress in accepting standards that have already been developed.

The seminar is free and open to the general public. It will be conducted in the Jefferson Auditorium at USDA's South Building, 14th and Independence Ave., S.W. Washington, D.C. Registration is from 8 to 9:30 a.m. on September 15 and the program begins at 9:30 a.m. On the second day, September 16, the program will begin at 8:30 a.m.

The seminar agenda and other information may be obtained by contacting Gerald Parlet, Rm. 2647 in the South Building, telephone 202/447-3676.

PSU corn field day coming Sept. 23

UNIVERSITY PARK — Two hundred acres of experimental croplands will be the setting for a major field day September 23 at the Agronomy Research Farm of Penn State, 8 miles southwest of the University Park campus on Route 45.

The field day will be devoted largely to corn crop management. Wagon tours will take visitors throughout the research farm. The day's tours will also include visits to plots showing soybean variety trials. Cultural tips for producing soybeans will be discussed.

Wagon tours and discussions will begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude by 4 p.m. Lunch will be available at the farm.

Visitors will have ample opportunity to ask questions about different aspects of corn management, according to Lynn D. Hoffman, superintendent of the Agronomy Research Farm. At least a dozen research persons and Extension specialists will be on hand — agronomists, plant pathologists, agricultural engineers, and entomologists.

Topics planned for the September 23 field day include the following: the effect of compaction on soil structure and corn yields; corn diseases, showing areas inoculated with common diseases; manure — its effect on weed control and on no-till corn yields; aspects of corn culture such as starter fertilizer, date of planting, and soil insecticide; treatment of corn bins, prior to storage, for insect control; varieties and cultural tips for growing soybeans; tillage and fertility for maximum corn yields; and fertility of forages, especially alfalfa.

Egg whites and baby pigs don't mix

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Egg whites and pigs don't mix.

Too bad, because eggs are a dandy source of protein.

It seems that spray-dried eggs don't work anywhere near as well as milk protein (casein) in baby pig diets.

"We think that's because of the avidin in egg whites. This is a protein complex which ties up biotin, a vitamin essential to baby pig growth," said Trygve Veum, University of Missouri-Columbia swine researcher.

"Apparently the spray-drying process does not completely deactivate avidin. This is not a problem in the food industry because the spray-dried egg whites are cooked or boiled, so the avidin is deactivated."

To make sure their avidin-biotin theory is correct, Veum and Kevin Watkins, UMC swine researcher, have been adding 10 to 15 times the biotin requirements to pigs fed spray-dried egg whites to see if that makes a difference in their growth.

"We hope we can get at the problem, because eggs should be a good protein source for baby pigs," Veum said.

In a related experiment, animal scientists Ross Hamilton and Brad Mathews are checking to see how much biotin synthesis actually takes place in the lower intestine of gilts and sows.

They found that significant amounts are produced, but biotin production is affected by antibiotics.

"Swine producers have been adding biotin to rations because they believe gilts and sows need the vitamin. This research should help to show when and if biotin additives are economical," Veum said.

SILAGE CONDITIONER PRESERVATIVE and NUTRIENT BALANCER
MOPRO THE PROFIT MAKER
MOPRO 100
LIQUID SILAGE FORTIFIER
A revolutionary new concept in improving silages. University tested and proven MOPRO Liquid Silage Fortifier is formulated to balance the major mineral and protein deficiencies of silages. It also prevents loss from mold and rot after being removed from the silo or trench. MOPRO is added at the time of ensiling and is applied by metering equipment with very little handling cost. MOPRO will not corrode mild steel tanks or brass fittings and has no free ammonia odor to irritate the eyes or skin. MOPRO is a homogeneous solution of ammonia salts, urea, cane molasses, and minerals (except salt and calcium) in an efficient liquid carrier. It provides nitrogen for improved fermentation in the rumen and contains a mineral balance of phosphorous, magnesium, and trace elements. MOPRO 100 will give a resulting silage of up to 14.3% protein.

Research shows bales stack up

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Seems like there are only so many ways to stack big, round hay bales.

And Stan Bell may try them all—just to find the arrangment that will do the least damage to barns and farmers' pocketbooks.

"If you stack those big bales wrong or too wet, the stacks can topple. Or the bales can overheat and burn. In either case, they can do some real damage to a barn," said Bell, research specialist at the University of Missouri-Columbia's Southwest Center near Mt. Vernon.

"Bales stored outside need a good covering and drainage or farmers will lose valuable hay nutrients."

Those losses can run 20 to 30 percent, said Howell Wheaton, UMC forage specialist.

First, there is standing loss. This is the loss of dry matter as bales stand in the field.

Then there is the damaged hay that cattle won't eat.

Finally, there is the weathered hay. Rain and sun beating on the bales reduces total digestible nutrients—a loss of nutritional energy.

Farmers can eliminate most of these losses by baling when hay is reasonably dry and storing it inside.

"Sheds or barns are fine if you already have them built and have storage space. Otherwise, it's questionable whether you can really afford to build a shed just to store hay," said Wheaton.

"Of course, if you're talking about good quality alfalfa for a dairy herd, the economics of putting up a building for hay is much more favorable."

Wheaton and Bell agreed that if farmers have to store hay outside, they should keep it high and dry.

Bell is currently comparing four methods of storing bales:

—Large roll and square bales stored inside a metal barn.

—Large bales stacked three high with bottom bales set on end.

—Large bales stored individually in rows.

Of the outside storing methods, Bell is most optimistic about the method in which the large bales are stacked three high with the bottom bales set on end.

"That way, there's a smaller area of hay in contact with the ground," he said. "With a good cover and proper drainage, this should be a good storage method."

Symposium set for October on pesticide application

PHILADELPHIA - The technical aspects of pesticide application and formulation, including procedures, equipment or formulation characteristics contributing to the effective and responsible use of pesticides, is the focus of the upcoming Symposium on Pesticide Formulations and Application Systems, sponsored by ASTM Committee E-35 on Pesticides, October 19, in Kansas City, Mo.

According to the Symposium Chairman, Keith Seymour of Dow Chemical Company, the symposium themes will include the presentation of papers concerning granular pesticide formulations or applications; spray equipment, techniques or formulation; containers for pesticide storage and delivery; and papers concerning other technical aspects of formulating or applying pesticides.

The symposium is divided into four sessions that will begin at 8:30 a.m. and conclude at 4:00 p.m. There is no fee to attend any of the symposium sessions.

A special technical publication on the symposium presentations is anticipated by ASTM. A nonprofit organization with headquarters in Philadelphia, ASTM is a world leader in the development of voluntary consensus standards for materials, products, systems, and services.

Additional information on the Symposium on Pesticide Formulations and Application Systems can be obtained from Keith Seymour, Dow Chemical Company, P.O. Box 1706, Midland, Michigan.

Two win in tractor driving contest

ROCK SPRINGS — Two high school students, one a 4-H member, the other in FFA, won first places in the State Safe Tractor Driving Contest at Ag Progress Days, last Thursday.

Winning in the 4-H division was Ken Young of Greencastle. Ken, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Young, is a member of the 4-H tractor driving club in Franklin County.

Ken is now eligible to compete in the 4-H Eastern United States Engineering Events, September 28 — 30 at Richmond, Virginia.

Terry Heller, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. John Heller of Newport won the FFA contest. Terry was also named high individual in the written exam which preceded the driving contest.

Terry, who just graduated high school, was a member and officer in the local FFA chapter for four years.

This young winner will now take part in the Safe Tractor Operating Contest, September 18 — 20 at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Massachusetts.

More than 30 contestants took part in the statewide event. They were judged on their ability to answer driving questions, perform troubleshooting, drive through obstacles pulling wagons and spreaders, and use of correct safety procedures.

The driving divison of the contest consisted of driving a tractor and manure spreader through an obstacle course, backing the spreader into a stall, and backing a four wheel wagon from one stall into another.

Judges for the event were: Carroll Howes, associat state 4-H director; Frank Bortz, 4-H specialist; Robert Lewis, 4-H specialist; Marcus Herrald, district FFA advisor; and Dean Witmer, district FFA advisor.

1. Ken Young, W. Greencastle; 2. John Marsteller, Jr., Stewartstown; 3. Tim Tanner, Smethport; 4. Chris Nehrig, Homer City; 5. Dan Spencer, Nicholson.

FFA

1. Terry Heller, Newport; 2. Larry Shelmire, Quakertown; 3. Mike Masser, Pitman; 4. Jim Zimmerman, Benton; 5. Bill Terrel, Waymart.

Ken Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Young of Franklin County checks his machinery during the Safe Tractor Driving Contest. Ken went on to win first place for the 4-H division. Behind him is judge Frank Bortz.

Terry Heller of Newport took first place for FFA in the Tractor Driving Contest held at Ag Progress Days, Thursday.

Solar workshop scheduled

LANCASTER — The Mid-Atlantic Regional Solar Resource Center will build a demonstration solar water heater during a public workshop, 9:00 a.m., September 12 in Lancaster.

A low-cost, high performance "batch heater" is the model selected for the workshop.

Basically, the heater consists of a highly-insulated, freestanding box containing a 40-gallon water tank coated with a special black, heat-retaining surface. Inside, the box is lined with reflective material to boost the tank's heat absoprtion.

Persons interested in attending the workshop or in purchasing the solar heater may contact the Resource Center at 291-1076.

DIAMOND CAGE SYSTEMS

THE SPACE SAVER - 4 HIGH STACKED

The Best Equipment For Converting Old Poultry Houses To Maximum Density

Thinking about making better use of your old poultry houses? Here's the answer

With Diamond's 4 High Stacked Layer Cage System, you can increase the bird density of an old stair-step cage house from 30,000 birds to 108,000. And that's without adding a single square foot of floor space. The system 811 is just 73" high and 60" wide.

If ceiling height permits you can increase bird density even more up to 135,000 birds with the 5-High System 812 or 162,000 birds with the 6 High System 813.

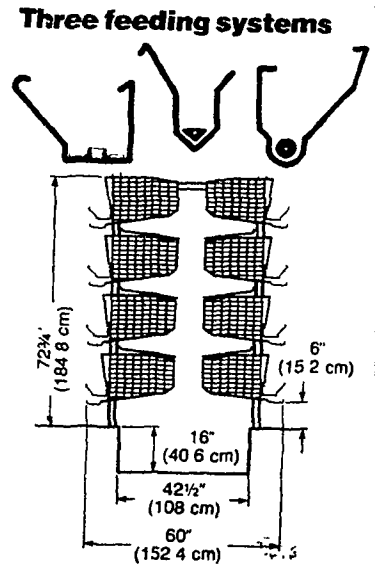
With new construction, you reduce your over-all investment per bird by putting more birds in a building and utilizing the otherwise wasted vertical space.

House Capacity, 4 High Stacked

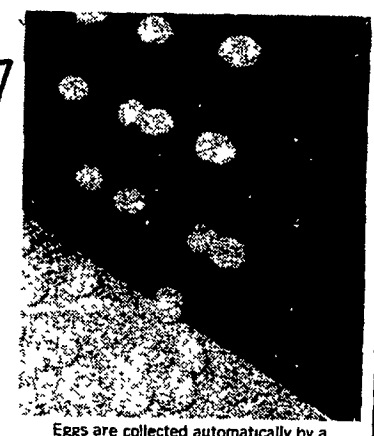
4 Rows - 200' - 28,800 Birds
4 Rows - 300' - 43,200 Birds
6 Rows - 400' - 86,400 Birds

The Diamond Stacked Layer Cage System is available with your choice of three feeding systems: the Flat Chain, F-80 Deep "V", or Link Chain. And three watering systems: troughs, cups, or nipples. Doors are located on front of all cages. Installation is fast and easy.

Three feeding systems



Manure is deposited on rust proof, fiber glass manure chutes under each tier of cages and removed automatically by a Diamond manure removal system proven over 12 years.



Eggs are collected automatically by a special high-capacity system designed for the Stacked System. Plastic or woven fabric belts are available.

Let Diamond take you higher than anyone else in the business, with the new Stacked Layer Cage System.

Super High House Density Means Lower Investment Per Bird.

For producers who want the maximum house density in new facilities or converted buildings, Diamond has developed the Stacked Layer Cage System.

This new system is available for deep pit houses and houses with pit scrapers or flat concrete slab.

Cover-cropped acres gain popularity

HARRISBURG — Winter grains are becoming more commonly used as a cover crop after corn, vegetables and other row crops. Last year, Pennsylvania farmers protected more than 9,000 acres.

The use of winter cover is especially important for low residue crops and where corn is harvested for silage or the stalks are removed for bedding, states Joel Myers, Dauphin County Soil Conservation Service.

Rye grain is the most commonly used cover crop seed. With adequate moisture, it will provide soil protection for the winter months as well as organic material for next year's crop.

Seeding may be done after crops are removed, when silage is harvested, or when other row crops are removed in time to prepare a seed bed and then apply the rye or other winter grain. The seed bed may be prepared by disking or chiseling.

Aerial application are gaining in popularity since it allows more timely seeding. Advantages include a reduction in labor for the farmer and an earlier date for seeding. Names of aerial applicators working in your area can be obtained by calling the local Conservation District.

Seeding rates for winter cover cropping using rye or wheat are two bushels per acre. The same application rate is used for aerial, blower or conventional application of the seed.

Myers stresses soil losses of 10-20 tons per acre can occur on land where residues are sparse during the winter months. By using a winter cover crop, soil loss can be significantly reduced with the added bonus of organic matter and improved moisture retention capacity for next year's crop.

USDA investigates suspect Australian meat imports

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has ordered its inspection force to seek out shipments of beef imported from an Australian slaughter plant because they may contain horsemeat. The department has also asked the cooperation of private meat industry representatives in locating meat from the plant.

"We have seized all suspect meat that has been found and we are actively tracing the remainder," said Donald L. Houston, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service. The department has initiated action to delist the plant, thereby blocking further imports, he said.

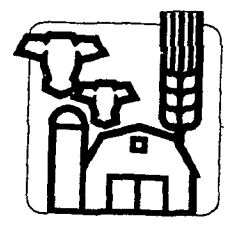
"At the request of FSIS, the department's Office of the Inspector General has begun an intensive investigation to determine the extent to which equine meat may have illicitly entered this country," he said.

Houston said that preliminary test results on boned, boxed beef intended for further processing in this country indicate adulteration of two lots (bulk shipments) by equine meat. The product apparently was imported from Establishment 140C (Profreeze), a slaughter plant near Melbourne, Australia.

The Australian government announced that it has suspended all exports from the plant pending further test results, and has pledged full cooperation in the investigation.

"Since January 1, 1981, some 45 shipments of meat from the plant have been imported into the United States," Houston said. "Product from those lots is being sought out for species analysis."

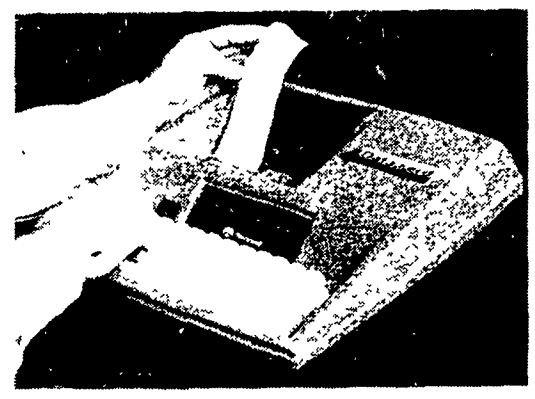
Houstin said that equine meat was first discovered in a 605-case lot of boneless beef at Foodmaker, Inc., a meat processing plant in San Diego, Calif. Subsequent testing revealed that a second shipment of the Australian firm's boneless beef, awaiting entry into this country at the Port of Los Angeles, also contained equine meat.

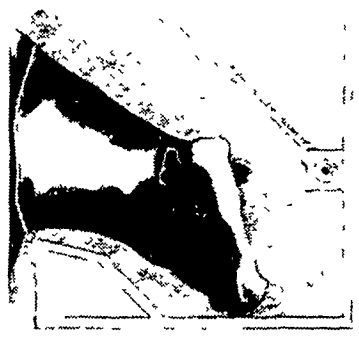


Data-Feed™

COMPUTERIZED DAIRY FEEDING SYSTEMS

Simple - Precise
Dependable - Inexpensive





Increases Milk Production - Saves Feed

With an I.D. tag on each cow, and a highly accurate scanner located in each feeder the computer is able to exactly identify and control the amount of feed each cow can have, based on her milk production.

THE DATA-FEED SYSTEM costs less - prices include computer, I D Tags and feeders.

Number of cows	30	60	120	240	475
System cost	$5646	$7194	$10,243	$16,491	$28,899
Monthly lease payment	$106	$135	$192	$309	$542

The DATA-FEED SYSTEM increases cash flow by increasing production and reducing feed costs

Projected increase* @ 180 per cow per year	$5400	$10,800	$21,600	$43,200	$85,500
Annual lease payments	-$1272	-$1620	-$2304	-$3708	-$6504
EXTRA CASH FLOW per year	$4128	$9180	$19,296	$39,492	$78,996

* Based on University of Missouri figures from "Feeding according to production", and saving only one pound of feed and gaining only 3 pounds of milk per cow per day on a herd average. For more information and a free demonstration without any obligation, call or write.

DATA-FEED SYSTEM features that make a difference:

1. Simple to use and operate, computer tells you how to program step by step.
2. Automatically feeds each cow individually the exact programmed ration based on her milk production.
3. Dairyman can change individual cow's ration with just a push of a button at any time.
4. Feeders can handle high moisture corn, complete feed, or concentrate.
5. Special feeders are capable of metering out 2 different rations in various amounts at the same time to selected cows.
6. A computer print-out every 6 hrs. shows date, time, each cow number, amount of feed ate, amount programmed, *indicates cow didn't eat, herd total and total feed programmed.
7. Its possible to detect when a cow is getting sick or coming in heat with computer print-out.
8. Automatically divides 24 hour programmed amount into four cycles: EXAMPLE: A cow programmed for 20 pounds of feed will get 5 pounds every 6 hours. It automatically carries any left over ration into the next cycles.
9. Has a battery system with re-charging unit for back-up power to keep memory stored in event of a power failure.
10. Just pushing a few buttons will check, display (and print on tape if desired) each bins activity, a cows record, the computers memory, and other information.
11. Priced lower than any other comparable computerized feeding system on the market.
12. Typewriter keyboard provides for ease of operation and allows programs for future — such as, data storage, milk monitoring and etc.
13. The computer is of high quality built by Rockwell, the prime contractor for the space shuttle Columbia.

Achievement Day Fair

Sonic Sewers; Jodi Zeamer, Mountville Community Club; and Wayne Hess, Red Rose Baby Beef Club.

Mrs. Wilma Boyd, representing Farm Women Society 19 presented food and clothing awards to Jodi Zeamer and Beka Baum, respectively, both of whom are members of the Mountville Community Club.

Scholarships totaling $200 were presented by the Lancaster County Bankers Association to the following: Patricia Pritz, Mountville; Cindy Risser, Leola; Virginia, Millersville; and Martha Trumbauer, Ephrata.

In a surprise presentation, County Council Co-President Jenny Phillips presented Nancy Meyers with a hex sign and a dozen red roses from all 4-H'ers in appreciation for the work she has done in the county. Nancy will be leaving her position in September to go into dairy farming with her husband Rich in New York state.

Other recognition given at the evening program included fashion revue, demonstrations and state achievement winners. During the judging of projects early in the day a Best of Show ribbon was awarded in each category, and these winners were announced and presented with gifts during the evening program.

Judges for the talent contest included Alicia Rush, New Providence, and Sam Taylor, New Era drama critic. The outstanding 4-H Boy and Girl judges were Domma Tommelleo, LANCASTER FARMING newspaper; Renee Mims, 4-H Agent, Dauphin County; and Bob Bucher, Commonwealth National Bank.

Receiving best of show in tasty snacks were these cookies and brownies along with their stylish display.

Bufferflies everywhere. This is the champion entomology exhibit.

Scenes from Missouri

Cowplex Dairy lives up to its name

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

GREENWOOD, Mo. — Milking cows 14 hours a day may not be your idea of a good time, but at Cowplex Dairy, Greenwood, Missouri, that's what it takes to milk 426 cows twice daily, from beginning to clean-up. Milking begins at 11:30 a.m. and 11:30 p.m.

Cowplex is a family corporation owned by Mrs. James A. Reed and Son, David, with the present Cowplex facilities built in 1968 to consolidate three dairies into one. Originally facilities were designed to accommodate 600 milking cows, but the smaller number seems to be optimum.

There is construction underway to replace the eight-stall-by-pass parlor with a double eight herringbone. The new parlor will feature automatic take-offs, flush tanks, back-flush sanitation, feed bowl covers, crowd gate, pre-cooling and energy converters.

The rolling herd average for Cowplex is 15,000 pounds of milk and 540 pounds of fat on WADAM.

Greg Lasser, a Kansas State graduate who is herdsman in charge of herd health and breeding discussed the operation with visitors attending the convention of the National Association of Animal Breeders two weeks ago.

Lasser explained that feeding consists of a total mixed ration. Corn and wheat silage are the main forages along with alfalfa hay and alfalfa haylage. Lasser says everything is fed outside and grain is blended according to the production of each group.

The cows are divided into five groups - super cows, fresh cows, mid-lactation cows, late-lactation cows and dry cows. Lasser explained that super cows and fresh cows are bred artifically, with a "clean-up" bull being used on the mid-lactation cows, including those not yet diagnosed pregnant and greater than 80 days fresh.

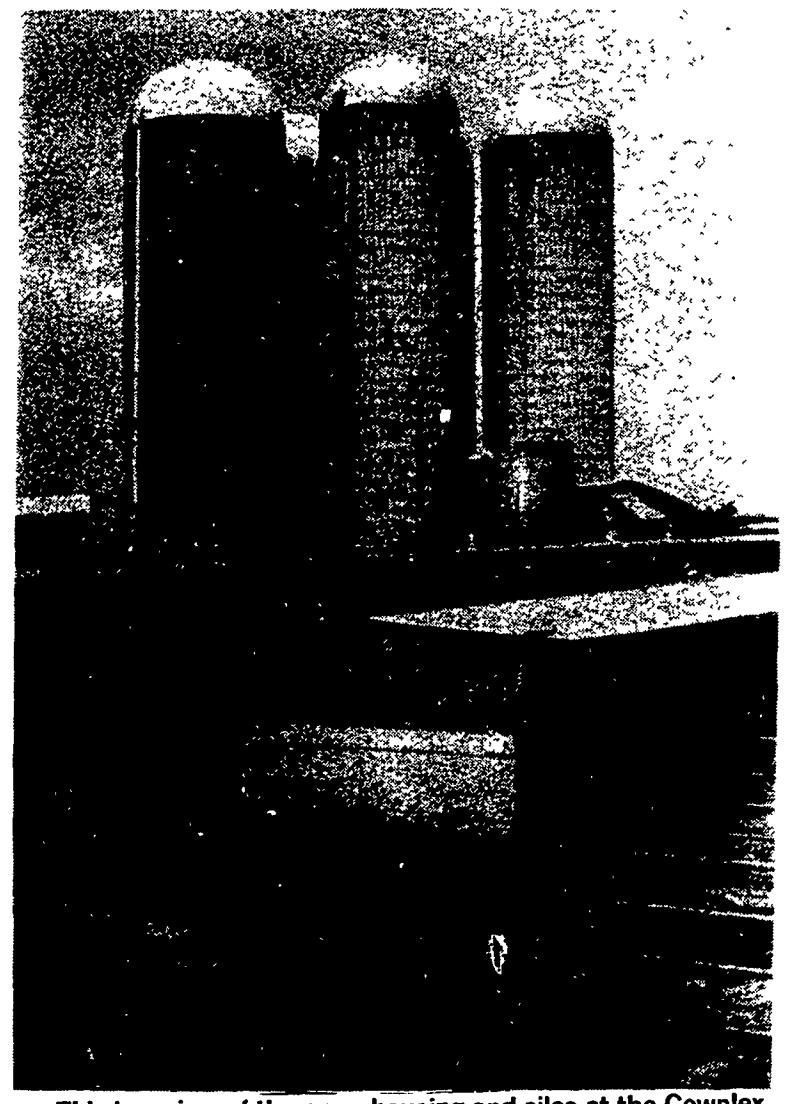
Production enters into the grouping arrangement, with some higher producing cows kept in the AI group or a cow diagnosed pregnant being kept in a higher producing group.

Detecting heat in such a large number of cows requires some effort, and Lasser said that in the AI group heat detection is assisted by cows treated with testosterone proprionate and equipped with a chin-ball marker. These are cows which would have been culled normally for being open, but are in good physical condition with good feet and legs. Conception rate is estimated at 60-65 percent when the heat and humidity are "bearable." Every cow is bred at least once with AI before being moved to a group with bulls.

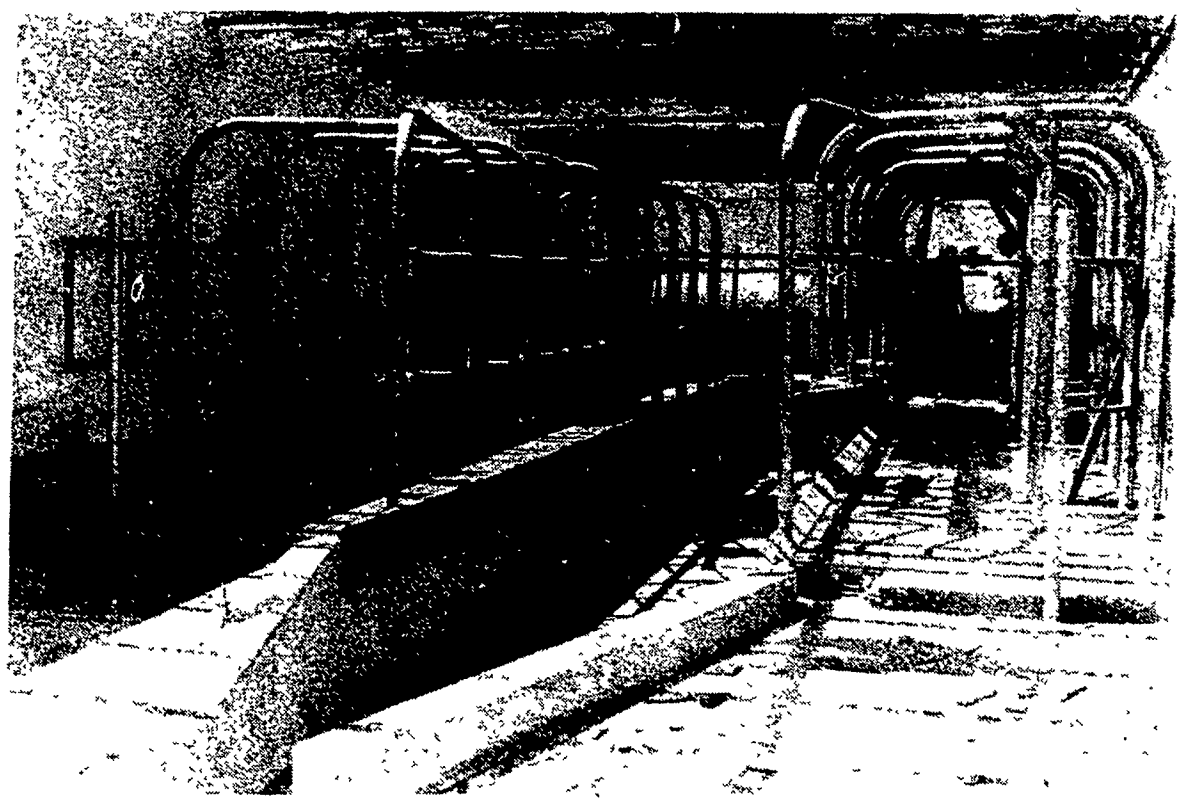
Lasser said they try to do all breeding between 8 a.m. and 12 noon, which is also when there is space available for breeding. He said they try to dry off cows between 45 and 60 days pre-partum.

With 12 full time employees at Cowplex, they raise their own alfalfa as well as wheat and corn silage. They raise oat hay for heifers and brome hay for dry cows. This year's crops consists of 400 acres of corn, 500 acres of wheat, 300 acres of beans, 200 acres of alfalfa and 200 acres of grass hay, with some double cropping. The wheat acreage is about 200 acres above normal because of being "burnt out" in the drought last summer. Most of the grain used is purchased in a complete feed.

Forage testing is done when filling and periodically as it is fed. Lasser said a nutritionist works regularly with them.



This is a view of the open housing and silos at the Cowplex Dairy at Greenwood, Missouri. This large dairy is milking 426 cows, grouped according to production and stage of lactation.



The new milking parlor on the Cowplex Dairy is still under construction.

Cowplex raises all their own replacement heifers and will be changing to raising them in calf hutches.

In 1977, Cowplex built a solids manure separation system to help lessen the solids load on their lagoons. It allows them to process manure in all weather and, after a heating process, to use solids for bedding and freestalls. Some of this product is also merchandised.

A herd of this size could be faced with many problems, but Lasser says the biggest current problem is feet primarily because the wet weather has not allowed them to turn out as much as they normally would. To help care for all those feet and legs, a hoof trimmer comes at regular six month intervals.

When questioned about the financial end of the operation, Charles Dittmer, farm manager, explained that the dairy and the farm are two distinct operations Consequently he said some years, one part of the operation may do better than the other. He added, "For the last five years the dairy business was a good one to be in."

Cowplex received $13.27 for 3.5 milk in June. They ship to Mid-American Dairymen, Inc., with milk hauled each morning from the 4,000 gallon bulk tank.

Milkers are paid about $1,100 to $1,200 a month, with about $750 to $800 of that in salary and the rest in benefits, including housing, full hospitilization and others.

Cowplex is not typical of Missouri dairy farms in that it is a much larger operation. Nevertheless, it is an example of a well-managed herd meeting the challenges of dairying on a large scale.

Shrout Brothers enjoy family operation

INDEPENDENCE, MO. — The spread of suburbia is a problem shared by farmers in many parts of the country and Shrout Brothers Dairy in Independence, Missouri, is no exception.

Located just outside a rapidly expanding Independence, they are in an area of high loss of land to housing. Many of their neighbors have responded to urbanization by bottling their own milk but Shrout Brothers ships their milk to Mid-America Dairymen, Inc. They take advantage of their closeness to people by selling a lot of manure to city farmers and for gardening. They also enjoy a low price for milk hauling.

Shrout Brothers is a family operated unit consisting of Charles and DeWitt Shrout, twin brothers, and Charles's three sons, Charles Jr., David and Norris. David and Norris are responsible for the field work, and Charles Jr., manages the dairy herd. Charles Jr. explained the operation to a group of visitors from the convention of the National Association of Animal Breeders, being held in Kansas City.

The Holstein and Brown Swiss herd has a rolling herd average of 1400 pounds of milk and 500 pounds of fat. They are milked in a double 14 herringbone parlor with automatic take-off units. Three people work in the parlor and milk 300 cows in two hours.

Grain is fed according to production levels of individual cows, with 180 of the herd on a computerized feeding program using six stations. The Rationmaster can feed up to five pounds an hour, up to a pre-determined limit for each cow, and a printout at the end of the day will tell how much each cow ate. The feeding record can also point to illness or indicate when a cow is in heat, according to Shrout. He admits there are some bugs to be worked out of the system.

The Shrouts purchase a 16 percent complete feed, but Shrout noted, "We can grind feed if we want to." Currently they are paying $169 a ton for feed, including delivery. They also feed corn silage and chopped alfalfa grass hay, grinding the hay in a tub grinder.

The family farms 3000 acres of land, in parcels of varying size, with 100 acres of alfalfa and brome grass, 800 acres of wheat, 400 acres of corn, 300 acres of soybean and 500 acres of pasture. They do all their own field work with two full time and four part time helpers in addition to the family. The land, Shrout says, is "worth more than you can afford to farm."

Milk is picked up by Mid-America daily from the two 1500 gallon tanks they use. They are paying $.30 hauling charge per hundred.

This is a totally computerized feeding system which allows a cow to eat up to five pounds at a time up to her total predetermined limit. A printout lists the total amount eaten by the cow.

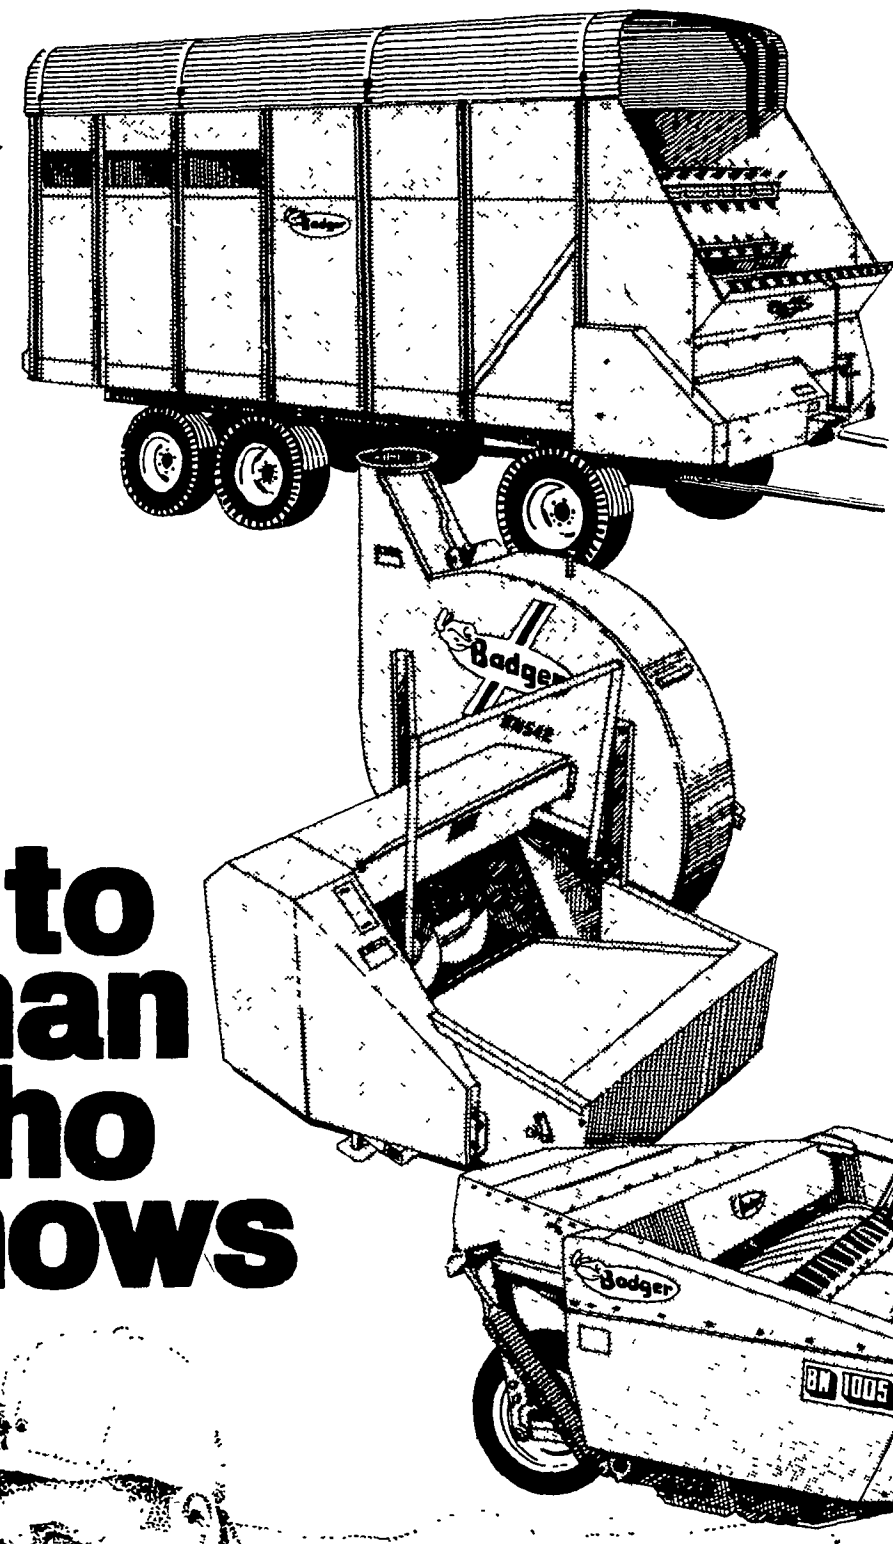
FORAGE HANDLING EQUIPMENT BY BADGER NORTHLAND!

Forage is a major feedstuff in your livestock operation. That's why it's so important to handle it properly...saving every bit of its nutrient value to produce milk and meat.

Badger Northland builds its line of forage handling equipment to help you attain that goal. Each piece of Badger equipment is designed to perform efficiently and with minimum maintenance.

It's also backed by the best dealer parts and service network in the industry. If you're considering purchasing a new forage box, blower or mower/conditioner, see your Badger Dealer and ...

Talk to the man who knows



Badger Boxes keep on working long after others have worn out.

When it comes to forage boxes, nothing can beat a Badger Box Badger builds its own boxes right in Kaukauna, Wisconsin where they maintain rigid quality control

A Badger Box is built with channel side stakes for extra strength and specially treated, exterior grade plywood to resist acids, corrosion, and rot The bolted undercarriage and chain drive are designed to take the toughest punishment.

And Badger Boxes hold their value. At trade-in time many Badger owners are surprised to see their box worth as much as when they bought it new

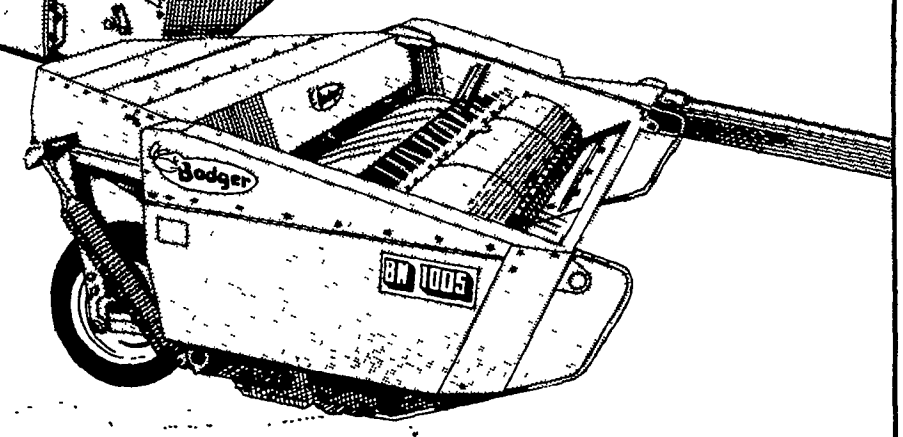
They haven't built a silo that the Badger Northland Blower can't fill.

No matter how high or how big the Badger Blower can fill em all

It s simply the least costly to operate, smoothest running, toughest blower you can buy

The Badger Blower can operate at 540-650 r p m s It will take anything you give it, forage or grain (with little or no cracking) It.ll blow the highest tonnage with the lowest h p And the special Badger magnet catches foreign material before it catches you

Get together with your Badger Dealer today and get ready to fill your big silo



Take it all off with a Badger Northland Mower/Conditioner!

Even in the toughest of conditions, the Badger Mower/Conditioner will perform its "clean cutting" duties like no other, without over conditioning

The Badger Mower/Conditioner will run longer with fewer "u" joints and its adjustable transmission gives great maneuverability Row width can also be adjusted See what it's like to own a mower/conditioner that will spend more time in the field than it does in the shop.

Family operation

Shrouts raise all their own heifers in an environmentally-controlled calf barn. However, Shrout says the high humidity causes some problems. "It gets awfully hot and sticky so we leave the doors open and run fans. The girl who raises the calves takes the time and effort to do it well." He acknowledged that the person in charge of the calves is very important to their well-being.

Bull calves are sold at birth for $125.

One hundred percent AI is used in the milking herd, with cows being observed for heat three or four times daily. Heifers are bred to calve at 24-26 months of age. They select sires on the basis of plus 500 P.D. and plus. 50 on type and fat. Calving interval is 13.6 months and services per conception is 1.9.

Manure is either sold at the farm or hauled back on the land. Shrout says there is a lot of demand for manure by city farmers and local gardeners. Two anaerobic lagoon systems handle lot run off and manure during inclement weather.

The Shrout brothers operation supports five families, having grown from a seven-cow herd in 1939. Charles Shrout, Jr., concludes, "We've come a long way but we have a lot to do."SB

ABS picks Brooks' bull

DE FOREST, WI. — A young Holstein bull, Brooks-Twain Valiant Samson-ET, bred by Walter Brooks, of Springville, has been selected by American Breeders Service to enter their Progeny Testing Program.

He has been moved to that company's facilities at DeForset, Wis., where he will join approximately 135 other bulls being tested this year.

Brooks-Twain Valiant Samson-ET is the result of a specially planned mating between the highly regarded S-W-D Valiant, +240, +1,980M and +69BF and Brooks-Twain Elevation Sara. His dam has production records to 25,085 lbs. of milk, with a Cow Index of +1,227M. She is classified VG-88 and is sired by Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation.

Leon Riegel — Synthea Maas — Tim Trayer — Edgar Sheaffer

If you have a question you would like to have answered by the team of veterinarians at Valley Animal Hospital, Palmyra, and Dr. Tim Trayer, Denver, send it to "Ask the VMD", Lancaster Farming Newspaper, Box 366, Lititz, PA 17543. Questions will be kept anonymous on request.

Wood Product Problems

A reader asks:

I would like to use wood shavings as bedding for my animals. Is there any risk involved with using wood products.

Dr. Trayer comments:

In the past, the answer to this question was that sawdust or wood shavings, used as bedding for either transportation or farrowing, was one of the better products available.

However, since our knowledge is always expanding, the practice of using wood shavings in the farrowing room or when trucking swine has recently come into question as a potential disease carrier.

In the farrowing room situation or where you have sows that are lactating or delivering, the problem has arisen of the isolation of gram negative organisms from the sawdust bedding. These particular organisms can cause the whole MMA syndrome (mastitis metritius agalactica syndrome) or lack of milk in the sows and can also cause uterine discharges which are very unresponsive to treatment. They will probably require culturing to identify a specific antibodic sensitivity. Uterine discharge causes the sows to be predisposed to the MMA syndrome.

This particular gram negative organism was being identified as Kleb siella. This particular organism is a bacteria classified according to its sensitivity to antiseptics. Kleb siella has a ruthless nature to it. It appears to be in all species, and causes drastic responses and results when an overwhelming infection is present.

In the dairy industry, it has been known for a long period of time that sawdust or wood products cause the Kelb siella mastitis which is a particularly hard mastitis to work against.

So it is not surprising to see that, with this latest information, similar problems with wood product-like organisms could exist in the swine industry, or particularly in farrowing rooms from the use of wood product bedding.

The other side of the coin concerning wood products and the hauling of feeder pigs has been a recent case situation in the Midwest. The case involves a swine producer who was driven out of production because of the increasing number of TB-like lesions being found on his slaughter animals.

In this particular case the only thing that could be identified as the source of the TB-like lesions was the exposure in the farrowing room to wood products. Breeding stock could not be identified as the source of TB. So by using a process of elimination, they determined the wood shavings to be the only source potential for the TB-like lesions on the slaughtered swine.

As in the past, our knowledge of the origins, sources, and incidences of TB in swine is still very wide open, as is our knowledge concerning the subject and exactly how it is entering into the herd.

The slaughtering of the animals and the identification of positive animals is still a great economic expense to different producers, and is one area of great concern in the swine industry.

So if one is using wood products as bedding or in the transportation of young feeding stock, producers ought to seriously consider some of the problems or questions being raised about these products. If one has not experienced any farrowing problems or TB problems at slaughter, then the wood products being utilized are suitable. Be aware, however, that potential problems do exist.

Delano visits France

PARK RIDGE, Ill. — Robert B. Delano, president of the three million member-family American Farm Bureau Federation will go to France September 9-11 as a member of the executive committee of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers.

The three-day session in Strasbourg in eastern France near the West Germany border will be the 89th held by the executive committee and will be chaired by Sir Henry Plumb of the United Kingdom, IFAP president.

IFAP, headquartered in Paris, is a voluntary organization of 48 "free world" farmer associations or cooperatives financed and controlled by farmer-members — somewhat analogous to Farm Bureau in their own countries.

The 16-member executive committee—to which Delano was elected at the 24th general conference in Argentina last November—will review the world's agricultural supply, demand, economic and trade situations and make preliminary arrangements for the 25th IFAP general conference slated for London in the spring of 1982.

Proven Dependable Gutter Cleaning

Patz gives you strength plus reliable long-term performance.

Examine the Patz features that provide dependability. Choice of two link sizes to match your needs. Progression forging builds extra strength into hook-and-eye link contact points. Final heat treating increases hardness, strength and wear resistance. Patz links withstand corrosion for long chain life.

Select 2" steel angle flites for solid manure or 4-inch high flites for slurry manure. Flites are welded to Patz links, and steel wear shoes on the flites protect gutter and chain.

Four-tooth drive sprocket drives every link... not every other one or every third one... but, every link. Each sprocket tooth drives each link behind the hook, the link's thickest and strongest point. The 4-tooth drive sprocket reduces stress on the drive unit.

Three drive unit sizes match your gutter length, allow expansion. The 2, 3, 5 and 10 HP capacitor electric motors match one of three drive units for your requirements. You get versatility and flexibility.

V-belt and roller chain reducers start easily. Corner wheel top-and-bottom flanges guide chain around the corner. Examine the many Patz gutter cleaner features that add up to increased reliability.

Buy or lease: Leasing Patz equipment may be more profitable for you. Ask your Patz dealer for details.

Named Grand Champion was Ralph Harris, Tyrone. Herman Espy of Spruce Creek received the Reserve Champion title.

Master Fitter Award went Wendy Espy, Spruce Creek, and Master Showman award went to Gary David, Huntingdon.

An extra feature for young showers was the presenation of the First Year Showman Award. This coveted title went to Don LeCrome of Huntingdon.

Hannawald is SCS agronomist

COLLEGE PARK, Md — James Hannawald, 38, has been appointed conservation agronomist for the USDA's Soil Conservation Service serving Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey.

Hannawald will be responsible for overseeing the SCS plant materials program, providing technical assistance to their field offices and for reviewing environmental assessments and impact statements. He will be stationed here.

Formerly SCS district conservationist for Caroline County, Hannawald earned a bachelor's degree in agronomy from the University of Maryland in 1968. Born in Missouri, he grew up in Prince Georges County, MD. His interest in agriculture started as a youngster when he worked summers on relatives' farms in Missouri.

He worked for six years on herbicide research for turf and forage crops at the USDA's Agricultural Research Center in Beltsville while attending the university. After graduation he worked with their air pollution research group for about six months.

In July 1968, he joined SCS as a soil conservationist in Harford County. He also served in that capacity in St. Mary's and Caroline Counties before becoming district conservationist in 1973.

Wasson tops Central FFA dairy show

BEAVER SPRINGS — A senior two year old owned by Douglas Wasson, Centre Hall, topped the Holstein division of the Central District Dairy show held here on August 14.

The champion cow, Milu Dulse Mae, is a Wis Magician Gray View daughter. Her dam is Milu Statesman Francey and she was bred by Melvin G. Miller.

Four other breeds of dairy cattle were also exhibited at the show. The top winner in the Ayrshire division was an intermediate calf, Treaster End Mindy, owned by Annette Wert, Milroy.

Topping the Brown Swiss division was a four year old owned by Jeffery Martz, Dalmatia, named Shady Creek Crystal Cindy. Martz also had the champion Guernsey with another four year old, Hammer Creek View Lily.

An eight year old Tory Falcon Ivy daughter was named grand champion of the Jersey division at the show. The cow, Surville Ivy Irma, is owned by Edward Houtz, Bellefonte.

USDA task force evaluates packers and stockyards regs

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A U.S. Department of Agriculture task force has recommended several changes that would ease the regulatory burden on the livestock, meat and poultry industries regulated by the Packers and Stockyards Administration.

This is the first phase of an overall review of regulations and policies issued under the Packers and Stockyards Act scheduled to be completed by September 30, 1983, according to James L. Smith, PSA acting administrator.

"The task force, comprised of USDA officials with the Packers and Stockyards Administration and the Office of the General Council, was established early this year to recommend modifications to minimize the regulatory burdens on the livestock, meat and poultry industries," Smith said.

Smith said the agency will make strong efforts to get comments on the task force's recommendations from livestock producer groups, affected industries, state departments of agriculture and interested people before formally publishing proposed changes in the Federal Register.

Some of the task force's recommendations include:

—Deletion of the policy statement barring meat packers from using "point promotion" programs to induce patronage. Under such programs, meat packers award points to customers who can then redeem them from gift catalogues.

—Exemption from the bonding requirements for dealers and market agencies whose annual purchases do not exceed $500,000.

—Extension of the time allowed for market agencies to reimburse their custodial accounts for uncollected receivables, from the present three days following the sale of consigned livestock to seven days. A custodial account is a form of trust account required by regulation to insure the prompt payment of funds owed to consignors of livestock.

—Consolidation and simplification of regulations involving trade practices, poultry, tariffs, and scales and weighing activities.

The Packers and Stockyards Act is a fair trade practices law administered by the Packers and Stockyards Administration. It promotes fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, meat and poultry.

N.J. firm loses license over watermelons

NEW YORK, N.Y. — B & E Produce, Inc., Newark, N.J., has had its produce trading license revoked by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for failing to pay a reparation award of $3,288 for watermelons shipped during July, 1980.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, which licenses produce firms under the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act, had charged the firm with failing to pay the agreed price to a North Carolina shipper.

Charles Brader, marketing official with AMS, said the firm had been given an opportunity to answer the charges but had failed to do so. Therefore USDA ordered payment of the amount claimed.

The firm is ineligible to conduct business subject to the act until the award is paid. The firm's sole officer, director, and stockholder—Peggie Stackhouse Greer—may not be employed by or affiliated with any PACA licensee without USDA approval.

Under PACA, all interstate traders in fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables must be licensed by USDA. USDA is authorized to suspend or revoke a trader's license for violating the act.

Clinton livestock 4-H sale brings $27 grand

MILL HALL — When the grand champion livestock crossed the auction block during the Clinton Country Fair and 4-H Round-Up sale, it was evident this was going to be a "boom" year for young Greg Connor, R1 Mill Hall. This top stockman exhibited all three species' champs — steer, lamb, and hog — along with the reserve champion steer.

Conner's grand champion steer, weighed 1230 pounds and was purchased by Ellis Warner of the Big Wrangler Steak House, Lock Haven for $2.11 per pound.

His reserve grand champion steer weighed 1032 pounds. It was purchased by Dr. William R. Edwards, General Dentistry, 308 North Vesper Street, Lock Haven for $1.55 per pound. Dr. Edwards also purchased Connor's grand champion hog, a 237-pound animal, for $4 per pound.

Crissman, Inc., Castanea purchased the grand champion lamb, a 117-pound animal also owned by Connor, for $2.36 per pound.

The reserve champion lamb, owned by Kim Conner, was purchased by Clintondale Mills for $1.66 per pound.

Reserve grand champion hog was shown by Lyndon Yearick, Mill Hall. It weighed 225 pounds and was sold to Albright's Feed Mill, Mill Hall for $1.82 per pound.

Thirty eigth buyers spent $27,538.08 for 65 market animals at the 4-H Livestock Auction on Saturday night at the Clinton County Fair and 4-H Round-Up. Auctioneer for the sale was Bill Tressler, Mill Hall.

The grand champion market lamb was another entry shown by Greg Connor. To his sales purse of steer cash, Greg added the contribution of Ruth M. Crissman, Inc., wholesale packers in Castanea. The lamb weighed 117 pounds and brought $2.36 per pound.

The reserve champion 4-H market lamb at the 4-H Livestock Auction was purchased by Clintondale Mills, R3 Mill Hall. The 98-pound lamb was shown by Kim Connor, R1 Mill Hall and sold for $1.66 per pound. Shown with Kim and her lamb is Mrs. David Johnson of Clintondale Mills.

Greg Connor, also exhibited the reserve grand champion 4-H Steer. The 1032-pound steer was purchased by Dr. William R. Edwards, 308 N. Vesper St., Lock Haven for $1.55 per pound. With Greg are Edwards' children, William Jr. and Suzanne.

Rounding out his winning streak, Connor showed the 237-pound grand champion market hog which sold to Dr. William Edwards for $4 a pound.

Lyndon Yearick, R2 Mill Hall, right, sold his reserve grand champion 4-H Market hog for $1.82 per pound to Albright's Feed Mill, Mill Hall. The animal weighed 225 pounds. Shown with Lyndon is Dennis Hoffman, of Albright's Feed Mill.

Grand Champion 4-H Steer in the Clinton County 4-H Livestock Auction, owned by Greg Connor, R1, Mill Hall was purchased by Ellis Warner of The Big Wrangler Steak House, Hogan Boulevard, Lock Haven for $2.11 per pound. Shown with Connor and his 1230-pound steer are Mr. & Mrs. Ellis Warner.

Oley seeks to preserve its ag past

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

OLEY — More than 80 residents of Oley Township interested in preserving their hertiage and fertile farmland attended a public meeting Tuesday evening conducted by the Oley Township Resource Conservation Project.

Held at Friedens Lutheran Church, Route 73, Oley, the meeting was primarily about the progress and findings of an agricultural survey conducted within the township in March, 1980. The conservation project of Oley was selected by the National Trust for Historic Preservation as a model for their Rural Project, just begun last year.

The goals of the project include the collection and documentation of information on the community's agricultural, scenic, natural and historic assests in the hopes that this information will help Oley's citizens develop a realistic plan that will help conserve Oley's rural environment.

The National Trust is assisting the project with the added assistance of the Berks County Conservancy, helping it's residents identify and collect information on it's resources and assets.

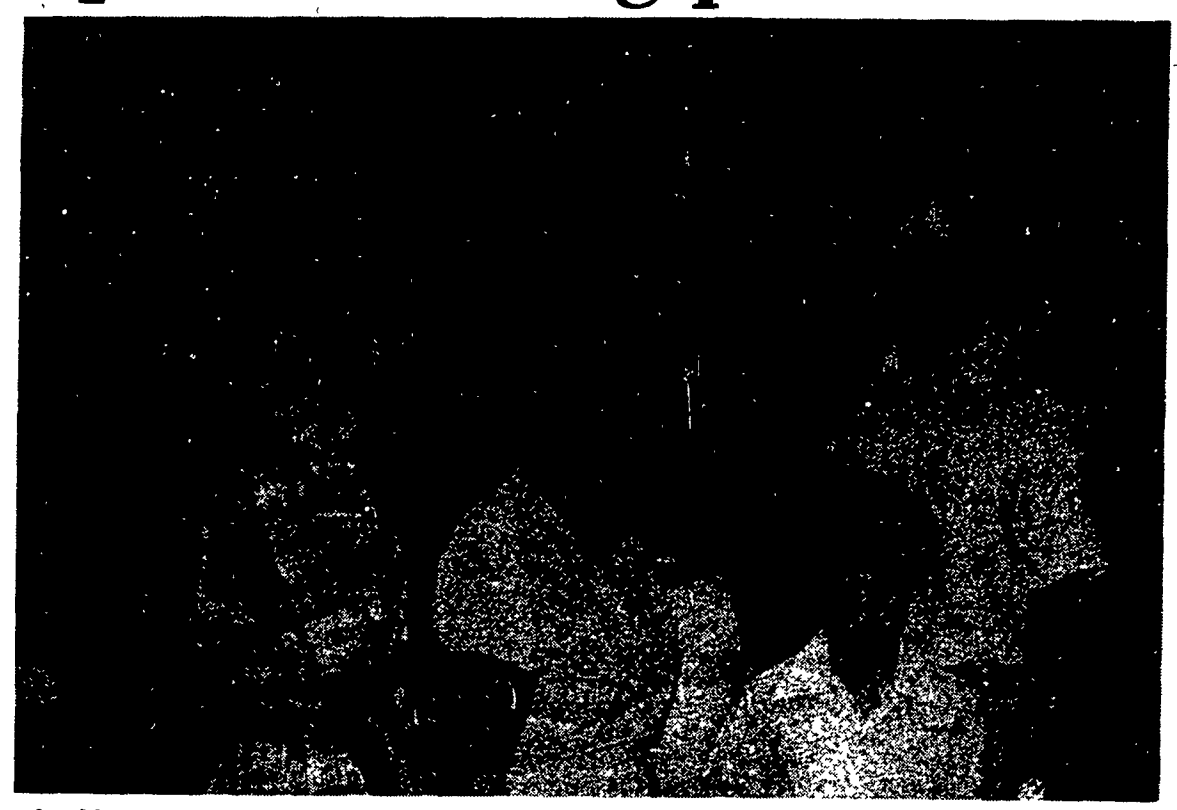
Farm Inventory

The survey discussed during the recent meeting was conducted by the agricultural resources subcommittee to take inventory of the farmland within the township. This included the number of farms, acres of cropland and types of crops produced, including the numbers and kinds of livestock raised. Also surveyed were the problems and needs of the farmers within the township and their feelings on ways to insure a healthy, rural future.

Of the 112 landowners of 20 or more acres within the township, 93 responded to the survey. Andrew Glick, chairman of the agricultural resource committee was very pleased with this response of 83 percent. He commented that it was a good indication that the residents of the township were concerned about the future of agriculture in the township.

The survey also identified the number of landowners actively engaged in farming or renting their land and the different age groups of the farmers. The results indicated that 68 percent of the land owners farmed their land while the remaining rented it out. Only four percent of the active farmers in the township were under 30 years of age, causing some concern amoung the committee members, since 26 percent were over the age of 65.

Also emphasized during the meeting were the number of generations which have farmed the same land. The survey revealed that over half — 55 percent of the farms — were only in the family for one generation and 27 percent were in the family for two generations, totaling 82% of the farms. At three generations the number decreased to six percent; four generations to five percent and five generations were on the same farm in only one percent of the cases surveyed.



Looking over map for Oley farmland preservation project are, from the left, Elizabeth Watson, field representative from National Trust Rural Project; Hilda Fisher, project chairman; Garrett Brinton, executive director of Berks County Conservancy; Andrew Glick and son, Timothy.

Troubling Question

This raised the question troubling farmers for years, of how farms can be kept in families or even more importantly, how can the residents of the township keep the farms in agricultural production, when the land is being pressured by urbanization, and as in Oley's case, also quarrying. As Glick noted, the land will eventually change hands, much of it in the next 20 years and who will be the deed holders?

The survey also indicated that 11 percent of the farmers in the township only rented the land, two of them being under thirty, or half of that age group. And of the active farmers, 73 percent farmed as their main occupation while the rest were part-time farmers.

Other important points of the survey revealed that well over 80% of the landowners wanted their

EXCITING NEW CONCEPT FOR SAFETY & COMFORT "THE SEAT BAR"

Multi-purpose padded seat bar is in place at top of cab. When operator is seated, he fastens seat belt before pulling down seat bar. Rear window serves as emergency exit, if necessary.

Seat bar allows adequate body clearance for range of operator sizes. Bar is quickly, easily pulled down by hand and secured at waist level, providing additional restraint protection that prevents operator from falling forward.

With bar in place, spring lock is disengaged, activating foot pedals which operate loader hydraulics. Foot pedals are locked when bar is in "UP" position, preventing lift arms from moving.

Oley

property to stay in farming if they decided not to keep it, and 91 percent felt that there is a need to preserve farming in Oley.

Asked if they have experienced adverse effects form development, 35% of the land owners said yes. The problems experienced were of three categories; people problems such as vandalism, theft, litter, traffic and trespassing; quarry problems, such as loss of water from springs and streams, sinkholes, blasting damage, loss of farmland, and an eyesore; and development problems, which included sewer, high tension lines, high land cost, loss of farmland, neighboring developments and pressure to sell land.

Theft Problem

In a question pertaining to problems generated away from farms, but at them, farmers revealed that 34.4 percent have had problems with theft, 26.8 percent have had problems with vandalism and ten percent have had complaints about noise or odor.

When asked for suggestions of ways to preserve farming in Oley, answers also came back in three categories. The first was legislative way which included zoning, agricultural districts, transfer of development rights, and tax incentives. In the personal category ideas such as specialized farming, deed restrictions, easements, and owners only selling their land for farming. Under community, low interest loans to farmers, incentives for starting farming, fair market prices and public awareness were mentioned.

Also noted but not included as data in the survey was that in Oley township, farmers were only nine percent of the taxpayers but owned 72 percent of the land.

Following the discussion of the survey, an educational film strip entitled "The Only Essential Industry" was shown to the audience. The film looked at several alternatives that other farmland communities are doing to preserve their valuable farmland, and what the governments, statewide and federally have been trying to accomplish.

The film also stressed the importance of agriculture to our nation's balance of trade. It was noted that about one million acres of farmland is being lost each year to urbanization and another two million acres of land of lesser quality is also being lost. This is equivalent to 320 acres of land every hour.

Plans to Preserve

The committee plans to use this information, gathered by through the survey to help them devise plans for preserving their agricultural wealth and heritage.

Other sub-committees of the project are Community involvement, chaired by Mrs. R.K. LeVan; Land Use, chaired by Fred J. Goodhart; Natural resources, Loran Hopkins; and Visual Resources, Kenneth Haas. Mrs. Frank Fisher is chairman of the entire project. The project also has hired a part-time assistant to coordinate all five committees, she is Phoebe Hopkins.

Elizabeth Watson, a field director from the National Trust also spends several days each month with the project volunteers, offering guidance and help to plan community resources and to set objectives.

In a recent news letter sent to boxholders of Oley Township, the conservation project committee noted that one of it's key concerns was to develop measures to help protect the community's outstanding architecture, within the villages of Oley and Pleasantville, and in the rural outlying areas as with the stone barns and houses. The committee hopes to have the area nominated to the National Register of Historic Places. Already three sites in Oley are registered.

Protect Area

These are two covered bridges and the Fisher House. By having the area nominated to the National Register they hope to protect the area from federally funded projects that may be detrimental to the area as it stands today. As well as being a matter of pride and prestige.

Also being proud of their citizens, the committee introduced Berks County's Dairy Priness at the meeting since she is a resident of the area. Betty Jean Hock described some of the many activities she has been involved in as dairy princess and stressed the need for consumers to reach for the real seal. The dairy princess did a skit about milk and had several pictures depicting how milking has evolved from the hand and pail to the modern milking parlors of today.

Deadline for crop insurance purchase nears

ORWIGSBURG — Farmers in most Pennsylvania counties can now obtain subsidized Federal Crop Insurance against a partial or total loss of their 1982 wheat and barley crops according to Bill Foose, district director for Eastern Pennsylvania.

Insurance on fall crops are being offered for the first time in the counties of Bradford, Bucks, Carbon, Columbia, Delaware, Juniata, Lackawanna, Lehigh, Luzerne, Lycoming, Monroe, Montgomery, Montour, Northampton, Pike, Schuylkill, Snyder, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga, Union, and Wayne. These counties are part of the nationwide expansion of Crop Insurance authorized by Congress in the Crop Insurance Act of 1980.

A key feature of the insurance program, which is designed to replace the ASCS disaster payments program, is that the government pays up to 30 percent of the premium cost. Another important feature is the opportunity it provides for growers to choose the amount of protection they want to carry, Foose points out.

It's possible to purchase a policy that guarantees 50 percent, 65 percent, or 75 percent of the local average yield. Policyholders can also select the price per bushel they want to be paid in the event of a loss. The choices are $2.50, $3.50, and $4.50 for wheat and $2.00, $2.25, and $2.60 for barley.

Foose offers this illustration on how the insurance works.

"In an area where the average wheat yield has been 45 bushels, farmers can elect to carry a policy that guarantees 22.5 bushels, 29.5 bushels, or 34.0 bushels. If a grower chooses the maximum guarantee of 34 bushels per acre and the maximum price of $4.50, an indemnity of $4.50 for each bushel of yield below 34 bushels per acre is paid. Thus in the event of a total crop loss, the indemnity would be $153 per acre.

Because of higher production costs and last year's drought losses, Foose points out most policyholders are choosing insurance that protects their entire production investment. Others are carrying enough insurance to guarantee the amount of income needed to meet specific financial obligations, such as the repayment of bank loans or land rental payments.

The deadline to apply for 1982 Fall Crop Insurance in Pennsylvania counties is September 30. Federal All-Risk Crop Insurance policies can be purchased from local FCIC representatives or from private insurance agents. Wherever purchased, the protection and cost are the same. Information may also be obtained from county ASCS offices.

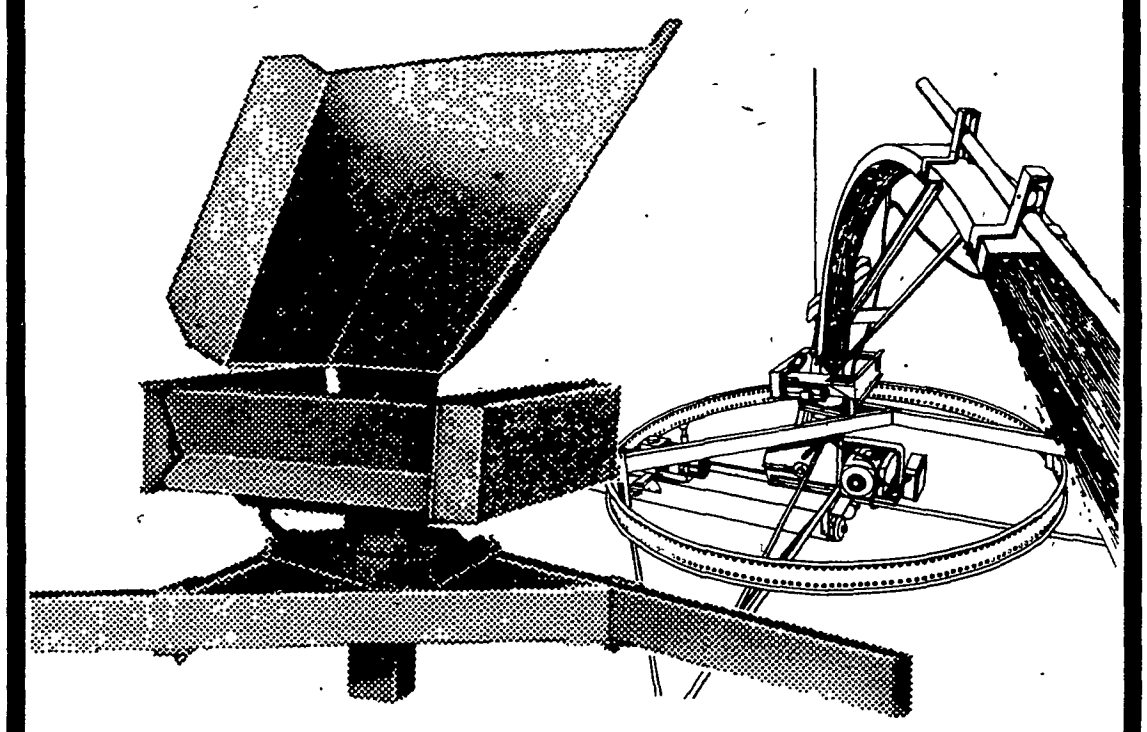
Volumatic® III
silage distributor-unloader
by JAMESWAY®



Quick change-over

Another reason why all ring-drive silo unloaders are not alike: Two machines in one. Power distributor delivers silage evenly during filling for better compaction, more silo capacity. Easily changes from filling to feeding, in minutes. Distributor stores in bracket, out of the way, during unloading.

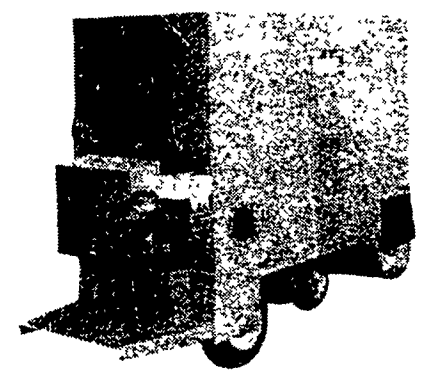
WIC MOTORIZED SILAGE WAGON WITH HYDROSTATIC SPEED CONTROL



A GREAT IMPROVEMENT ON EFFICIENCY

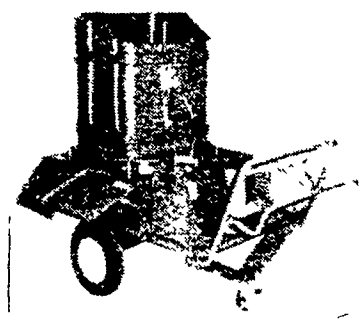
The NEW Hydra-static speed control gives you a choice of speeds from slow to fast. With a touch of the pedal the wagon moves forward or backward; release the pedal and it automatically brakes. You also have a regular feed discharge or a 40-inch high discharge from one or two sides. The WIC Silage Wagon is operated by gas or electric and available in 30-, 45- or 52-bushel sizes. With the 16-inch wheels it goes wherever you want to take it.

★ Electric of Gas Operated

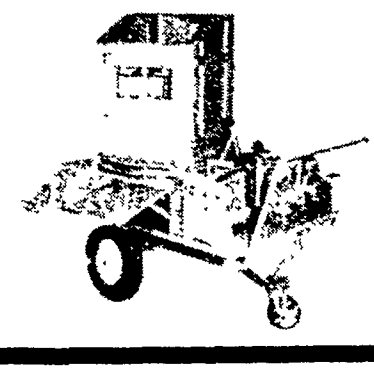
★ Regular Feed Discharge or 40" High Feed Discharge

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT ON EFFICIENCY

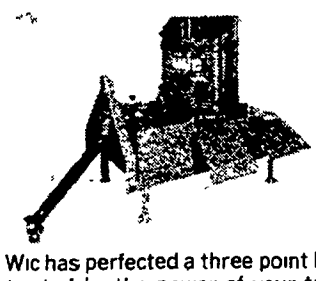
No Competitor Can Beat The Wic Choppers For Performance And Cost



ELECTRIC BEDDING CHOPPER
Wic also makes an electric 200 volt a.c chopper or a 24 volt d c battery operated chopper including an automatic charger These two models are equipped in the factory with a manual starter panel and are protected by fuses to diminish risk of accidents
Very quiet, these bedding choppers are mostly used on small or medium sized farm As well as being mobile the 220 volt a c model can be installed stationary Motor 220 volt a c 3 h p 24 volt d c 21/2 h p



GAS BEDDING CHOPPER
The gas powered bedding chopper is the most popular on the market It's operation is simple and it handles easily Equipped with a Honda 4-stroke gas engine the Wic bedding chopper insures maximum out put while in use
Motor 5 7 or 10 h p, 4 stroke Honda
Starter 5 h p manual and 7 and 10 h p manual or electric start



POWER TAKE OFF BEDDING CHOPPER
Wic has perfected a three point hitch PTO chopper activated by the power of your tractor Easy to install, it is ideal for free-stalls, or in strawberry fields for mulching purposes.

ELMER is one of the top bulls of the breed for MILK and TEST. ELMER is also plus for type. ELMER daughters are tall, and stretchy. ELMER daughters also have snug fore udders, high wide rear udders, wide rumps, correct rear legs, fine dispositions, milking speed, and feet and pasturns. If you want to improve the profitability of your herd ask your ABS Representative to use ELMER.

Almanac available

LANCASTER — Carrots are among the easiest vegetables to grow, all beets are not red, and roses need sun at least half the day, according to Baer's Agricultural Almanac for 1982.

The new edition, now availble, is a vertiable cornucopia of tips and lore for gardeners and farmers-with a lot of other information as well.

Here are some more items from the 157th annual Almanac, an Ace Books paperback:

Folklore says trees will bear better if you wish them a Happy New Year.

Asparagus is never in a hurry-plants must grow three years before harvesting.

If you are an indoor gardener, don't overwater your plants; the people in the apartment below may complain about a leaky ceiling.

Baer's Agricultural Almanac, based in Lancaster, has been dispensing green thumb wisdom since 1825.

Among anniversaries it notes in 1982 are these:

Amelia Earhart became the first woman to fly the Atlantic alone in 1932.

"America" was first sung in public on July 4, 1832.

George Washington was born 250 years ago, in 1732.

The Almanac tells how to make a gingerbread house for grandchildren at Christmas; what to do if a bee flies into your car; and how to be sure wood stoves are safe.

It tells where to get free booklets on food, gardening, and traveling in Indiana; how to live longer (with 7 rules), and who invented the electric fan (Dr. Schuyler Skaats Wheeler).

Weather predictions, planting guides, fishing calendars, poetry and humor are also included. If your dealer has no supply, order from Baer's, Box 328, Lancaster, PA 17603; $2.00 postpaid.

Tractors, combines, plows, stock trailers, milking machines, balers, front-end loaders, planters... it's the language of farm equipment. And you've got to speak it to succeed.

We speak Farm Equipment.

We make all kinds of short term loans to farmers for equipment purchases, operating expenses, whatever you need for your operation. We're farmer-owned and farmer-controlled. We know what you're up against.

Five breeds exhibited at Susquehanna dairy show

BEAVER SPRINGS — Five breeds of dairy cattle were shown at the recent Central Susquehanna Youth Dairy Show, held here on August 13.

The top Ayrshire went to a three year old owned by William Mummey,, Sunbury, named Star's Skippy.

Topping of the Brown Swiss show was an eight year old owned by Arthur Wolfe of Sunbury. The cow, Leondale Lilason Blanche Betty, is a Worvic Lilason's Beautician daughter.

West Malta Deacons Lori, owned by Jeffrey Martz, Dalmatia, topped the Guernsey division. The senior two year old, was bred and is owned by Maltz.

Judi Troxell, Middleburg, topped the Jersey division with another senior two year old. Her cow, M.V.F. Sterling Cathy, is Wildernes A.S.M. Sterling daughter.

Rounding out the champions at the Central Susquehanna Dairy Show was an eight year old cow, owned by Jean LeVan, Milton. The cow, Wynding-Brook Elevation Ella, was named the champion cow after placing over 125 other Holsteins entered.

More results from the annual show include:

Hunting licenses on sale now

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania hunting and trapping licenses for 1981-82 seasons are on sale throughout the Commonwealth. The new licenses will be valid from September 1, 1981, through August 31, 1982.

Licenses are available from county treasurers and local issuing agents. They are also available by mail or in person from the Pennsylvania Game Commission, License Station, P.O. Box 1567, Harrisburg, PA 17120.

The cost of a resident license for youngsters 12 through 16 years of age is $5.25; a resident adult license for hunters 17 through 64 years of age costs $8.25; adult licenses for resident senior citizens 65 years of age and older cost $5.25 each; the cost of a nonresident license, regardless of age, is $60.50; an archery license costs $2.20; and a flintlock muzzleloader license costs $3.25.

Hunters are reminded that persons applying for Pennsylvania resident hunting licenses need positive "proof" of residency. Since many nonresidents have motor vehicle operator's licenses from Pennsylvania, a Pennsylvania "driver's license" is not considered to be a positive "proof" of residency.

The following can be used to establish "proof" of residency: (a) a current Pennsylvania motor vehicle REGISTRATION card; (b) tax receipts evidencing payment of Pennsylvania state income tax, earned income tax, or other tax receipts evidencing payment of personal taxes required of Commonwealth residents; (c) a Pennsylvania operator's license when presented with other positive identification showing a corresponding Pennsylvania address; or (d) some other positive means of verifying residency.

The 1981-82 Pennsylvania Hunting and Trapping Digest is being issued with each hunting license.

The 56-page booklet with a light blue cover contains information on 1981-82 seasons and bag limits, maps and dates for special hunting areas, a general summary of hunting laws and regulations, and numerous other items of interest to sportsmen.

Spring gobbler harvest

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania game protectors indicate the harvest of turkey gobblers during the spring season in May of this year was the second best on record.

The 1981 harvest of bearded birds was put at 3,586 by game protectors. This compares with 3,716 in 1980, which was the all-time high.

This year the season seemed to get off to a somewhat slower start than in the past, but hunters apparently scored consistently throughout the season, ending up with a good harvest.

Game protectors' harvest figures are not the number of birds that are actually taken, but only indicators or trends in harvests of bearded birds. Game Commission studies show that the numbers of birds which are estimated taken are only about one-third of the actual harvest.

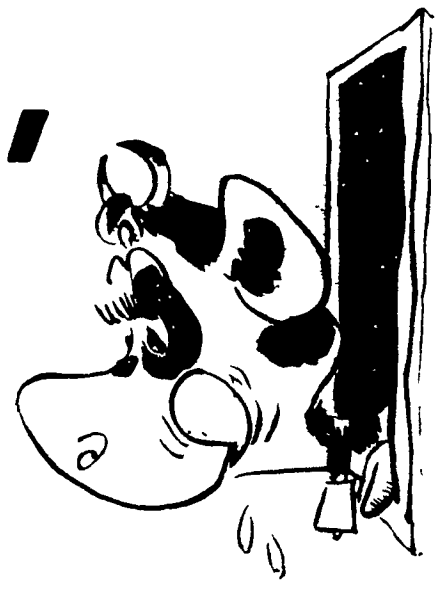
"MILK POWER" TWINS



Hi-O Cow Chow 36

Purina Dairy scientists have produced many outstanding Dairy rations through the years, but none offer a greater milk-making potential than Hi-O Cow Chow 36. This "super performing" supplement contains 36% protein. When mixed with grains according to Purina Research approved formulas it produces a "super" energy milking ration.

It is the unique scientific blending of a carefully calculated balance of proteins, minerals, vitamins and extra high energy milk-making ingredients that provides Hi-O Cow Chow 36 with its unusual power to produce extra milk.

Use Hi-O Cow Chow 36 for on-the-farm mixing or let your Purina dealer Check-R-Mix a Purina milking ration for you containing Hi-O Cow Chow 36. He has specific formulas to make a quality milking ration with the right protein level to fit your roughages and your herd.

Cow Chow 36BF II

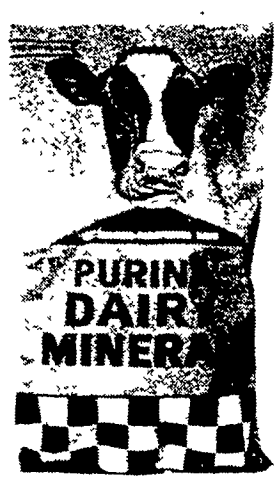
To Minimize Butterfat Problems

Purina Cow Chow BF II is the concentrate to use for top feeding with high moisture corn or in your grind and mix rations when you have a depressed butterfat problem.

It helps minimize butterfat depression while providing the balanced nutrition needed to produce a nutritionally balanced milking ration for maximum milk production.

Use Cow Chow BF II in rations to be fed to cows consuming over 25 pounds of milking ration per cow per day or eating more than 8 pounds of concentrate per cow daily.

Grind and mix rations made with Cow Chow BF II should be fed according to your roughage program.



PURINA® DAIRY MINERAL

16% CALCIUM
16% PHOSPHORUS

Plus: Sodium, Chlorine, Magnesium, Sulphur, Potassium, Iron, Copper, Cobalt, Iodine, Zinc, Manganese, Selenium.

Per 50 Lb. Bag*

Purina Dairy Mineral is formulated especially for cows on grass pasture, hay or haylage and for cows on a heavy feeding program of corn or sorghum silage. All of there roughages are low in calcium as well as phosphorus. It is very important to feed with them a mineral mixture with a 1:1 calcium-phosphorus ration, to supply both elements. Purina Dairy Mineral has a 1:1 calcium phosphorus ratio, plus all the other essential minerals.

PURINA® DAIRY PHOS MINERAL

0% CALCIUM
16% PHOSPHORUS

Plus: Sodium, Chlorine, Magnesium, Sulphur, Potassium, Iron, Copper, Cobalt, Iodine, Zinc, Manganese, Selenium.

Per 50 Lb. Bag*

Purina Dairy Phos Mineral is formulated to provide cows with the phosphorus they need when they are getting a high calcium, low phosphorus forage such as alfalfa, clover or other legume pasture, hay, haylage or citrus pulp. Dairy Phos Mineral contains 0% calcium, 16% phosphorus and all the rest of the essential trace mineral elements. Dairy Phos Mineral is the product of choice whenever the calcium to phosphorus ratio in the total ration is greater than 2.2:1.

* Prices quoted are typical for week of August 24, 1981 and are subject to change without notice
